JAPAN PROPOSES CUT IN U. S. CRUISERS TO 15; FRENCH SET TONNAGE

WIDE GULF IS SEEN BETWEEN ESTIMATES

Tardieu Indicates Two New Battleships Are to Be Built.

AMITY FOR AMERICA AND BRITAIN VOICED

Italian Delegates Describe Program as "Wanton" and "Aggressive."

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Feb. 12 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Delegates to the parley to reduce sea armaments in which the world's five strongest naval powers are engaged here cleared their decks today for major diplomatic engagements in which they will fire tonnage claims and counterclaims at one another with all the deadly earnestness of battle fleets hurling shells.

Today's preliminaries to the conflict which promises to fill ensuing weeks at the London naval conference were marked by an arresting Japanese proposal that the United States content herself with fifteen big cruisers, instead of the eighteen envisioned in the tentative Anglo-American parity agreement, and formal public statement by France that she wants a fleet of 724,479 tons by the end of the year 1936, this tonnage to include two new battleships as powerful as Germany's Ersatz Preussen and that vessel's contemplated successor.

While France and Japan were laying their tonnage cards on the conference table, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was telling the House of Commons that Great Britain is content with a total of 50 cruisers because of the faith his nation places in the effectiveness of the Kellogg-Briand pact for the outlawry of war.

Future Fleets Discussed.

Later in the day the British premier, the American Secretary of State and the French premier, heads of their countries' delegations to the five-power parley, got down to the bedrock of discussion on the size and power of future fleets.

Japan's important proposal regarding the strength of the American cruiser fleet was privately made to Senator David A. Reed, of the American delegation, by Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira. The formal statement of the stand of the Japanese delegation at this conference, made public today by former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki, was couched in general terms. One feature of this public statement was pleasing to the American delegation—the omission of Japan's claim to 70 per cent of the American cruiser strength. It seems probable that more concrete Japanese proposals will be made following the Japanese elections, to be held eight days hence.

Overshadowing in importance all of today's public developments—including a French pledge to Great Britain and the United States that war with them is "unthinkable"—are the remarkable series of alternative figures by which Japan suggests regulating the size of the Japanese and American fleets. These figures, handed by Ambassador Matsudaira to Senator Reed last night, were obtained by the New York World News Service tonight.

Wide Gulf Is Indicated.

They indicate an extremely wide gulf between Japanese requirements and the American suggestions to Japan as made by Secretary of State Stimson last week to former Premier Wakatsuki.

Japan has submitted two sets of figures to the United States and has, in effect, asked the American delegation to take its choice.

In the first series, Japan asks the United States to cut three 10,000-ton, 8-inch gun cruisers from her announced 18 and leave Japan 12 of these craft, composed of eight 10,000-ton cruisers and four of the Kako class of 7,100 tons each carrying six 8-inch guns against ten 10-inch guns of the Washington treaty cruisers.

Japan then suggests that the United States Navy have 177,000 tons of smaller cruisers against 101,000 tons for herself; 150,000 tons of American destroyers against 105,000 tons of Japanese, and 80,000 tons of American submarines against 78,000 tons of Japanese.

Alternative Proposal Made.

Then follows an alternative proposal based on the assumption that the United States will not cut three 8-inch gun cruisers from her announced eighteen. If America demands eighteen cruisers totaling 180,000 tons, Japan asks 126,000 tons in this class. In this case, Japan suggests that the United States reduce her small cruiser fleet to 147,000 tons

UNITED STATES.

On February 6, Secretary Stimson issued a statement summing up the naval aims of the United States based upon immediate parity with Great Britain in every class of ship, the gross tonnage of the two fleets being substantially 1,200,000 tons apiece.

In battleships the United States suggested equalization of the two fleets by 1931 instead of 1942. In destroyers and aircraft carriers the United States suggested equality of tonnage and in submarines the lowest tonnage possible.

On the debated cruiser question the United States suggested an arrangement whereby the actual difference would be 12,000 tons. Of the larger cruisers the United States would have eighteen and Great Britain fifteen, giving the United States an advantage of 30,000 tons. Of the smaller cruisers great Britain would have an advantage of 42,000 tons. Each nation would have the option of building to the exact figures of the other if desired.

The American suggestion to Japan would produce an "overall" relation not based upon the same ratio in every class of ship.

BOARD OF TRADE HIT IN CROSBY WRANGLE

Simmons, on House Floor, Defends Hoover Choice for Commissioner.

BROWN ALSO IS UPHELD

President Hoover's selection of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby as District Commissioner was defended in the House yesterday by Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska.

At the same time, Mr. Simmons indicated that he would defend the appointment of Herbert D. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, if he is chosen to serve with Gen. Crosby.

The selection of Gen. Crosby was unanimously approved at a meeting of the Forest Hills Citizens Association last night.

Representative Simmons, who is chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee, that handles the District budget, and who himself was an Army officer in the World War, assailed the Washington Board of Trade for its fight against Gen. Crosby.

He pointed out that Edward J. Murphy, the president of the Board of Trade, was not even a resident here, but lived in nearby Maryland.

"The Board of Trade," Mr. Simmons said, "is not opposing Gen. Crosby on the ground that he is a soldier. In my judgment, it is opposing him because he is not in the inner circle of the Board of Trade that dominates things here in the District.

"The criticism directed against me because I had the Bureau of Efficiency make a study of the District of Columbia courts is not for that reason at all. I have had lawyers and litigants tell me I was absolutely right.

"The attack on me was for the purpose of laying the groundwork for an attack on Mr. Brown if the President names him."

If President Hoover appoints Gen. Crosby and Mr. Brown, Mr. Simmons pointed out, the Board of Trade then will have no candidate on the Board of Commissioners, inasmuch as the third member would be an Army engineer officer.

"The fight is not being made for the best interests of the District of Columbia," Mr. Simmons continued, "but is a fight by the Board of Trade to continue its dominance over the affairs of the District."

The Nebraskan declared that President Hoover has always been anxious to beautify the National Capital and give it a good government. Hence, he said, the present fight is against one

2 FREED IN SHOOTING OF COUNTY OFFICER

Three Still Held Following Rum Chase in Which Cycle Policeman Was Hurt.

SWEET SERVED TERM

Two of the five persons held in connection with the shooting of Raymond Crack, Arlington County motorcycle policeman, during a furious rumrunning chase Wednesday, were released early last night after being questioned in Arlington County. Witnesses were unable to identify the two other men brought from Baltimore as one of the occupants of the liquor car.

Harry Sweet, alias Charlie Haskins, of Baltimore, who is in the Franklin Square Hospital, Baltimore, suffering from a pistol shot wound in the shoulder, was said by William C. Gloth, Arlington County Commonwealth attorney, to have admitted owning the automobile and the liquor which were found abandoned at Shady Side Camp at the end of the race. He declared he was the only occupant of the car and that he had been shot at Laurel, Md.

Mrs. Willis Leffingeel, who operates a gas station at Shady Side Camp, who saw the two men escape from the car, failed to identify any of the three men arrested late Wednesday night in Baltimore. Consequently Jane Enke, 40 years old, and Russell Murray, both of Washington, were released late yesterday, while Joe L. Whitehead, 25 years old, of Richmond, Va., and Harry Friedman, 28

Horst Boy Killed, Confession Says

Ohio Prosecutor Claims Signed Statement Naming Conald.

Wooster, Ohio, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Special Prosecutor Walter J. Mougey announced tonight that he had obtained a signed statement from Charles Hanna, alleging that Earl Conald, 42, killed Melvin Horst, 4, in a garage in Orville the night of December 27, 1928.

Mougey announced the statement from Hanna said Conald choked the boy, then struck him over the head. Hanna signed the statement only after Junior Hanna, 10, had implicated his father and Conald, the prosecutor said.

YOUTH SHOOTS STEPFATHER IN DOMESTIC ROW

Beating Administered to Boy's Mother Led to Affair, Police Say.

WOUND IN SHOULDER HELD NOT SERIOUS

Assault With Dangerous Weapon Charge Is Docketed.

ONE BULLET FIRED BY ENRAGED LAD, 17

Lad Signs Confession to Quarrel and Shooting Under Questions.

Culminating what Third Precinct police characterized as a domestic quarrel, Harvey Lowe, 37 years old, employe of the District Grocery Stores, Inc., was shot and wounded in his left shoulder by his stepson, Harry Vincent Hazel, 17 years old, in their second-floor rooms at the Rocksboro Apartments, 1717 R street northwest, shortly before 6 o'clock last night.

Lowe was taken to Emergency Hospital, where attendants reported his condition as not serious, although the bullet penetrated dangerously near vital organs.

Confesses to Shooting.

The youth, an employe of the Morris Plan Bank, was taken in custody and upon questioning confessed to the shooting after having been placed under technical arrest at the scene by Third Precinct Policeman Earl L. McNale. He was booked at the precinct station on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The shooting, according to Policeman McNale, occurred a moment after Mrs. May Elizabeth Lowe told her son upon entering the apartment that her husband had been mistreating her. The youth quickly jerked open a trunk, whipped out a .38-caliber pistol and fired a single shot at his stepfather, the policeman reported. He added that he had heard the shot while patrolling his beat at Seventeenth and R streets northwest and rushed to the apartment to find the three members of the family in one room, the wounded man clutching his shoulder.

Found Mother Crying.

Headquarters Detective Sergts. William Debuskey and William Messer questioned Mrs. Lowe at length and quoted her as declaring that her first husband, the father of Harry, committed suicide in a Washington hotel several years ago at about the same time that she was acting as a witness in a trial at Rockville, Md., involving a shooting affray at Cabin John.

"About 5:45 o'clock I came home and found my mother crying in the kitchen," Hazel declared in a written confession. "I asked her what happened and she said Lowe had kicked her and showed a blue spot on her leg. Then I went into the trunk in the kitchen and got the gun. My

FINDING OF GUN IN CELL BALKS DELIVERY PLOT

Police Court Detention-Room Search Reveals Hidden Pistol.

WOMAN FURNISHES CLEW TO OFFICIALS

Agitation Ensues After Discovery and Drastic Inquiry Is Ordered.

CALLERS BELIEVED WEAPON SMUGGLERS

Several Prisoners Heard to Say Time Was Ripe for Making Getaway.

What may have been an attempted delivery of prisoners awaiting trial in Police Court yesterday was frustrated when a woman prisoner notified authorities she had seen a man hide a pistol in the court cellroom.

Attaches of Police Court were checking up last night to determine how the loaded pistol found its way into the cellroom at Police Court.

The discovery created considerable agitation and resulted in drastic measures. Judge Gus E. Schuldt, presiding judge of Police Court, ordered Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman, commander of one of the police vice squads, and his men to search every prisoner in the criminal dock.

Hunt Reveals Gun.

This search, it is said, revealed the loaded pistol.

Immediately afterward Judge Schuldt called a conference in the jury room of Police Court in an effort to determine how the pistol had been delivered into the cell room. At this conference was Lieut. Col. William E. Peake, head of the District Jail; Stephen B. Callahan, chief deputy United States marshal; Assistant United States Attorney David Aiken Hart and Sergt. Letterman.

Following the conference United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder, through Chief Deputy Callahan, announced that he did not think that there was any concerted action among the prisoners to make a getaway.

Mr. Callahan stated that all the prisoners taken to Police Court yesterday morning were searched before they had left the jail, and intimated that the gun probably was slipped to the man by a friends who called on him at the Police Court.

Inquiry to Be Pushed.

"Every effort will be made to find out who is responsible for this thing," said Mr. Callahan.

Mr. Callahan said that a woman prisoner saw a man slip a gun into a hole in the wall in the cellroom of the Police Court. It was in the hole that the gun was found. The woman, according to Mr. Callahan, is also said to have overheard a conversation between two or three other prisoners which was to the effect that "now is a good chance for us to get away."

The woman told a deputy United States marshal what she had heard, and when that official communicated with Judge Schuldt an investigation resulted.

Hughes Pledges Self To Uphold Old Ideals

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Charles Evans Hughes, whose appointment as Chief Justice of the United States was confirmed tonight by the Senate, issued a formal statement without comment from his home at 1020 Fifth avenue in which he said.

"My appreciation of the honor of the appointment is outweighed by a deep sense of responsibility. The ideals and principles relating to public service with which I entered public life 25 years ago and which I have tried to exemplify in public office I hold unaltered. In facing this new and most important task I am heartened by the generous expressions I have received from all parts of our land. I wish to express my grateful acknowledgments.

"I expect to qualify and take my seat at the opening of the next session of the court."

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

After what is believed to be the greatest mass attack on the United States Supreme Court that the country has ever known, certainly in modern times, Charles Evans Hughes was confirmed by the Senate as Chief Justice yesterday, 52 to 26. There were seven other senators paired against him, making a total of 33, or one vote more than a third.

In addition there were five other senators who wanted to get at Mr. Hughes another way, or who voted for Senator Norris's motion to recommit the nomination to the judiciary committee. They were Senators Barkley, Fletcher, Trammell, Cutting and Caraway, and still three others who looked for every possible way out of voting for him, but got no further than voting to carry the fight over another day.

Indeed, Senator Trammell switched after he had voted against confirmation on the final vote while Senators Caraway and Cutting disappeared.

Ballot Comes Suddenly.

With the situation thus shaped up, there is no wonder that Senator Watson, majority leader, drew a sigh of relief when the final vote came with dramatic suddenness around 7 o'clock. It was a situation that developed from almost nothing, from at least nothing more than what seemed three days ago to be but an inarticulate resentment to the appointment in the Progressive camp.

And when the tests came, the two of them in rapid succession, first on the motion to recommit and then on the final vote, it was that little clique of Democrats typified by Senators Harrison, Swanson and Robinson, although Robinson was not there, which still clings to the hope that the East will some day adopt the party as the governing one, that saved the administration. Fourteen Democrats voted with 38 Republicans for confirmation and 11 Republicans and 15 Democrats voted against.

The fight and the outcome revealed as nothing has done in many a day

VICE SQUAD MEMBER FREED IN RUM COUNT

McCarron Says He Drank Tonic Made of Rat and Snake Blood.

SIX WITNESSES TESTIFY

G. C. McCarron, a member of Sergt. Letterman's vice squad, was acquitted by a Jury in Police Court yesterday on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

McCarron, who was arrested a little more than a week ago, is expected to face the Trial Board on charges growing out of the case, although his attorneys, James A. O'Shea and John H. Burnett, state that to date no formal charges have been filed before that tribunal.

McCarron, on the stand, testified that two bottles of alleged whisky found in his automobile at the time of his arrest were really a Chinese tonic. This tonic, McCarron stated, was brewed from the blood of snakes, lizards and mice.

Inspector Albert Headley on the stand testified that the stuff found in McCarron's car was good for both external and internal purposes. While testifying that the policeman was intoxicated, the inspector declared he himself would not have arrested him on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Six civilian witnesses testified in the case. Most of them declared that McCarron did not stagger but merely slipped on the ice, which on the date of his arrest was very much in evidence. Only one of these witnesses testified that they smelled whisky, but, when pinned down, he could not definitely assert that he had smelled the whisky on McCarron.

McCarron, in testifying, declared that he had taken two drinks of the tonic. He asserted he did not know the alcoholic content of the preparation until after he had had a chemist analyze it.

Women Assail Amendment at Hearing Before House Judiciary Committee.

DRY SOCIETIES SCORED

(Associated Press.)

Led by four determined women, opponents of the eighteenth amendment, yesterday related to the House judiciary committee stories of crime, corruption and debauchery which they charged resulted from the prohibition law.

The women set out to refute claims that the women of the country favored the dry statutes. The men witnesses, among them former Senator Bruce, of Maryland, backed them up with charges that the greatest crime wave of history had resulted from the eighteenth amendment.

Approximately 200 men and women in the audience applauded declarations by witnesses so frequently that Chairman Graham, of the committee, said he would have to ask those who continued to do so to leave.

Representative Mary T. Norton, a New Jersey Democrat, vigorously assailed the dry amendment. She charged the voters had no voice in its adoption and advocated a national referendum.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, a former Republican national committeewoman from New York, declared that "coeducational and uncontrolled speakeasies" had replaced the corner saloon and were worse, because they sold liquor to children. She represented the Womans' Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

Mrs. David Holmes Morton, of Brooklyn, N. Y., secretary of the women's committee for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, demanded an "unequivocal repeal of prohibition because it undertook to interfere with the personal habits of the individual."

"This enterprise," she said, "is specifically denied the Government by the bill of rights without which there would be no Constitution."

Secretary of Labor Blames Overgrowth of Population and Overemphasis on Machine Efficiency as Factors Causing Unemployment.

(Associated Press.)

Overgrowth of population and over emphasis on machine efficiency in production were described last night by Secretary Davis as contributing factors to underconsumption and resultant unemployment.

Reporting in a radio speech that "we have some unemployment—more than we want to see," the Labor Secretary added that "nobody knows what business would be like today if it had not been for President Hoover's prompt action."

"As it is, we have not escaped some of the effects," he added.

He pointed to the contributions of immigrants to unemployment and warned that "we must be on the alert. We must watch ourselves with this ever-growing population."

"We must realize," he said, "that history will repeat itself here, as it has done in other countries. Where there are two men for every job, the standard of living is doomed. The people lose their buying power. And when the 45,000,000 here who are gainfully employed lose their purchasing power, Mr. Big Business Man is gone. Mr. Manufacturer is gone. Mr. Merchant is gone. Dividends for the stockholder will be small if any."

"We can not 'robotize' America, because we must remember that the machine does not eat or sleep," he said.

"It does nothing but produce," he said. "We must watch out that with our efficiency and modern management we keep control of the machine. If the machine ever controls us, civilization is gone."

The secretary advocated encouragement of the Federal employment service and operation of State employment offices in connection therewith.

He added, however, that "the best employment agency is the employer himself," and that "if our employers really put their minds down on it, there would be no employment problem. If we put as much thought on employment as we do on installing new machinery, there would be little or no unemployment."

He emphasized that "we will have this unemployment as long as we have underconsumption," and said many industries were producing more than could be consumed, citing coal as "a glaring example."

Dolores Salazar Plans to Continue Fight for $150,000 More.

Los Angeles, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—A jury of seven women and five men today decided that Ferdinand Pinney "Affinity" Earle, artist, must pay Miss Dolores Salazar $17,000 for breach of prenuptial contract.

Miss Salazar, a Spanish dancer, had sued for a total of $180,000. This was cut to $30,000—$15,000 for breach of prenuptial contract and $15,000 for maintenance—when counsel for Earle, who is living in Paris with his fifth wife, succeeded in having several of the counts dropped.

The jury awarded Miss Salazar the full amount of $15,000 claimed for breach of contract and $2,000 additional for expenses in connection with her suit. The jurors attempted

President Plans Return to Capital Saturday to Resume Work.

Long Key, Fla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—President Hoover decided tonight to leave for Washington Saturday night instead of remaining here until Monday night as he had planned.

It was believed here that the change in plans was made because the London naval conference had reached a point where he wished to be in closer touch with developments than is possible here.

The announcement of the French demands today and indications of Italy's intentions, in the opinion of those close to the President, brought the conference to a point where actual negotiations can begin.

The French program as relayed to the President was very much in the the ever-widening cleavage that the Progressives are working in the Democratic camp.

Walsh Changes Stand.

Senator Tom Walsh, of Montana, who had voted in committee for confirmation, came out during the day to head the progressive element of the Democrats, or as the Republican progressives would say, those of the Democrats who are not afraid to go along with them, came out after the fire had been started to take his titular place in opposition to Harrison, a division that is becoming more and more frequent of late.

He explained that he would exercise his right to change his mind in the light of the later information that had been developed and he referred to Mr. Hughes and the "orgy of corruption" of the Harding administration in the same breath.

It has not been customary to treat with the chief justice of the United States in such political terms heretofore, to speak of political divisions and alliances, but the Senate itself established the new order and the indications are that it will be adhered to for many a day.

First Court Fight in Open.

There have been fights in the Senate on appointments to the Supreme Court heretofore, though not one on a chief justice since Taney's day. There was somewhat of a fight on Justice Stone, more of one on Justice Butler, and a prolonged one on Justice Brandeis.

But they were the exclusive business of the Senate itself. The extent of the opposition and just what was said were kept behind the Senate's closed doors.

There has never been such a spectacle as has just been witnessed, an open, mass attack upon the Supreme Court, a tearing away, as one senator after another said in the three days of debate, of its sanctity, of the cloak of immunity from criticism which it has heretofore generally enjoyed.

No serious hope was entertained at any time that Mr. Hughes would be defeated, although the opposition's hopes were certainly perking up near the end.

"Lesson" Underlying Motive.

The underlying motive, in fact, the frequently expressed motive of the attack, was to "teach the court a lesson."

The high court, the greatest tribunal in the world, has interpreted the fourteenth amendment as placing it in the political and economic field, it was freely charged, and this being the case, its members, or aspiring members, would be treated in that light.

The interpretation which the court has given to the amendment, the powers which it has drawn from it, were challenged by some senators, while still others insisted it at least gave them the right to consider the economic and political viewpoints of the members.

Senator after senator lauded what has become the minority triumvirate of the court, Justices Holmes, Brandeis and Stone, the latter, strangely enough, one of Mr. Hoover's closest friends and who many took for granted would be the appointee to succeed Chief Justice Taft. Mr. Hughes was linked with that economic division composed of the five other members of the court, among whom invariably was Mr. Taft in the rendering of decisions, a group which, it was said, places property rights above human rights.

Decisions Pointed To.

The court's decisions, one of them of very recent date—the Baltimore rate case—were waved before crowded galleries and to the country, through the press, as evidence of the side the court has taken in the "great battle between the people and corporate wealth."

The Progressives declared that they accepted as a challenge an opinion such as that in the Baltimore case, which said that a street railway company had a right to make more than 6.36 per cent return on its investment and that in valuing its investment it could figure in a $5,000,000 franchise which the city had given it. And they said—Senators Borah, Norris, Brookhart, La Follette and Democrats—that they were prepared to meet such a challenge.

Occasionally, Mr. Hughes' retirement from the Supreme Court in 1916 to run for the Presidency was attacked. In fact, the curtain rang down with Senator George, of Georgia, describing him as bereft of the judicial sanctity, as a partisan, political advocate.

One Decision Wins Vote.

And strangely enough, a decision Mr. Hughes rendered when he was on the court before, which cost him many votes in his aspirations to come back, also gained him one in the enemy camp. It was that kind of an attack, that kind of consideration of a candidate member for the Nation's highest court.

The decision, cited by the opponents as a flagrant example of his economic unfitness for the court, was that in the Shreveport rate case in which the Interstate Commerce Commission stepped into a fight between Louisiana and Texas. Senator Glass, of Virginia, and others contended that the Supreme Court's ruling in this instance (the opinion was prepared by Mr. Hughes) destroyed every vestige of States' rights; that it was entirely an intrastate matter.

But the harping on this case necessitated a defense by Senator Ransdell, of Louisiana.

"What would Shreveport have done if it had not been for this ruling?" he asked plaintively.

Curtis Bangs Gavel.

"Lower its rates to meet those of Texas and it would have been better off than it now is," replied Senator Brookhart, while the other senators tittered and Vice President Curtis banged the gavel. It was a matter of much feeling to Senator Ransdell, a butter and bread proposition.

This defense and an outright one of Mr. Hughes made by Senator Glenn were the only affirmative voices in the three days debate. The administration forces kept quiet at the outset, however, because they thought the opponents were sticking their heads in a public noose, but subsequently when the opposition became more serious, when the public noose did not tighten, they kept quiet in an effort to put out the fire.

No greater surprise has ever struck political Washington than this fight.

Last week, when Mr. Hughes' appointment was announced on the heels of the retirement of Mr. Taft, the press generally and senators referred to his "eminence." Senator Norris, chairman of the judiciary committee, said that while of course it was an appointment opposed to his viewpoint, he looked for no opposition to confirmation. So eminent, indeed, was Mr. Hughes that while several senators expressed privately their disapproval of him, they had nothing to say publicly.

Monday Comparatively Calm.

Even as late as Monday, when the committee voted to approve the appointment, there was no sign of opposition in sight. It was late Monday afternoon. Senator Norris read a prepared statement explaining why he could not vote for confirmation. Apparently that was to be all. The statement was most temperate. At the conclusion of its reading, Senator Watson moved for a vote. Senator Blease of South Carolina insisted that the matter go over until Tuesday as prescribed under the Senate rules because, as he said, he wanted to see the "doctors' certificate" on Mr. Taft's condition.

The next day a fight of sizable proportions had developed. The Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers had begun to get over its thought, delicately and referring all the time to Mr. Hughes' eminence, that the Supreme Court had entered the political and economic field and had a permanent division of six to three. Incidentally, it was a Scripps-Howard newspaperman, Paul Mallon, who forced the Senate several months ago to vote to consider nominations in open session, thus bringing about the spectacle just closed.

About the time the vote came, two of the biggest Democratic newspapers in the country, which had editorially spoken perfunctorily of Mr. Hughes' "eminence," were preparing to about-face and to join in the attack.

Hoover Consulted No One.

It was explained after Mr. Hughes' appointment that Mr. Hoover had consulted no one about it, or rather that no one knew about it in Washington except Attorney General Mitchell.

There was criticism of this fact in the Senate debate. Just before the vote came, in fact, there was a warning from Senator George, an unfriendly quarter, of course, but a warning, that if "Mr. Hoover would consult with the leaders of his party in this body and the other one he would show more judgment in these great problems affecting the country."

Of Mr. Hughes' "eminence," it was that which sustained him and finally won the day. It was that which frightened the eight senators on the final vote and caused fourteen Democrats in all to vote for him.

It was an eminence which the progressives were reluctant at first to go up against—quite an eminence, indeed.

Shooting of Nurse By Drys Verified

Her Auto Forced Agents' Machine Into Ditch, Official Says.

Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Glenn Brunson, prohibition administrator for Iowa, today verified a report from Knoxville, Iowa, that two prohibition agents fired the shot that accidentally wounded Miss Nellie Church, a nurse, Saturday night.

Brunson said the two agents—Charles Hindley and Roy Moon—fired the shot after their car had been forced into a ditch by the car in which Miss Church and another nurse were riding. The gun was aimed into the ground, Brunson said, but the bullet was deflected into the rear window of the other car, wounding the nurse. She was not badly hurt.

Miss Church at first told physicians she had been injured in an automobile accident and the real cause of her injury was not learned until today. The nurses kept the story secret, Brunson said, because they feared they might be dismissed from the hospital.

LOBBY GROUP HEARS HUGHES DREW LEASE

Author of Proposed Muscle Shoals Contract, Waldo Tells Committee.

ENGINEER IS RECALLED

(Associated Press.)

While a vigorous attack was being made in the Senate yesterday against the nomination of Charles Evans Hughes as Chief Justice, the Senate lobby committee received testimony that he had drawn up the contract for the American Cyanamid Co. by which it proposed to lease the Muscle Shoals power project, as embodied in legislation now before Congress.

The testimony was received while the committee was questioning W. G. Waldo, consulting engineer for the Tennessee River Improvement Association, in regard to that organization's activities in connection with Muscle Shoals legislation. It was in the form of a memorandum of a telephone conversation which quoted J. O. Hammond, vice president of the Cyanamid Co., as saying the contract had been drawn by "one of the very best constitutional lawyers in the country—Charles Evans Hughes."

The memorandum added: "Believe it to be thoroughly sound constitutionally and not subject to cancellation on grounds of confiscation. If the farm organizations wish us to adopt any changes regarding priority in delivering fertilizer to fertilizer manufacturers or others we would be glad to adopt it."

Grange Man Telephoned.

The memorandum concluded with a statement that J. W. Worthington, chairman of the executive committee of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, which has advocated the Cynamid bid, would have to be consulted before any decision was reached about the fertilizer.

Questioned about the memorandum, Waldo said C. A. Dyer, legislative agent of the National Grange and the American Farm Bureau Federation at Columbus, Ohio, had telephoned the Cyanamid Co. to ascertain if certain proposals he advocated would be adopted, and was given the information contained in the memorandum.

The contract which Hughes drew up, Waldo said, was embodied in the Madden bill, which was before Congress several years ago, and now is contained in the Wright bill, which would accept the Cyanamid bid for the nitrate and power plant at Muscle Shoals.

Knew Nothing of Pay.

Chairman Caraway, of the committee, asked Waldo if Hughes received $65,000 for drawing up the contract, and the witness said he knew nothing about it.

Waldo also testified that he had prepared material for "a great many" members of Congress which was used in speeches substantially as he had written it. Pressed to name the members of Congress, he mentioned only one—Representative Almon (Democrat), Alabama. Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, charged him with being unfriendly with Almon, but this was denied by Waldo.

Waldo was directed to reappear again today for further questioning and Worthington is expected to testify Tuesday. He has been reported ill at Tate Springs, Tenn., but Caraway received a telegram from him yesterday saying he was leaving today for Washington contrary to the advice of physicians.

Caraway has charged him with feigning illness in an attempt to "dodge" the committee.

Seats Changed at Oklahoma City Hearing in Liquor Conspiracy.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Argument to the jury in the Pottawatomie County liquor conspiracy trial in Federal Court here was started today after further depletion of the number of defendants, originally 102, by Judge Edgar S. Vaught's sustention of motions for instructed verdicts in the cases of Jackson Windrow and Gus Herne, jr., Negroes, and R. L. Sherrill, former constable at Maud.

Among the twelve remaining defendants are Randall Pittman, county attorney, and Frank Fox, former sheriff of the county.

A half-dozen women from the Shawnee chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union who at their request had been seated "where the jury can see us" today were ordered to take seats behind the railing after they had been seated in the inclosure set aside for lawyers and defendants.

Concentrating his attack on Pittman, Herbert K. Hyde, 31-year-old Assistant United States District Attorney, addressed the jury more than three hours this afternoon.

SENATORS TO FIGHT U.S. NAVY EXPANSION

ECONOMY IS STRESSED

By ALBERT W. FOX.

A movement is on foot in the Senate to pave the way for downward revision of any building expansion program which comes in the form of a treaty from the London naval conference. Certain Senate leaders who are not unsympathetic with the efforts which the American delegation is making in the face of increasing difficulties, believe it will be helpful to warn the delegates in advance of the Senate's attitude.

The suggestion that America attain battleship parity with Great Britain by obtaining permission to construct a $50,000,000 dreadnaught of the Rodney type will fare badly in the Senate if it becomes part of the treaty. Ratification of the treaty in that event would probably be made subject to the reservation that the British scrap the Rodney instead of calling upon America to expend the additional $50,000,000. Such a reservation would mean that the treaty would not become effective unless and until the Rodney was scrapped. Any other program calling for battleship parity by increasing the burden of expense to the American taxpayers will probably be dealt with by a Senate reservation insisting upon a British program of scrapping rather than a program calling for America to build up to the British level.

Added Expense Cited.

Senate reservations will also be relied upon as a necessary safeguard to deal with expansion in cruisers and other types of warcraft. Senator Hale, chairman of the naval affairs committee, has publicly disapproved of the American cruiser program as outlined by Secretary Stimson, head of the American delegation. This program calls for the building of eleven small cruisers in order to obtain parity. The Stimson program involves added expense to America and there are clear indications that Senate reservations will seek to establish parity in cruisers by revising downward any treaty which contains the present program as announced by Mr. Stimson and indorsed by Prime Minister MacDonald.

Acting Secretary of State Cotton is keeping Senator Hale and Swanson, ranking members of the naval affairs committee, advised of important developments in London and Mr. Cotton sent for both senators and showed them Mr. Stimson's statement of American policy before a summary of this statement was made public at the State Department last Thursday. Neither Mr. Hale nor Mr. Swanson will comment on the situation, but reports have become current in senatorial circles that the Stimson statement as submitted to the British and as cabled to Mr. Cotton here contains matter which is not found in the version of the Stimson statement given to the public.

Information Withheld.

Apparently the plan was to withhold from the public the American suggestion for the $50,000,000 superdreadnaught as well as America's disagreement with the British plan to cut down tonnage of airplane carriers to 100,000 tons and other matters where America and Great Britain do not fully agree. By eliminating such matters from public statement it was possible for MacDonald to make his statement of British policy on the following day without reference to matters of Anglo-American disagreement.

This procedure made it possible to stress Anglo-American accord and the summary of the Stimson statement given to the press did not necessarily purport to contain all that was found in the Stimson statement as given to Prime Minister MacDonald, or as cabled to Mr. Cotton.

French Naval Proposal Text Issued by Delegates

Detailed Tabulation Confirms Prediction of Claim for Need of 724,479 Tons in 1936; Amity for America and England Is Assured.

London, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The text of the French naval memorandum made public today was as follows:

The French delegation, with the same desire of coming to an agreement that inspired the recent declarations of the American and British delegations, considers as its duty, at the point reached by the work of the conference, to specify its position with a view to accuracy in the present note, we should mention that each tonnage is put down in British tons.

When compared to the prewar period, France has considerably reduced naval forces. In 1914 she possessed a fleet of 964,000 English tons in service or laid down, plus 175,000 English tons authorized or building, a total of 1,139,000 English tons. Today, either in service, in building or authorized, she possesses a fleet of 681,808 English tons, namely, 457,192 tons less.

On the other hand, of all the great naval nations, France in 1929 was the only one to have a naval budget inferior to the prewar budget; it came to 18 per cent less. Lastly, the naval program adopted in 1924 by the French government and carried out since then by annual shares represents, in addition, when compared with the situation in 1919, a reduction of 339,000 English tons, a reduction with all the more meaning as the Franco-British agreement concerning the distribution of fleets existing in 1914 is no longer in force.

French Navy Cut Cited.

It may therefore be said that in the same spirit as Great Britain and without waiting for a possible decision of the present conference, France has already, and in considerable measure, cut down her building program.

The state of the French fleet on January 1, 1930, including ships in service, building or authorized, can be summed up as follows: Capital ships coming under the Washington substitution rules, 133,136 tons; capital ships not under the Washington substitution rules, 52,791; cruisers of 10,000 tons (Washington), 70,000; old cruisers with guns of calibre over eight inches, 66,963; cruisers, destroyers, torpedo boats and a number of special ships (one cruiser, training ship, two minelayers, etc.), 228,897; aircraft and seaplane carriers, 32,146; submarines, 97,875. Total, 681,808 English tons.

Concerning the above figures it must be noted that the capital ships not coming under the Washington rules are three dreadnought ships in service since 1911, that France was authorized to keep outside of the preceding rules.

The state of the French fleet on January 1, 1930, compared to August 1, 1914, shows the following differences: Capital ships, 550,860 less; cruisers and torpedo boats, no change; aircraft carriers, 32,146 more; submarines, 62,328 more. Total, 457,000 less.

No Building During War.

It should be further pointed out that of all the navies in the world, the French navy was the only one not to build anything from 1914 to 1920 as her dockyards were busy during the whole war making ammunition for France and her allies. That is the reason why she has been obliged to keep in active service, beyond the age limit, an important tonnage of old ships, especially battleships and cruisers. If, as proposed by the communiques published by the American and British delegations, the powers represented at the conference were to take, as the ground for their agreement, establishment of a building program running from 1930 to 1936, the French delegation would be willing to accept this method with the double reserve that the four other powers would do the same and the French Parliament would ratify her decision.

The French fleet on December 31, 1936, might then be made up as follows: Capital ships coming under the Washington substitution rules, 156,466; capital ships not under the Washington substitution rules, 52,791; cruisers of 10,000 tons, 100,000; old cruisers mounting to guns with a caliber over 8 inches, 24,850; light ships (cruisers mounting guns with a caliber of 6 inches or under, destroyers, torpedo boats, &c.), 258,597; aircraft carriers, 32,146; submarines, 99,629. Total 724,479 English tons.

Table Is Explained.

Concerning that second table, the following remarks should be made:

From 1930-1936 France would build 240,000 tons. Out of those 240,000 tons, 43,200 would represent complementary building and 196,800 tons of replacement. In other words, from 1930 to 1936 France would give up 82 per cent of her effort to replacing obsolete ships and 18 per cent to complementary building.

The tonnage laid down before 1936 and not in service till the 31st of December, 1936, is compensated by scrapping ton for ton of equal tonnage of obsolete ships.

As concerns capital ships it has been understood displacement would run between 20,000 and 25,000 tons.

As in the preceding table, it has been supposed that special ships will be distributed among the classes mentioned in the table.

Outside of these special remarks the French delegation wishes to introduce two observations of a general character:

As concerns capital ships, France has not thus far availed herself of the right given her by the Washington treaty of building before the conference the 70,000 tons in replacement of the France, which disappeared in 1922; of the Jean Bart and Courbet, whose substituting tonnage might have been laid down as soon as 1927. France is now obliged, owing to the recent forthcoming of a new type of battleship, to make use of part of that credit of 70,000 tons before the end of 1936 and she might be compelled to use it completely during the same period should new ships of the same type happen to be built. Therefore, in case a naval holiday should be proposed for battleships until 1936, France would be willing to accept such a holiday up to a total of 105,000 tons.

In view of the importance it gives to the principle of the interdependence of armaments, the French government, in conformity with its memorandum of December, 1929, once more insists on the fact that any decision of the London conference about naval armaments should be taken in relation with the problem of the limitation of land and air armaments.

France Declares Its Duty.

The only suggestions and figures, so far produced, being those presented by the American and British delegations, acting for the two inviting powers, the French delegation wishes to add that it felt it was its duty to give the following statement: France has witnessed with warm symphathy the efforts made by the United States and Great Britain to prepare, after thorough consideration of their mutual political relations, reduction in their naval armaments. Just as the American and British governments were in consequence able to declare that war between the two nations was unthinkable, France also is happy to declare her proud conviction that between her people and those of the United States and of the British Empire any armed conflict is equally unthinkable. Her naval program, as well as their own, corresponds to a strictly defensive policy in conformity with the international agreements to which she is a party, particularly the Briand-Kellogg pact.

This is why France was never alarmed to see the United States or Great Britain either reduce or increase their respective armaments in order to reach the desired agreement.

In the same spirit of mutual confidence she trusts that the figures produced above and corresponding merely to her national requirements as explained in the first sitting of the conference can not alarm the two other nations.

She remains, as she repeatedly declared herself to be, ready to consider favorably any form of agreement for mutual guarantee of security of which the effect would be to transform the absolute requirements of each power into relative requirements.

JAPAN SETS CRUISER AIM

when Japan would ask 100,000 tons. In this second alternative proposal, the Japanese destroyer and submarine cruisers remain the same as in the first.

Japan is also understood to have declared in reply to an American indication that the United States does not want to discuss reduction in the maximum size of battleships to be built after 1936; that in that case she (Japan) is unwilling to scrap a battleship between now and 1936. Thus the American-British battleship scrapping agreement is thrown into confusion.

The American experts conferred today about the Japanese suggestions, but profound secrecy was observed and the figures themselves, when obtained in detail, did not come from an American source.

Crux of Cruiser Question.

The main point about the cruiser question brought out by these suggestions is that Japan offers a big concession to the United States in American tonnage superiority in smaller cruisers if the Americans will build three fewer 8-inch-gun ships, in which case Japan would accept a total cruiser tonnage in all classes or a little more than 16,000 tons less than she says she will take if the eighteen 10,000-ton ships are built by the United States.

France's figures on her naval needs, as announced today, followed closely those already given by the New York World News Service, excepting for the surprise announcement that France will build one, and possibly two, new battleships regardless of any naval holiday the other powers may take.

No details were given regarding these battleships, but the New York World News Service is able to state that plans exist for the fastest capital ships in the world of 17,500 tons each, mounting 12-inch guns. This French announcement, coupled with Premier Andre Tardieu's program, also issued formally, calling for ten 10,000-ton 8-inch-gun cruisers, will have repercussions on the British program and, as long predicted, the new German "pocket battleship," the Ersatz Preussen, with others projected, have become a live and perhaps vital issue in this conference.

France's Amity Declaration.

Premier Tardieu, reading the French statement to 200 correspondents, laid great stress on the declaration by France that, just as war between the United States and Great Britain has been pronounced unthinkable, so "France is also happy to declare her profound conviction that between her people and those of the United States and the British Empire any armed conflict is equally unthinkable." The French naval program was pronounced "strictly defensible in conformity with international agreements to which France is a party, particularly the Briand-Kellogg pact."

The formal Japanese statement today, issued by former Premier Rejeiro Wakatsuki, contained no figures. Japan's indirect reply to Secretary Stimson's memorandum last week was in the tables of figures handed to Senator Reed last night.

Premier Tardieu made his big play in presenting French "naval needs" formally. He did not confine himself to stating France's position, which has the effect, as far as France is concerned, of washing out the Washington conference ratio, but also made a declaration of sympathy for the Anglo-American negotiations for parity.

German Strength Feared.

The French premier further took occasion to repeat the French position that "every decision taken at London must be considered in relation to the problems of limitation of land and air forces."

Another outstanding point in Tardieu's statement was an expression of anxiety over German advances in naval construction. He declared France must use the credit it has in battleship tonnage to build battleships against the ones Germany has started.

On the whole, his statement was a reiteration of the French naval program to 1936, showing that France is ready to come to an agreement until that date like the other nations represented here.

The statement was accompanied by two annexes showing tonnage comparisons between 1914 and 1930 which places France in the position with Great Britain alone of the nations present of having made big naval cuts. The second annex shows that the same nations are the only ones to have made heavy cuts in naval equipment, both the United States and Japan having increased these heavily during the same period.

The French document is meant to be complete politically as well as in the matter of figures, reciting the recent history of the French navy.

American Comment Withheld.

In American circles no comment has yet been forthcoming on the French statement, since the United States is interested in the French program only in so far as it affects the British program and through that program the Anglo-American parity understanding.

The British had nothing to say through official spokesmen, but it was hinted that much would depend on what kind of battleships the French propose, and that if these are extra powerful and especially if they are extra fast ships, exceeding in speed anything in the British fleet in order to deal with the Ersatz Preussen, then the British admiralty would be obliged to take the new situation thus created into consideration.

With fifteen 8-inch gun cruisers suggested for the British fleet in the Anglo-American understanding, the British, it was suggested, would find it hard, or impossible, to accept 12 French ships of equal power. But now, it was significantly added, France suggests more than this ten 8-inch-gun cruisers and two ships which, according to report, would be able to keep away from British battleships and pound any cruiser existing into helplessness without risk.

As was expected, the Italians were in an unfriendly frame of mind following announcement of the French program. They hold tenaciously to their demand for parity with France and have no intention of building up to what they describe as the "wanton" and "aggressive" French figures. One of the next principal tasks of the conference will be to find a means of approach between the French and themselves.

GIN SELLER ABSENT, TEST CASE BALKED

Carley, Under $500 Bond, Is Held Only on Charge of Possessing Liquor.

FEDERAL PLANS FAIL

Absence of the seller in court yesterday cost the Government its first opportunity to test whether the buyer of liquor violates the prohibition law in the same degree that the manufacturer and seller break it.

Joseph Patrick Carley, arrested Wednesday on a charge of buying liquor after it was alleged he was caught emerging from a speak-easy with a half pint of gin in his pocket, is out on $500 bond but on a charge of possession and not purchasing liquor. The charge of purchasing was dropped when police could find no one who would admit selling Carley the liquor although he is reported to have admitted buying it.

Federal authorities had looked forward to a ruling on the section of the prohibition law under which Carley was first charged which says "no one shall manufacture, sell, purchase, transport or prescribe any liquor without first obtaining a permit from the commissioner." United States Attorney David A. Hart dismissed the charge because he held that it required two persons to make a liquor transaction and no seller could be found.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, in charge of prohibition, had announced that if the charge against Carley was upheld, the decision would guide Government officers in proceeding with further prosecutions for purchasing. Hart, who was forced to dismiss the charge, had previously held that buying was just as much an offense as bootlegging.

Government officials had also expressed the opinion that if the buying charge was sustained in court, there would be no need for the bill introduced into Congress by Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, designed to make the buyer guilty along with the seller and manufacturer. Sheppard had declared his bill would make "prohibition complete."

Following his release on bond, Carley declined to discuss the case except to deny that he had given the police the name of the seller, which police had said was the basis of their charge of buying against him.

Firemen Silently Fight Blaze Near Taft Home

Across the street from where William Howard Taft, former President and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, lies ill at his home, firemen yesterday stilled the sirens and engines of their apparatus and silently fought a chimney fire in the home of Lieut. Comdr. John H. Magruder, U. S. N., of 2222 Wyoming avenue northwest.

Cautious, because of the serious condition of Mr. Taft, whose home is at 2215 Wyoming avenue, Patrolman J. J. McDonald, of the Eighth Precinct, who has been detailed near the Taft residence, signaled the firemen for quiet as they approached the scene. The firemen "caught" the sign and proceeded about their duties silently. Damage from the blaze was reported slight.

—By JAMES HAY, JR.—

WHAT high, hot, and hideous treason is here disclosed! One of the current magazines quotes a former member of Congress to this shocking and incredible effect. "It is apparent that most of the congressmen's secretaries were the carefully considered choices of the representatives' wives, who have done a canny job of picking."

• • • •

THIS dirty dig, this broad and bruising implication that the secretaries are abundantly endowed with a lack of pulchritude, is not, we boldly protest, borne out by inspection of the bevies of beauty who daily trip up and down the corridors of the House Office Building like rose leaves blown before a languorous and vagrant breeze in June.

It does not take an expert in feminine excellence to perceive that on every floor is a whole rosebud garden of girls with complexions which are resplendent results of happy conspiracies between good health, high spirits and nature's wielding of the same brush that tints the peach blossoms and the dawn—with a shrewd and nifty use now and then of the best cosmetics that ever came out of a drug store.

• • • •

THERE, in fact, are multitudes of young women with a come-hither aspect which, in more than one instance has caused some sane and appreciative man to delight in casting his entranced and helpless heart down upon the marble flagging to be ground into the dust of sacrifice by the sharp French heels of lofty feminine disdain.

There, too, are all the types of fair womanhood that have rocked the earth and rewritten history, women like Portia, Helen of Troy, the Blessed Damozel, Aspasia, Ninon de l'Enclos and La Belle Dame sans Merci, women like those who in ancient times with the witchery of a smile ensnared a hard-boiled king or with the flicking scorn of a lifted eyebrow turned an empire upside down and an emperor's pockets inside out.

Rapturous Hebe, cupbearer to the gods, never gave such 100 per cent efficient service as these modern heroines. The Lorelei, whose singing lured sailors to their ruin, never hung upon the ambient and tremulous atmosphere such sweet accord of jest and laughter. Circe, whose wit and fascination undid the doughty Ulysses, never flashed a greater or more satisfactory vision of loveliness.

NO beauties in the House Office Building? The man who speaks such horrendous hokum dethrones his reason from that proud eminence from which the average masculine being, since the world began, has looked down upon a feminine world the while he pulsed with pride and yelled for joy.

If, as this former legislator asserts, the wives picked the secretaries, it is a castiron and nickel-plated cinch that the congressmen went out and rounded up a lot of clerks and stenographers as substitute help in the business of imparting to their offices and the adjacent terrain a Vergilian charm, an irresistible allurement and a thorough-going all-round easy-on-the-eye-of-man effect and ensemble.

WOMEN ASSAIL PROHIBITION AS CAUSE OF CRIME WAVE

has failed of its purpose, Miss M. Louise Gross, of New York, chairman of the Women's Moderation League, asserted that "young people are drinking liquor obtained in speak-easies, at road houses and from bootleggers who can not be regulated.

"The youth of our country is being destroyed by these unregulated and illegitimate purveyors of liquor," she said.

Asserting that he believed it an impossibility to repeal the eighteenth amendment entirely, former Senator Bruce supported the Sabath resolution, which would permit local option by the States under Federal supervision. He said that there should be some better way under which liquor could be controlled instead of returning the saloons to their former corners. He added, however, that if he were put on a choice between the old saloon and prohibition, he would take the old saloon.

The former senator, one of the most severe critics of prohibition in Congress since its enactment, declared that he would rather have "a raven perched upon my bedpost than to be compelled to turn for consolation to some of the hybrid preacher politicians, who are doing all they can in support of the eighteenth amendment."

The appeals to the committee to report to the House legislation that would at least modify that amendment, if not repeal it, came on the second of a two-day hearing on seven measures before the committee to wipe out or alter the amendment.

Adjournment Is Taken.

The committee later decided to grant the wets next Wednesday and Thursday in which to conclude their argument. The drys then will be given an equal opportunity to defend their position. Adjournment was taken until next Wednesday, when the wets expect to present Pierre S. du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., and other prominent proponents of their cause.

The Antisaloon League, the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union were attacked for their activities.

The committee heard John H. Miner, secretary of the Michigan Prison Commission, deny the charges made before it Wednesday by Walter Liggett, magazine writer, against Gov. Green and other Michigan officials. Representative Clancy (Republican), Michigan, also took issue with Mr. Liggett's charges.

Attacking conditions under prohibition, Miner said that as a result of the dry law taxpayers of the State of Michigan would have to pay $40,000,000 for new penal institutions.

Scores Antisaloon League.

After describing himself as a former worker for the Antisaloon League, Norris G. Wood, Washington, of the Congressional District Modification League, said the eighteenth amendment had created through the country "a condition far worse than that which the prohibitionists sought to remedy."

He charged that the Anti-Saloon League, the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals and the Women's Christian Temperance Union and 30 allied dry organizations of Nation-wide scope would not admit they had made a mistake on prohibition because of "pride of opinion." The witness added that every time a law was created further to enforce prohibition, more crime and law violation resulted. Wood said he left the Anti-Saloon League because it had strayed from its original purpose of closing the saloons.

Under questioning by Representative Michener (Republican), Michigan, Wood assailed the Anti-Saloon League for "hypocrisy." He said in response to questions that he left the ministry and joined the Anti-Saloon League "for the same reason that a lot of other ministers go into the league—ministers can get more money there than in the church."

Thomas W. Therkildsen, executive secretary of the Moderation League, appeared as the last witness before the committee. He presented figures on the prohibition referendumes held by eleven States during the last four years in which eight voted wet while three, Colorado, California and Missouri, acted to sustain the eighteenth amendment.

Big Five Set Forth Aims At London Arms Parley

No proposals were made to France and Italy, although the necessity for a satisfactory solution of French and Italian problems was recognized as necessary.

GREAT BRITAIN.

On February 7, Prime Minister MacDonald issued a statement on British aims, his pronouncement being regarded by the American delegation as complete acceptance of the American suggestions.

The prime minister proposed the eventual abolition of battleships and failing that, a construction holiday until 1935.

Capital ships would be brought down in 1931 to the level which the Washington agreement proposed for 1936. He further proposed reduction in battleship size to 25,000 tons with gun caliber reduced from 16 inches to 12 inches. In addition he suggested a new conference in 1936.

In aircraft carriers he suggested reduction in tonnage from 135,000 to 100,000 with a reduction in size to 25,000.

He proposed one class for all cruisers with limitation both by size and gun caliber.

In destroyers he suggested limitation of the American and British with limitation in size and gun caliber.

Abolition of submarines was suggested and, failing that, limitation in size and numbers in addition to limitation in their use against merchant vessels.

JAPAN.

Japan's statement issued yesterday expressed willingness to agree to a holiday in capital ship construction until 1936 and favored reduction in battleship tonnage to 25,000 tons and gun caliber to 14 inches.

The Japanese favored limitation in aircraft carriers and an increase in their life from 20 years to 26 years.

No specific reference was made to the Japanese demand for a 70 per cent ratio in heavy cruisers, the statement simply announcing that Japan desired to maintain a minimum strength sufficient for national defense, taking into consideration the strength held by other powers.

In submarines, Japan reiterated her need for submersibles because of their adaptability for defensive purposes and because of Japan's geographical position.

FRANCE.

The French statement issued yesterday expressed willingness to accept a naval program to run from 1930 to 1936, the French fleet to aggregate 724,479 tons by December 31, 1936.

This would represent a building program of 240,000 tons, of which it was stated 196,800 would represent replacements.

The French program called for 99,629 tons of submarines, 100,000 tons of 10,000-ton cruisers, 156,466 tons of capital ships coming under the Washington substitution agreement and 52,791 not coming under that agreement. Aircraft carrier tonnage would be 32,146 and light cruisers, destroyers and supplementary vessels, 258,597.

The French also expressed profound conviction of the unthinkability of war between France and Great Britain or the United States, adding that her program was purely defensive and in conformity with international agreements, particularly the Briand-Kellogg pact.

In addition, France said she would consider favorably any form of agreement for a mutual guarantee of security tons, intimating her willingness to conclude a pact to give an added sense of security that might result in further naval reductions.

ITALY.

Italy's naval headquarters stated yesterday that the Italian position had been so clearly outlined a formal statement would be superfluous. The Italian position was outlined as follows:

Italy is willing to reduce armament to 100,000 tons if necessary if the continental powers bind themselves to that low figure. Italy continued to hold to its contention that it must have the right to parity with any continental power. So far as the immediate present this means equality with France, but it might mean equality with Russia or Germany or any other continental power that might build up its fleet.

ARREST OF LANGDON TERMED 'FRAME-UP'

Times Editors Are Named as Informers Against Him by Dry Agent.

MOTION TO QUASH FILED

Charges that the Washington Times, through its managing editor, Ralph A. Benton, and Daniel O'Connell, city editor, instigated the arrest of Policeman Robert G. Langdon on a liquor charge last October 25, were aired yesterday when the policeman went on trial before Justice Peyton Gordon in District Supreme Court on an indictment charging transportation and possession under the Jones act.

Langdon, who formerly was connected with the Fifth Precinct, is basing his defense on the contention that he was "framed." He is represented by Attorneys Harry Whelan and William B. O'Connell. The Government was represented by Assistant United States Attorneys Walter M. Shea and James Kirkland.

Langdon was arrested last October by prohibition agents, when, according to testimony, he attempted to deliver a quantity of whisky at 2804 Thirteenth street northeast. Langdon is alleged to have been found with two 5-gallon kegs of whisky.

Illegal Arrest Claimed.

Attorneys Whelan and O'Connell asked the court to direct a verdict of not guilty, contending that the arrest and seizure had been illegally made. After hearing lengthy arguments Justice Gordon declared he would render his opinion Monday. The justice is scheduled to hear lunacy cases today, and Saturday being only a half day the trial will be resumed at the beginning of next week.

W. A. Heddens, special agent in charge of prohibition enforcement in the District of Columbia, was the principal witness at yesterday's session of the trial. Mr. Heddens testified that he directed Agents A. M. Murphy, W. F. Martin and H. R. Johnson to arrest Langdon on the night in question. Heddens stated that he told the men at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of October 25 to go to 2804 Thirteenth street northeast "and to be there not later than 6:30."

On cross-examination Mr. Heddens declared that he had instructed his agents to be on the lookout "for a Hudson sedan, or a police car, perhaps a police car, a Ford car." Mr. Heddens was asked particularly if he knew Gorman Hendricks, an employe of the Washington Times, who, along with two other reporters, was sent to jail October 29 for refusing to tell the grand jury where they had obtained the information on which the newspaper at that time was basing a series of stories relative to Washington's liquor conditions.

Informants Are Named.

Mr. Heddens was asked by Attorney Whelan:

"Did you receive your information from a man named Gorman Hendricks?"

"I did not."

"From whom did you receive the information?"

"Am I to answer that?"

At this point Prosecutor Shea instructed the witness to answer.

Mr. Heddens: "From the managing editor of the Washington Times, Mr. Benton, and the city editor of the Washington Times, Mr. O'Connell. Mr. Hendricks was not there at the time I received the information."

Mr. Heddens testified that the information regarding the alleged delivery of liquor had been made in the presence of Dr. Rhees, deputy commissioner of prohibition, in the latter's office.

Seven-Cent Tax Favored In County Park Program

Imposition of an additional tax of 7 cents for development of the park program in Prince Georges County, Md., was endorsed in a resolution adopted by the Bladensburg District Taxpayers Association meeting last night in the Bladensburg Firehouse. A copy of the resolution will be forwarded to the Prince Georges County commissioners.

The association includes in its membership the elected officers of Bladensburg, Colmar Manor and Cottage City. The Cottage City delegation was not present at the meeting, however. It is planned by the organization to stir up sentiment in favor of the tax in nearby towns, including Edmonston, Hyattsville and Berwyn. Another meeting for further consideration of the tax question is scheduled for February 27.

The victim was identified as Guy Bastien, 25. The wrists were tied together with a shoe lace and there was another lace bound tightly about the neck. A bullet wound was in the left breast. Stanley Hood, 23, another taxicab driver, was found fatally wounded in Lochmoor Village Wednesday morning.

JAPAN'S DEMANDS ARE GIVEN PARLEY

Text Sets Forth Ideas on Cruisers and Retention of Submarines.

FAVOR REAL REDUCTION

London, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The text of the Japanese naval conference statement, as given out by the Japanese delegation this afternoon, follows:

It is the belief of the Japanese delegation that the London naval conference has been convened in response to the universal yearning of mankind for establishment of an enduring peace. Japan is determined to contribute her full share in bringing about an all-around reduction in naval weapons of war to the end that human happiness may be increased and that financial burdens of peoples may be lightened.

In view, however, of the relativity of naval strengths against one another, Japan desires to maintain such force as will insure the safety and security of the nation—a force necessary for her national defense in far Eastern waters whose tranquility constitutes her primary concern. The attitude of the Japanese delegation predicated upon these considerations, may be outlined as follows:

Too strict an application either of the principles of global tonnage or division into categories would not be suitable for arriving at agreement among the powers concerned. The Japanese delegation is in favor of a formula which would harmonize the two extremes, allowing transfers in certain categories.

Would Reduce Caliber.

The Japanese delegation is ready to agree not to lay down any capital ships until 1936. It also deems it desirable that agreement should be reached so as to reduce the size of capital ships to 25,000 tons from the 35,000 tons stipulated in the Washington treaty. The maximum gun caliber should be reduced to 14 inches. Japan advocates the lengthening of the age limit from 20 to 26 years.

Provisions for the limitation of aircraft carriers in the Washington treaty should be extended to those of less than 10,000 tons. The age limit for aircraft carriers of more than 10,000 tons should be lengthened from 20 to 26 years, and for those of lesser types shall be set at 20 years.

The Japanese delegation considers it necessary to hold, as has been repeatedly intimated, strength adequate in proportion to that of other powers concerned. If, therefore, those powers will see a way to reducing their strength, Japan is prepared to effect reduction to a proportionate degree.

Hold Cruisers Important.

Japan attaches special importance to 8-inch gun cruisers and desires to maintain minimum strength sufficient for national defense, taking into consideration the strengths held by other powers.

The maximum individual tonnage for 6-inch gun cruisers should be 7,000 or 7,500 tons and that of flotilla leaders and destroyers should be adequately limited. It is necessary that the number of flotilla leaders also be limited. The age limit for cruisers should be set at 20 years and that of destroyers at 16 years.

In view of the character of submarines as being eminently adapted to defensive uses and in view of the peculiar geographical condition of Japan, consisting of many widely scattered islands, the Japanese delegation is convinced of the necessity to retain this category of war craft.

At the same time Japan is willing to cooperate with other powers to regulate strictly the use of submarines against merchant marine. As to tonnage, Japan proposes to maintain her existing strength. The dimensions of submarines should be limited and the age limit should be fixed at 13 years.

DRY NULLIFICATION PROPOSAL SCORNED

Williamson Rips Into Wets, Pointing Out Alleged Inconsistencies.

OPEN CONFLICT HINTED

(Associated Press.)

A reply to numerous charges of the wets came last night from Representative Williamson (Republican), South Dakota, in a radio speech with a prediction that if the doctrine of nullification of the eighteenth amendment were persisted in it would "again lead to open conflict."

Without calling names, Mr. Williamson referred to a suggestion by Representative Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, several days ago that no obligation rested upon Congress to pass a law to carry out the provisions of the eighteenth amendment.

"Members of Congress have taken a solemn oath to support the Constitution of the United States," he said. "A refusal to carry out the eighteenth amendment would at once brand them as faithless, if not lawless. Such conduct would justly subject them to the contempt and condemnation of all mankind.

"The doctrine of nullification led us into one of the most disastrous and bloody wars of history. Such a doctrine if persisted in to the last extremity will again lead to open conflict."

Mr. Williamson, whose bill to transfer prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Justice Department was passed by the House several days ago, again without calling names referred to the recent interpretation of the dry laws by Representative Fort (Republican), New Jersey.

"From him," Mr. Williamson said, "we got the very interesting information that the making of home brew for domestic purposes was not a violation of the law.

MRS. HOOVER LANDS 38-POUND SAILFISH

Tallies Lone Score for White House as President Goes Without Bite.

KELLOGG GETS WHOPPER

Long Key, Fla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The fishing rivalry which has developed between the White House and the Supreme Court continued today in President Hoover's vacation party with Mrs. Hoover scoring for the White House with a 38-pound sailfish, her first catch of the season.

Justice Harlan F. Stone, of the United States Supreme Court, went without for the day, and Mrs. Stone, who was in the boat with Mr. Hoover, was unable to get so much as a nibble.

The President himself fulfilled 50 per cent of his day's intentions. He went out to get a fish and absorb the sunshine and came back after having absorbed sunshine for eight hours. It was the second day during which he got nothing but sunburn.

Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, said the Chief Executive spent part of his day sound asleep on the deck of the Orca, the big fishing boat he used today. The sea was like glass and sleeping came easily.

Dr. Boone Scores Twice.

Vernon Kellogg, of the National Research Bureau, hooked the biggest catch of the day, a 63-pound sailfish. It weighed just two pounds less than the blue ribbon of Mrs. Stone yesterday. Mark Sullivan got a sailfish on his line and had it almost in when a shark took it.

Dr. Joel Boone, the White House physician, turned his attention to food fish and landed two big kingfish, one of them weighing 27-pounds. It was one of the largest kingfish of the season. Richey, who was fishing from the boat with Dr. Boone, said he got two big sharks but did not bring them in to Long Key.

When the President returned to the Saunterer, the houseboat on which he is spending the week, he found complete reports of the proceedings of the London naval conference, but after glancing through them would make no comment. He has kept in close touch with London since coming here, but has not handled any other business of importance.

Little Luck for Party.

The party plans to go 25 miles south of here for tomorrow's sport. The fishing ground around Sombrero Light is the objective. The party will go almost to the light in the Saunterer and the Department of Commerce boat Kilkenny. After arriving they will put out in small boats for the actual fishing.

Mrs. Hoover landed her catch today after fighting him for only about 20 minutes. She is a skilled fisherwoman and has had fighting sailfish on the end of her line before. Dr. Kellogg had a much harder time with his catch, struggling for almost an hour before getting him in.

Today's fishing around Long Key generally was poor, only one other of the score of boats which put out coming back with any sail fish, although a number of them brought in barracuda and mackerel.

Mail Plane to Hoover Is Forced Down by Fog

Stanley, N. C., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—A New York-Atlanta air mail plane, carrying a special pouch for President Hoover who is fishing off the Florida coast, was forced down near here by fog today.

Dick Merrill, the pilot, made a safe landing and the 400 pounds of mail aboard, was taken to Gastonia where it was dispatched on a southbound train.

stepfather was sitting in a chair in the dining room."

"I asked him what he meant by striking mama. He did not answer me. I shot him. Then my mother tried to take the gun away from me and I put it in my pocket. Then Officer McNale came in. He asked me for the gun and I gave it to him. Then the detectives came in and asked me who shot and I said I shot because he was beating my mother. I was then taken to headquarters and I make this statement of my own free will."

nature of what was expected. Mr. Hoover, however, would make no comment.

It was generally believed by those in touch with Mr. Hoover that he felt he had not been able to follow developments as closely nor get as full reports on the conference here as he wished.

The announcement of the Japanese proposals which was relayed to Mr. Hoover through the White House, was along expected lines. If anything, it was learned, the Japanese proposals were regarded as more helpful than was expected.

In addition to keeping in close touch with naval conference affairs Mr. Hoover has a number of important appointments to make, among them a new Solicitor General to succeed Charles Evans Hughes, jr., who resigned when his father was appointed Chief Justice.

Mr. Hoover received the news of Mr. Hughes' confirmation while at supper tonight and expressed deep pleasure.

The President also has to appoint a new radio commission before February 23 as the terms of the present commissioners expire on that date.

Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, said tonight that another factor entering into the decision was that by leaving Saturday night Mr. Hoover would miss only one more day of fishing. He planned to forego his angling on Sunday anyway.

The President's special car will be attached to a through train leaving here Saturday night and will arrive in Washington Monday morning in time for Mr. Hoover to reach his office at his usual early hour.

The decision to go back to Washington on Saturday was announced shortly after Capt. Allen Buchanan had returned from the Saunterer. He carried the official dispatches concerning the French proposals out to Mr. Hoover.

TWO OF FIVE HELD GO FREE IN SHOOTING OF POLICEMAN

years old, of Washington, were held for further investigation.

Although Mrs. Leffingeel did not see Sweet she said that the description of him given by Mr. Gloth agreed with that of the wounded man she saw leave the rum car. Sweet will be moved from the Baltimore Hospital to Arlington County Jail today.

C. W. Carr, Arlington County motorcycle policeman, who was also chasing the speeding automobile when Crack was shot from his motorcycle, was also unable to identify either of the three men.

A tooth was removed yesterday from Crack's throat at the Alexandria Hospital, and it was expected that the bullet would be taken out soon. The policeman's condition was said to be improving.

It was recalled yesterday that Sweet, the son of the late Harry F. Sweet, sr., former Richmond policeman and dry agent, once turned down a pardon offer of former Gov. Westmoreland Davis, of Loudoun County, while serving a sentence for automobile stealing. Young Sweet had completed nine months of his one year sentence when, at the solicitation of his father and others, Gov. Davis offered him a pardon upon the condition that he should be under the supervision of the Rev. Cary Montague, Richmond probation officer, for a year.

Sweet promptly rejected the offer, declaring he would rather serve out his sentence than be under the supervision of Dr. Montague. He then related that he had previously been under the doctor's supervision when a former auto theft sentence had been suspended, and he declared the minister was so strict with him that he had hardly time to breathe during the probation period.

Court records show that he was sentenced on the last charge on January 6, 1921. He has been living in Baltimore most of the time since his release.

Sunday Film Causes Girl To Weep For Five Days

Attleboro, Mass., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Sobbing which began Sunday night still spasmodically shook Miss Violet Miguel, 17, today, but her attending physician, Dr. Earl R. White, said she should be entirely cured in another 24 hours. Miss Miguel slept three hours last evening, sobbed for an hour and awoke sobbing at daybreak.

Irritation of the splanchnic nerve controlling the diaphragm, caused the protracted sobbing, Dr. White explained. The irritation resulted from an outburst of hysterical weeping by the young woman on her return from a moving picture performance Sunday afternoon.

CAPPER CHAMPIONS UTILITIES MEASURE

Bill Would Divest District Supreme Court of Power to Reverse Commission.

PRECEDES MERGER ACT

A bill to divest the Supreme Court of the District of its extraordinary power to upset decisions of the Public Utilities Commission was introduced yesterday by Chairman Capper of the Senate District committee.

At its meeting on Tuesday, the Senate committee agreed that such a bill should be enacted before the resolution authorizing a street car merger is taken up.

"I think the people of Washington want a real Public Utilities Commission, and not a set of rubber stamps," Senator Capper said, in introducing the bill yesterday. "I believe this bill will strengthen the morale of the commission, and put teeth in its decisions. It is a much-needed reform, and I sincerely hope it will receive early and favorable action by the Senate."

At present, the Senate committee has been told, the District Supreme Court may upset any decision of the commission. The Capper bill, while it does not take away from the utilities companies the right to appeal to the court, does say that the decisions of the commission when based upon facts and supported by evidence shall be "conclusive," provided they are not confiscatory.

Representative McLeod (Republican), Michigan, acting chairman of the House district committee, yesterday wrote a letter to Chairman Mason M. Patrick, of the Utilities Commision, asking him to state directly whether the commission was in favor of a mandatory provision in the merger resolution to compel the street car companies to grant reduced fares to school children.

He also asked the commission whether it had considered a test case in court to determine whether it already has power to compel reduced fares.

At the same time Mr. McLeod asked Chairman Patrick what the annual loss in revenue would be to the car and bus companies if they granted children a flat 5-cent fare, a 3-cent fare, or what it would be if they carried the children free of charge.

Widow Sues for $10,000 In Death of Her Husband

Mrs. Bertha Feldman, as administratrix of the estate of Isaac Feldman, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against James Witt and Louis Mirman, trading as Witt & Mirman, local wholesale meat dealers, operating at 211 Seventh street northwest, seeking to recover $10,000 for the death of her husband.

Feldman, according to the declaration of suit, had been in the habit of carrying large pieces of meat from racks in the store to the scales. On August 15 last, while carrying a piece of meat, he is alleged to have been accidentally cut by a knife, with the result that he died the following day. Feldman is survived by five children, in addition to his widow. Attorney Alvin L. Newmeyer appears for the estate.

Scot Sees Advertisement In Post, Seeks Free Voyage

Joe Opportunity Starts Out to Round Up His Kinsmen and Point Out Unparalleled Chances of $20,000 Circulation Drive.

"You must have made a flying visit to Scotland recently," said Opportunity to C. D. Chance.

"What makes you think so?" asked Chance.

"Look at this letter," replied Opportunity as he commenced reading. "'Gentlemen: I notice that a Washington advertiser will pay the fares of out-of-town prospects who visit his establishment. Will the money be advanced or will I receive a rebate after my arrival?'" (Note: Such a letter was actually received by The Washington Post from Scotland.)

"You can always trust the Scotch to see their own Chances," remarked C. D. 'If this was a Scotch community every man, woman and child would be entered in your $20,000 Campaign."

"Do you suppose their immigration quota is exhausted?" asked Opportunity, eagerly.

It's really too late now," responded Chance. "This campaign extends only for a few short weeks, and they would arrive too late to take advantage of the biggest vote offer of the entire campaign—the 100,000 extra votes which will be given for each $20 worth of new subscriptions turned in before 9 p. m. on February 19. You see, only six more days remain to cash in on that great 'Opportunity.'"

"Well, the only think we can do is round up all the Scotch who live here now," determined Opportunity as he stripped off a section of wallpaper and fashioned it into a kilt.

"Some of our candidates are forgetting the rules occasionally," remarked Opportunity.

"For instance, one candidate transferred a subscription from one member of a family to another and expected to receive a vote credit on it. Of course, in such cases no votes at all are allowed as the entire purpose of this campaign is to have The Post read in additional homes to those where it is already the preferred newspaper."

HEFLIN THREATENS TO CUT PARTY TIES

Hurls Defi at Democrats in Alabama Row Centering on Hoover Supporter.

ISSUE MAY GO TO COURT

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The row with the Democratic party in Alabama today appeared headed for the courts with a candidate's right to vote for Republican presidential electors the issue to be decided.

The political tangle developed the legal phase today with the refusal at Selma of Chairman Ed Patton, of the State Democratic executive committee to accept the qualifications of W. L. Lee, of Dothan, a candidate for governor, because Lee supported President Hoover in 1928. Alabama election laws require a candidate to qualify with the committee chairman as well as the secretary of state.

Advised of Pettus' action, Lee promptly reiterated his intention of appealing to the courts of Dallas County, of which Selma is the seat. He did not set a date for filing the court action.

In refusing to accept Lee's qualifications, Pettus followed the mandate of the executive committee, which last December 16 refused to permit Democrats who supported Hoover to become candidates for Federal, State, circuit or district offices in the party's August primary. No restriction, other than that they support the party's nominee in the general election, was placed on ordinary Democratic voters who voted for Republican presidential electors.

Meanwhile, at Decatur, United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin, who actively supported the President and came under the committee's bar from the primary, issued a statement that if the committee did not reassemble and rescind its action against party bolters he would run for reelection as an independent in the November general election.

"If the State committee does not rescind its action," Senator Heflin said, "in barring me, a lifelong Democrat, I will be a candidate in the November election and I'll beat them by 100,000 votes."

One court action, involving the Jefferson County Democratic primary, is to be heard in Circuit Court at Birmingham Saturday. It was instituted by Horace C. Wilkinson, Birmingham attorney and a "Hoover Democratic" leader in 1928.

Wilkinson contends that a primary to be held with Democrats who voted for Hoover barred from participating as candidates would be unconstitutional. The action is aimed at County Treasurer M. V. Henry and would restrain him from any expenditures for holding a county election. He intimated his action against the State executive committee would be along lines similar to Wilkinson's petition.

Post Cooking School Followers Treated To Tasty Waffles and Fresh Doughnuts

Final Session in Course on Home Economics Is Due Today.

Further Awards Made at Conclusion of Third Class.

Short cuts in cooking by use of modern products prepared by scientific processes interested those attending the lecture given by Mrs. Frances T. Northcross at The Washington Post Cooking School at the Belasco Theater yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Northcross demonstrated the convenience and scientific value of self-raising flour and other such up-to-date products in making pies and doughnuts and waffles while her audience followed every move until the finished articles came out of the oven or the kettle of boiling fat ready to be eaten. The few who had front seats had many a treat as Mrs. Northcross passed plates of the cooked dainties over the footlights to them. Later those in the back also were given a "taste."

The effect that proper food has on the success in life of the individual was stressed by Mrs. Northcross in her lecture. She warned against wrong reducing methods and said such methods were often the causes of acidosis.

Reducing safely is an easy thing today, the lecturer said, and is advisable from the standpoint of good health. Overweight is a menace to good health and longevity, Mrs. Northcross pointed out, but she also warned that many women wreck their health in unwise attempts to gain slender figures. Reducing diets must contain ample starches and sugars, but they must not be taken in too concentrated form. Fairly and satisfying servings of low percentage fruits and vegetable are also necessary, she declared, while fats must be avoided, a small amount must be eaten each day to prevent certain vitamin deficiency diseases.

The "regulars" at The Washington Post Cooking School, which opened on Tuesday and will close today have not all been women, for many men have also been in attendance.

The entire class of 50 pupils from the McKinley Manual Training School domestic science class attended yesterday.

Mrs. J. C. Arnold, of 1221 East Capitol street, and Mrs. R. E. Coleman, 2121 H street northwest, were awarded cakes. Other awards were Mrs. G. Foley, of 415 Sixth street northwest, lemon tarts; Mrs. Florence Carbaugh, of 2419 Third street northeast, refrigerator dishes; Mrs. J. F. Kelling, of 1131 Euclid street northwest, meringues; Mrs. Mary A. Traylor, of 1601 Argonne place northwest, lemon pie; Edna Harvey, of 2005 Franklin street northwest, ham; Mrs. Robert Ellis, of 601 Rittenhouse street northwest, flowers; Mrs. M. S Schmidt, of 206 Fourteenth street northwest, veal; Mrs. H. M. Fischer, of 47 Bryant street northwest, Crisco; Mrs. J. F. McKinney, of 1322 Trinidad street northwest, dripolator, and Mrs. P. W. Green, of 1330 Randolph street northwest, chocolate pudding.

Today Mrs. Northcross will lecture on making the family budget and suggestions on expenditures for food.

Many handsome gifts will be distributed to the housewives in the audience after the lecture.

The list of recipes to be demonstrated today will include:

Baked Fish
Mashed Potatoes
Macaroni Salad
Gold Cake
Orange Muffins
All Round Icing
Timbales
Sandwiches
Cranberry Sauce
Pineapple-Meringue Cake
Essentials in Making Good Tea

The recipes used yesterday were as follows:

Ragout of Veal With Dumplings.

3 lbs. of veal.
4 tablespoons flour.
1 tablespoon salt.
1 teaspoon pepper.
4 tablespoons shortening.
1 bay leaf.
2 tablespoons catsup.
2 cups carrots, quartered.
2 onions, quartered.
1 cup peas.
Dumpling batter.

Wipe meat with damp cloth and roll in mixed flour, salt and pepper. Heat shortening in heavy kettle, brown meat on all sides, then cover with water, add bay leaf and catsup and simmer until meat is tender. Cut meat from bone in medium-sized pieces, add vegetables and simmer until vegetables are tender. Drop dumpling batter by the spoonful on top of stew. Cover pot tightly and steam for about 15 minutes. Serve at once. (Serves 6.)

DUMPLINGS.

1 cup milk
1 well-beaten egg
1 tablespoon shortening
2 tablespoons cornmeal
2 cups sifted self-rising flour
¾ teaspoon salt

1. Combine milk and eggs, then slowly stir in the mixed dry ingredients.

2. Drop into rapidly boiling liquid, cover kettle and boil the dumplings 10 or 12 minutes to insure cooking them thoroughly.

EVERLASTING ROLLS.

1 quart milk
1 cup sugar
¾ cup shortening

Mix ingredients and bring to boiling point, let cool to blood heat. Dissolve cake of yeast in mixture, add enough flour to make consistency of cake batter. Let set two hours, then sift in 1 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder. Work enough flour to make soft dough, knead well and let rise two hours. Cut out enough rolls for a meal, set to rise. Put remainder of dough in refrigerator until ready for more rolls. It will keep one week if refrigerator is kept at approximately 40 to 45 degrees.

LEMON MERINGUE PIE.

¼ cup sifted self-rising flour
1 cup sugar
1 1-3 cups boiling water
4 tablespoons sugar
3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons shortening
2 lemons (¼ cup juice)
Grated rind 1 lemon
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg white
1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Combine flour and sugar in top of double boiler. Add water, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened, stirring vigorously. Pour a small amount of mixture over egg yolks. Return to double boiler and continue cooking until mixture drops in thick sheets from spoon. Add shortening, lemon juice and rind. Cool and pour into pie shell.

Meringue—Fold sugar and salt and baking powder into egg whites. Pile lightly on filling. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) 12 minutes or until delicately brown.

PASTRY.

1½ cups self-rising flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
½ cup shortening.
About 4 to 6 tablespoons cold water.

Sift together dry ingredients thoroughly. Cut in shortening Moisten to a dough with cold water Put lightly on floured board and roll thin, ready for use. This makes two shells.

SOFT CUSTARD DE LUXE.

1-3 cup sugar.
2 eggs.
1-8 teaspoon salt.
3 cups scalded milk.
2 egg yolks.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Break the whole eggs and the egg yolks into a bowl. Beat slightly just enough to mix the eggs together and then add the sugar and salt. Beat only enough to blend the eggs and sugar together. Over this pour gradually, stirring all the while, the scalded milk. Return to the double-boiler in which the milk was scalded and cook for about five minutes—until the mixture thickens sufficiently to coat the spoon with which it is being stirred. The stirring should be continuous during the cooking. No not allow the water in the double-boiler to boil violently during the cooking. The custard is much smoother if cooked slowly. Be careful not to cook too long or the custard will curdle. If this should happen, remove it from the fire immediately and beat with an egg beater until smooth. When the custard is cold add the vanilla, mix well together and chill thoroughly before serving. The remaining two egg whites may be used for a meringue on top of the custard if desired.

WAFFLES.

2 eggs.
1 cup milk.
6 tablespoons shortening.
1½ cups self-rising flour.
1 tablespoon sugar.
¾ teaspoon salt.

Add shortening to eggs, sift dry ingredients three times, add flour and milk alternately to eggs, beating to a smooth batter. Time required for preheating irons before putting in batter, ten minutes.

AT THE CONFERENCE.

Japan offers to agree to a holiday in battleship construction until 1936, to reduce the tonnage of battleships to 25,000, and to reduce the maximum caliber of guns to 14 inches. On the question of cruiser ratios Japan is significantly silent. Tokyo stands firm in its demand that Japan shall have 70 per cent of America's big cruiser tonnage.

France has fixed its total naval tonnage at a figure which makes its practically impossible for Great Britain to agree with the United States on cruiser parity on the basis outlined by Secretary Stimson. The large submarine program of France prevents Prime Minister MacDonald from signing a hard and fast agreement to hold down the British cruiser schedule to 50 vessels, 35 of them to be of small tonnage.

France makes a naval agreement contingent upon political agreements looking to security. Foreign Minister Briand proposes that the powers, including the United States, shall agree to confer in case of a threatened violation of the Kellogg pact. Another proposal is that the powers shall agree to withhold supplies from any nation violating the Kellogg pact.

The insistence by France upon these political treaties would mean the failure of the conference, either by a breakup in London or by the rejection of a treaty embodying the proposed agreement. The Senate made its position on these points very clear when it ratified the Kellogg pact. It gave notice that the United States would not be morally or otherwise bound to take any action against a violator of the pact. The entanglements that would result from an agreement to confer in the event of a threatened violation are such as to preclude the possibility of Senate approval of such an arrangement. An agreement to confer would inevitably result in a demand that the United States should cooperate against any nation threatening to break the peace.

By hook and crook the powers are endeavoring to draw the United States into an agreement to underwrite the peace of Europe. The United States has refused to enter into such an engagement. Its experience at the Paris peace conference and in the debt negotiations serves as a warning against committing itself in European political affairs. If the American delegation at London, through its intense desire to consummate a naval limitation treaty, should attempt to bind the United States to political engagements, its work would be brought to naught by the refusal of the Senate to ratify the treaty. A naval limitation agreement is desirable, but Americans would object to paying such a price for it. They will not mortgage the country to a future war for the sake of reaching a temporary agreement on navies.

An Anglo-American cruiser agreement is more improbable now than when the conference opened. Japan's demand can not be met, on account of objections by the British dominions, to say nothing of the danger that would attend American interests in the Pacific by upsetting the relativity of naval forces. France's political demands certainly can not be accepted by the United States, and if British cruiser limitation depends upon the granting of these political demands the hope of Anglo-American cruiser parity goes glimmering. France and Italy are deadlocked on the parity question.

The fundamental obstacles that stared Ramsay MacDonald in the face when he called the conference have not been budged. On the contrary, they are more formidable than ever, as the delegations develop them. The possibility of making concessions diminishes as the respective national demands are crystallized and published.

CHIEF JUSTICE HUGHES.

A strange mixture of motives, most of them unworthy, tempted many senators to oppose the confirmation of Charles E. Hughes. In only one or two of the arguments advanced in opposition to this nomination was there any plausibility or trace of validity, and even these arguments were accompanied by insincerity, partisan rancor, or demagoguery.

The net result of the assault upon Mr. Hughes is an increase of popular disgust with the modern tendency of the Senate to desert its ancient standards. The majority saved the situation, but the reputation of the Senate has received another smirch.

To the extent that the attack upon Mr. Hughes was a masked attack upon President Hoover the maneuver was most discreditable. In so far as it was intended to disparage the intellectual integrity of Mr. Hughes it was a failure. Some of his assailants may have thought they were winning applause by their audacity in shooting at a conspicuous target, but their effort merely served to make a strong contrast between them and Mr. Hughes, to their own disadvantage. The partisanship that animated some of Mr. Hughes' critics was injurious to them and to their party.

Setting aside the undisclosed reasons for the opposition to Mr. Hughes, the ostensible objection centered around the idea that he is incapable of reaching just conclusions on questions in which public rights clash with corporate greed. He has acted as counsel for great corporations; hence his mind has become so warped that he could not give righteous judgment. This criticism, variously developed, was accompanied by profuse assurances that Mr. Hughes' integrity and ability were fully acknowledged. His critics did not shrink, however, from proclaiming their own superior virtue as guardians of the public interest. They outlined the theory that the Supreme Court has become a political machine, controlled by reactionaries whose duty and delight is to facilitate the robbery of the people's birthright by corporations. Only two or three justices, they said, were on the people's side; the others should not be strengthened by placing Mr. Hughes at their head.

The Supreme Court has been insulted in the course of the Senate debate upon Mr. Hughes' nomination. The members of the court need not fear that the public looks with indifference upon this defamatory attack. It is deeply resented. The court holds unimpaired the profound respect and full confidence of the people. The public confidence in Mr. Hughes stands proof against the efforts to tear it down. He goes to his exalted place with the good will and best wishes of the people.

IMPORTING BAD DRUGS.

The Federal food and drug act was passed 23 years ago because manufacturers of foods, drugs and liquors had come to practice adulteration and misbranding to an alarming extent. The act provided severe penalties for those found guilty of manufacturing, selling or transporting adulterated or misbranded commodities and, in the case of drugs, it made the United States Pharmacopoeia the standard. The public today is of the opinion that adulterated and misbranded foods and drugs are off the market. In the case of drugs, it believes that the symbol "U. S. P." on the bottle or carton is equivalent to the Government brand on meat. Assuming that the law is rigorously enforced, the "U. S. P." does guarantee the purity and strength of the contents.

Howard W. Ambruster, of New York, appeared before the Senate committee on agriculture and forestry the other day to charge that officials of the Department of Agriculture have been lax in enforcing the provisions of the food and drug act having to do with certain crude drugs and medicinal preparations, and to ask that the committee undertake an extensive investigation with a view to corrective action. It is the practice of the department, he said, to extend privileges not contemplated in the act for the purpose of "preventing unnecessary business losses." Substandard drugs are allowed to be brought in, he charges, which, when "reconditioned and rebranded," are released as "U. S. P." standard, or released as substandard for uses which are not sanctioned by the United States Pharmacopoeia. Substandard anesthetic ether, digitalis and ergot, three of the most important drugs, were singled out by Mr. Ambruster as being particularly prevalent on the market.

The charges demand investigation. It is highly important to the preservation of the public health and the prevention of death that drugs be of the highest standard. While Government departments should at all times administer the law so as to minimize any adverse effect on legitimate business, the food and drug act was enacted for the protection of the public and it, of all statutes, should be rigorously enforced. The word "reconditioned" often covers fraudulent operations in products dangerous to health and life.

THE PURCHASER OF LIQUOR.

Because police forgot to obtain a witness to the transaction, the charge of purchasing liquor without a license, lodged against a citizen, has been dropped. The United States Attorney's office, however, announces that a similar test case will be made at an early date, and the Prohibition Bureau announces that such a case will be carried through to the Supreme Court of the United States.

A case based on an out-and-out purchase of liquor would in its essential elements be dissimilar from the case which, in October, was decided against the Government by the Circuit Court of Appeals. The defendant in that case was Alfred E. Morris, of New York, who admitted having directed Joel Kerper, Philadelphia bootlegger, by telephone to ship liquor in camouflaged packages to a New York address. The appellate court reversed the lower court, holding that transportation is an element of sale for which the purchaser can not be held responsible, and the defendant was freed. A case based on an out-and-out purchase would be prosecuted not under the purchase or conspiracy clause, but under section 16, chapter 2, of the national prohibition act of October 28, 1919, which says:

> No one shall . . . purchase . . . any liquor without first obtaining a permit from the commissioner so to do.

This section, of course, has to do with the purchase of liquor for certain legal purposes. Whether or not it is possible to invoke it against the patron of a bootlegger is doubtful. A constitutional question is involved, the same as is raised against the legality of the pending Sheppard bill, which would, in effect, add the word "purchase" to the section of the law that makes it unlawful to manufacture or sell intoxicating beverages.

The Volstead act provides the machinery for enforcing the eighteenth amendment and only the Volstead act can be amended by Congress. Since the amendment does not include the word "purchase," and since the national prohibition act in all respects must be in harmony with the amendment, it is a question whether the Supreme Court would validate the addition of the word "purchaser." It is interesting to note the opinion of the appellate court in the Morris case. Nowhere in the eighteenth amendment, said the court, is the purchaser mentioned. Congress "deliberately and intentionally," it added, made the purchaser of liquor guiltless of any offense.

A BLUE SKY LAW.

Hearings on the bill recently introduced by Senator Blaine seeking to control and regulate the issuance and sale of securities in Washington are expected to be scheduled at an early date. The need for blue sky laws in Washington is obvious. The Blaine measure would require brokers and salesmen to register, and it also specifies that issues of securities must be registered. The Public Utilities Commission would be empowered to administer its provisions.

It would be a mistake if the Public Utilities Commission were forced to assume this function. Stocks, bonds and other securities by no stretch of imagination can be classified as public utilities. If the Utilities Commission is forced to assume the administration of the blue sky law the primary function for which the commission was created might be submerged.

This is a matter to be threshed out in public hearings. But it is generally agreed that a bill to control the sale and issuance of securities in Washington should be enacted.

PROFIT IN FORESTS.

Charles Lathrop Pack recently made available a fund of $200,000 which is to be administered by the University of Michigan's school of forestry and conservation. Extensive research work will be undertaken, which may make possible complete or partial rehabilitation of Michigan's millions of idle acres. Mr. Pack expressed the wish that a competent forester be employed, who will spend more of his time in the woods than in the classroom. The forester would work particularly with graduate students, familiarizing them with forest conditions.

There are two specific courses to be followed: Development of the wild land properties owned by the university, which comprise more than 7,000 acres in various parts of the State, and cooperation with forest land owners in an effort to promote the practice of forestry and make more profitable the forest management of privately owned land. Attempts to turn large tracts of denuded forest lands into new growth will be made. Practical aspects of forest management are to be stressed throughout the program, and present methods of forestry will be studied and compared with improved methods. The methods that promise most in the way of forest improvement and economic returns will be tested in commercial practice, in the hope that owners of forest land will be made to realize that forestry is profitable as well as desirable.

PARITY IN SEA POWER

By an Admiral, United States Navy.

It behooves the United States to get parity with England in its Navy, but if and when we have parity of navies it will not mean parity in merchant marine and bases. Bases are of far less importance than a merchant marine. This lack of bases can be largely neutralized in these days of mammoth merchant vessels using oil for fuel. Not many years ago the United States was content to have a second-rate or even a third-rate Navy. The late President Wilson demanded a Navy inferior to none. The country woke up and this demand has steadily grown, until now the people of the United States demand and will accept nothing less than parity with the nation that has proudly taken for granted for centuries that its navy, as a matter of course, must be and would be superior to that of any other nation.

The people as a whole do not realize that parity in the navy will not give parity in sea power. When they do realize it they will get it, by building a merchant marine. Large, fast merchant ships are potential aircraft carriers and cruisers.

Until aviation was developed, merchant vessels were potential cruisers only. Now they are potential battleships, because every large, fast merchant ship is a potential aircraft carrier, and can be quickly fitted with a flight deck and can carry a large number of bombing planes, each carrying bombs of 500 pounds and upward, whose offensive range is at least ten times that of a gun.

Aviation has revolutionized naval as well as all other warfare. The sooner the public wakes up to this fact the better for our national security. When the public realizes that aviation has made it indispensable that the merchant marine shall form a part of American sea power for national defense, we will have a merchant marine inferior to none, and commensurate with our population and resources.

The Government should bring about the building of merchant marine ships of the types it needs, not only for commerce, but for conversion into aircraft carriers and cruisers in time of war. Aircraft carriers and cruisers are a heavy expense. They are necessary as the naval branch of the Nation's defense, both from the material standpoint and for training personnel in time of peace. But merchant ships, which are potential war vessels and a necessary part of the Nation's defense in time of war, would cost the taxpayer nothing for maintenance in time of peace and would increase the power of the Navy in a national emergency.

Let us therefore consider carefully the merchant marine, ship by ship, with other powers. Congress should push forward the policy of carrying our commerce under our own flag in our own ships.

THE SAGE AND THE TOILER.

The depths of wisdom few can ever sound;
One must have time in which to grow profound.
He spends with books those hours when others toil
To furnish students with their midnight oil.

Some, that the world may well support a sage,
Delve mines for coal, but never turn a page.
Many, compelled to work for drink and meat,
Have little time to sit at Plato's feet.

Who knows what sage is following a plow
Or what great artist hammers rivets now,
Who, born before or later by one day,
Might have gone far on quite a different way?

Thus many work above and under ground,
At lathe and bench, that wisdom may be found,
And millions work, for every human need,
That sages may be free to think and read.

Marriage Makes You a Partner—Not a School Teacher.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

LET us suppose you have an imperfect wife.

She has certain mannerisms, unnoticed by other people, that annoy you because you see them every day.

She has faulty teeth; she is too stout; she is at times untidy; she uses slang expressions because her vocabulary is limited, and she doesn't complete her sentences; she reads light fiction and doesn't keep well informed.

Because of these faults, and many others, your heart is filled with bitterness and you count your marriage a failure.

And a failure it is—a complete failure—if your conception of marriage is correct.

If the marriage contract pledged you to discover and correct all of your wife's imperfections, and rebuild her personality to suit yourself, the experiment has been a flop.

But your conception of marriage isn't correct.

The marriage contract merely pledged you to protect and cherish your wife and bear with her faults—as she bears with yours.

Other women of your acquaintance may have faults similar to those of your wife, but they annoy you very little and you feel no urge to correct them.

Their faults, you concede, are none of your business.

They are, you admit, free individuals with the right to talk and act and dress and eat as they please, without your advice or approval.

It is obvious, then, that your wife's faults torture you because you have assumed the right and duty to take away her liberty of action and train her and judge her.

If she were in all particulars as she is now, and yet a mere boarder in your house instead of being your wife, her faults would not distress you.

That being true, your pathway to peace and happiness is clear.

You have only to disabuse your mind of a false premise—to rid yourself of the absurd belief that you were divinely appointed to criticize and correct your wife—to understand, once for all, that she is an adult, free to develop and maintain her personality without any help from you—and at once your burden of care will roll away.

It is only the confirmed meddler who is made unhappy by a neighbor's failure to have his children relieved of their adenoids.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"THE MARTIN JOHNSON JUNGLE INFLUENCE, OR WHY LIONS GO MAD."

I

When the little baby lions are about to go to bed
In the very deepest jungles where the king of beasts is bred,
Mommer Lion and her husband warn the children in a row
Of the hunter and the huntress of the moving picture show.
"Once the jungle," so they tell them, "was a lovely place to live,
But today a lion has to dodge the motor truck and the fliv,
And the menace he must watch for with his ears and nose and eyes
Is the rush of motor vehicles with camera supplies."

II.

"On the veldt," says Papa Lion, "once a lion had a chance
And the life was fairly tranquil and a little like a trance;
Now and then a rifle cracked and a lion had to jump,
But there weren't seven hunters to each tree and bush and clump
Oh, today the life is awful and the strain is most intense
For the jungle's full of ladies and it's also full of gents
Who are swarmin' through the grasses and are slogging through the bogs
To supply the picture houses with the jungle travelogues.

III.

"There are clickings in the thicket, there are whirrings everywhere
As the motion picture crankers stir a tempest in the air;
There's a lens at every turning and outside of every lair
There's a Mr.-Mrs. Johnson or some other eager pair.
It's a life most photographic that the modern lion leads
As the tourists get the pictures for their tales of epic deeds,
And although there is less bloodshed in this very modern day
Lions much prefer their shooting in the good old-fashioned way.

IV.

"We are photographed when resting and we're photographed asleep.
We are snapped when we are eating and we're taken when we leap,
We are snapped when we are running and we're taken at a walk,
And we know a lens is on us when we prowl and when we stalk.
We are photographed by dozens when we go to take a drink
And we have our pictures taken when we even pause to think;
We are taken when we're angry and we're taken when we play—
All we hear is cameras clicking every minute of the day.

V.

"Flivvers rattle all about us and we're very much annoyed
As the trucks go rumbling—rumbling to the front with celluloid;
For there's nothing makes a lion seem so much a helpless ham
As to waste away of hunger caught within a traffic jam.
So, my children, be as careful as you possibly can be
In a life in which you'll scarcely know the slightest privacy;
If you hear a rifle cracking never make the slightest fuss,
Take your bullet without flinching; it will be much better thus."

If she jumped as high and came down as hard as our bedfellow does when he turns over it's a wonder she didn't break her neck.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Suggestions for Revision of Retirement Rules and Annuity Pay.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since matters affecting the civil service retirement law are of current active interest to thousands here and elsewhere, I wish to submit a few suggestions thereon for consideration of those interested. I would change the present law by providing for optional retirement of the employes after 30 years of service and arrival at the age of 65 years. I would also suggest the total elimination of the consideration of salaries received by the various employes and grant to each retiring employe $40 for each year of service from 15 years on up to 30 years inclusive. This provision would grant an annuity of $1,200 for a service of 30 years, and of $600 for those who had rendered 15 years' service. The amount of annuity for those who served more than 15 years and less than 30 years could be properly adjusted. Thus, an annuitant who might be retired after a service of 20 years would receive $800 per year.

I feel sure that the provisions I have suggested here would not only simplify matters of retirement, but would be absolutely just to all concerned. As I understand it, retirement of civil service employes was inspired by a feeling on the part of our lawmakers that faithful employes should be kept from want after their separation from the service. Salaries received by various employes are often a matter of favoritism and should receive no consideration in adjusting annuities to those retired. J. R. W.

Senator Blease Highly Commended as an Asset in the Forthcoming Work of Fumigating Washington.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Senator Coleman Livingston Blease (Democrat), Columbia, S. C., champions the appointment of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, "drafted" by Mr. Hoover for District Commissioner. The senator has been governor of South Carolina, mayor of Newberry, city attorney, member and president pro tempore of the South Carolina Senate, Speaker of the South Carolina House, and is a Red Man, Odd Fellow, Knight of Pythias, Elk, Bull Moose, Methodist, and Woodman of the World. Besides all these different important connections he knows something about the "spirit and letter of the law" and, like Mr. Hoover, he knows when a fellow is eligible for the job of Commissioner perhaps as well, if not better, than some of these alleged "medicine men" who are trying to start something on a technicality while the city awaits a fumigating process that has been promised by Mr. Hoover, our able President.

Mr. Blease says he supports the President because he is right. Other senators are beginning to think Mr. Blease is an asset in that body instead of a liability, and a good man to have on the District committee for constructive work when fumigating starts.

Tourist Information Plan Commended—Let Every Citizen Be a Municipal Host to Visitors.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see by your paper that President Darr, of the Chamber of Commerce, will call a meeting of interested individuals and organizations to consider the establishment of a tourist information bureau. The need for such a bureau is obvious. In the near future, when Washington is the greatest show city in the world, its activities will be essential in our municipal life, and it is pleasing to learn, as stated in The Post, that "the outlook for its establishment is regarded as especially bright."

In the meantime, while this "municipal host" idea is being put in shape, it might be well for all our citizens to make themselves volunteer agents of the prospective bureau; for there is nothing which pleases the sight-seeing tourist in an unfamiliar town more than a friendly and helpful welcome by its inhabitants. Looking to the future, it might also be worth while to coach our children on its geography and special points of interest, so that in days to come the National Capital may have a world-wide reputation for thoughtful hospitality.

Judges of the District Court Unjustly Criticized on the Strength of the Secret Spy Reports.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: You are to be most heartily congratulated and commended upon the timely and able editorial appearing in Monday morning's edition of The Post, regarding the espionage of the Bureau of Efficiency over the justices of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia and of other courts.

Without the slightest apparent conception of the exacting and arduous duties of a judge, and upon the mere assertion of a class of so-called efficiency experts, our judges are subjected to unwarranted and wholly unauthorized criticism and embarrassment. The judges may, of course, with all propriety, decline to lend ear to this criticism and refuse to feel embarrassed by it; but, being human, they doubtless realize that their critics will have the following of a measure of public opinion, and it is fortunate that they have such exponents of fair play as The Post to speak for them the things they can not well say in their own behalf.

H. S. BARGER.

Says Ruth Bryan Owen Is Entitled to Seat in Congress Under Nineteenth Amendment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The law that is invoked to keep Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen out of Congress deprives her of all rights of citizenship, including the right to vote and hold office. This is in clear violation of the nineteenth amendment, which declares the right to vote shall not be abridged by reason of sex.

The clear intent here was that citizenship should no longer be defined in terms of sex. The only way that Congress could make this amendment fully effective was to remove all disabilities on account of sex, so far as the ballot box was concerned.

Let the supreme law of the land have the right of way and give Mrs. Owen her seat in Congress.

NATIONALS HARASSED IN CHINA BY BANDITS

American Tankers Protected by U. S. Gunboats Against River Pirates.

REBELLION IS RAMPANT

Shanghai, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Widespread depredations by bandit armies and renewed rebellion in Honan province today harrassed the Nationalist government of China. American shipping, fired upon by bandits, was given United States warship convoy.

Apparently the Nationalist government has moved its force against the bandits only in Kwangtung province, of which Canton is the capital. Extensive depredations in that province caused the government to prepare an expedition of troops and five gunboats.

In Hunan, Kiangsi, Hupeh, Szechyan, Anhwei and Kiangsu provinces bandit armies, largely composed of former soldiers, are pillaging towns, hampering shipping and making travel in interior China unsafe. Bands of armed women bandits are perpetrating highway robberies south of Peiping, the former capital.

River boats plying between Hankow and Chungking and between Hankow and Changsa have been fired upon frequently. At Yochow, in Hunan province, ships of the Standard Oil Co. were searched by marauders under the pretext that the vessels are suspected of carrying contraband goods. An American gunboat at Hankow has been ordered to accompany oil boats and to prevent search.

Meanwhile Shih-Yu-San, Nationalist general who led his troops in mutiny at Pukow in December, is reported in rebellion at Kweiteh, Honan province, with 30,000 men already concentrated for a drive against the government. Lesser rebel leaders are joining forces with him.

The Nationalist government, which ended extensive rebellion in December, assertedly by buying off opposing leaders and troops, is said to be gathering troops at Hsuchow, Kiangsu province, to combat the threatened rebel advance.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Herbert Hoover's friends in California are pretty well agreed that the Democratic-Progressive coalition fight on the tariff got the President out of what might have easily been a nasty hole. Not that they have any gratitude or friendly feeling for the coalition on that account, for they do not like that combination's motives. Moreover, those who are business men among them resent very bitterly the tremendous delay, which they feel has had a most unfortunate effect on business, at a time when every shoulder was needed to keep the business wheel turning.

They feel, however, that there might have been a very serious reaction against the administration had the bill gone through as framed in the House. Several men who are very close to the President assure me that he would have vetoed it. Others disagree with this, but almost every one of his friends think it was a blessing for Mr. Hoover's personal political fortune that the Democrats and Progressives pared down the bill.

* * * *

THERE is no sympathy whatever, among this group, naturally, for either of the "offside" amendments added to the bill by the Senate. There is very general conviction that the debenture farm export subsidy is an economic crime, which would bring disaster on the farmers of the country by forcing worse overproduction than now exists. California is so conservative on such questions that it fears very generally that the Farm Board advances, even to the local raisin growers, may result in disastrous overproduction. Raisins are on all fours with wheat and cotton in that this country—which in the case of raisins practically means California—raises more than is consumed at home, with the result that a fair sized fraction of the crop has to be exported.

Nor is there any approval by the President's friends, all of whom are enthusiastic and highly vocal in his praise, about what the Senate has done about the flexible tariff. Friends of Mr. Hoover object to his being deprived of the power to raise or lower rates after a report by the Tariff Commission, a power which they contend has been wisely exercised now by three Presidents.

* * * *

THEY wax very sarcastic indeed in discussing the statement by Senator George, of Georgia, that for the President to retain this power is to make the tariff a foot ball of politics. They insist that if every recommendation of the tariff commission has to be acted on by Congress before going into effect that the result would be a continuous logrolling process, and with no schedule acted upon exclusively on its merits.

California, strangely enough, has benefited enormously by this same logrolling process. It has many products on which it demands protection, but in which no other State is particularly interested. It has many others in which very few other States are interested.

This is the real explanation of the historic break between Hiram Johnson and the Middle and Northwestern Progressives in the tariff fight of 1922. Johnson naturally did a lot of trading. He agreed to vote for all sorts of duties in which California was not interested in order to get senators from other States to vote for the duties in which he was interested. This resulted logically in his being arrayed with the high tariff group, to the great disgust of the elder La Follette, George Norris, of Nebraska, and other Progressives.

On the delay element, while Mr. Hoover's friends resent it, their thought now is that there is no advantage in crying over spilt milk. Meanwhile they really think the "Chief" is much better off than had the bill been rushed through as the House passed it, with Mr. Hoover to take the blame whether he signed or vetoed.

CHICAGO INDICTS 18 IN CRIME CAMPAIGN

One Bombing and One Robbery Is Violence Record for Day.

MANY HOODLUMS FREED

Chicago, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Indictments were returned against 18 gunmen and true bills were reported voted naming five others today as the police drive against crime went forward with only one bombing and one important robbery blotting the record for the day.

Most of the 425 hoodlums seized in the round-up last night, including Myles O'Donnell, reputed West Side gang chief, were released today. O'Donnell, however, was placed under $1,400 bond on a charge of disorderly conduct. Three of his four henchmen arrested with him were among those said to be named in true bills for carrying guns. They remained in jail. O'Donnell obtained his freedom because of a weak heart. He fainted when a photographer's flashlight boomed during the police show-up last night. Bonds of $10,000 each were set for the 18 less well-known gunmen named in the indictments and State's Attorney John A. Swanson said early trials would be sought.

The only robbery of consequence during the last 24 hours cost Frank Duffek, treasurer of a building and loan company, $2,064 in cash which two stick-up men took after surprising him while he was getting the money ready for the bank.

The bombing did $20,000 damage to a welding and boiler repairing company on the Northwest Side. Officials of the company said they had had no labor troubles and told police they could not account for the bombing.

So far this week the police drive has rounded up more than 2,500 suspects, but O'Donnell and his pals were the only "big shots" caught. There have been no gang killings since nearly a week ago when a series of them, taking seven lives in as many days, led to the campaign against the criminals.

Detroit's Police Head Hit in Quiz

Former Commissioner Infers Superintendent Has Plot Story Changed.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The highest ranking officer of the Detroit police department, Superintendent James Sprott, was the target of inferences at today's session of a police trial board which began its second week of listening to stories of departmental connivance with the underworld.

Sprott's accuser was William P. Rutledge, retired commissioner. The two white-haired men, who served together in the department for two decades, faced each other in the trial room and at one time interrupted proceedings to hurl charges and denials back and forth.

Rutledge, who had requested that Sprott be present, inferred from testimony given by Sprott and statements by others that pressure by Sprott, "or something else," influenced Detective Adolph Van Coppenolle, defendant before the board, to change his story of a departmental plot against the life of Inspector Henry J. Garvin.

United States Electric, formed a few months ago by United Founders Harris Forbes & Co., Albert Emmanuel & Co., and other banking interests, has become a dominant interest in Standard Power and Light Corporation. NAVAL PARLEY GIRLS ARE PARTY GUESTS

American Stenographers, in Fur Coats, Objects of Special Interest.

JOBS CUT ATTENDANCE

London, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The stenographers of five nations had a party here tonight. The girls attached to the secretarian and clerical staffs of the naval conference delegations were guests of the British Association of Women Secretaries in Ancient Crosby Hall.

Many of the girls were unable to leave their jobs, so the full quotas of the American, French, Italian and Japanese secretarial forces were not represented.

Miss Rose Rosenberg, personal secretary to Prime Minister MacDonald, greeted the guests in the name of the association, and Dr. Marion Phillips, Labor member of Parliament, spoke to them on behalf of British working girls.

The Americans were led by Eileen McKenny, of the State Department, who briefly thanked the British for their hospitality and presented the regrets of the girls who were obliged to work late at headquarters.

The Americans, most of whom wore fur coats, were objects of special interest and attention from the others. It was the first time that the "working flappers," who have been much written about in the British press, had appeared in a general gathering of international secretaries. About 150 of London's most prominent secretaries greeted the foreigners.

Crosby Hall, which is the home of the Association of University Women, is one of the show places of London. It was originally a Tudor baronial dining hall in another part of the city and was removed piecemeal to Chelsea and reassembled along the Thames River.

To "Point-Up" Appetite Just Stimulate Bowels

Whenever the end of the day finds you out-of-sorts; food doesn't tempt you and won't digest; breath is bad; tongue coated, just chew a candy tablet before bedtime. Tomorrow you'll be a new person!

A candy Cascaret clears up a bilious, gassy, headachy condition every time. Puts appetite on edge. Helps digestion. Activates bowels.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which authorities say actually strengthens bowel muscles. So, take these delightful tablets as often as you please; or give them freely to children. All drug stores sell Cascarets for a dime, and no dollar preparation could do better work.

$17,000 IS AWARDED TO SPANISH DANCER to award her $10,000 for expenses, but her counsel, having previously agreed to be satisfied with $2,000, the court instructed that the verdict be made to agree.

The trial had been under way for more than a week, Earle's testimony being taken by deposition. Miss Salazar accused Earle of having gone through a mock marriage with her in Mexico City and of having thrown her out of a hotel in Paris. He denied both charges and in his deposition testified that the dancer "fell in my lap like a ripe peach."

In the trial Miss Salazar also had asked $15,000 damages assertedly promised by Earle to place her in the movies. The court, when instructing the jury, disallowed this claim.

The dancer's attorneys announced after the verdict that they will press for trial on two counts which were dropped during the suit, for total additional damages of $150,000. This amount was dropped from the present suit because the court held there was insufficient evidence. One count charged breach of promise to marry, and the other betrayal under promise to marry.

The jurors deliberated less than two hours. Several of the women jurors wept as the dancer and her family thanked them.

Florence Trumbull Chose Between Mate and Plane

She Intended to Get Aviation License, But Was Dissuaded by Young Coolidge, Governor of Connecticut Reveals at Air Show.

New York, Feb. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Florence Trumbull chose between a pilot's license and a President's son.

This fact was disclosed today by Gov. John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, father-in-law of John Coolidge, during an interview with newspapermen at the Grand Central Palace, whither he had come to see the New York aviation show sponsored by Aviators' Post, No. 743, American Legion. Gov. Trumbull, an ardent believer in and user of airplanes, had intended to fly to the exposition but was prevented by the weather.

He said his daughter, Florence, inherited his enthusiasm for aviation and had been flying at every opportunity since she was a child. She was looking forward to taking a regular course of instruction leading up to tests for a pilot's certificate when she became seriously interested in young Coolidge and confided to him her aerial ambitions.

John immediately set about dissuading her, the governor said, and enlisted the father's aid in his campaign. Their joint efforts were successful, Gov. Trumbull said, but he added that Florence's younger sister, Jean, now has the "flying bug" and seems in a fair way to win the wings which her sister reluctantly gave up.

Gov. Trumbull said Connecticut hopes soon to lead all the States of the Union in the promotion of aviation.

Spring Return Of Mrs. Keyes Is Anticipated

Authoress Keeps House With Son in South America.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE major portion of her journey through South America behind her, Mrs. Henry Wilder Keyes is slowing making her way homeward and is due here sometime in the spring. Recently she has enjoyed the interesting experience of setting up housekeeping in Santiago de Chile, with her son, Mr. John Keyes, and one of his college mates, to keep her company.

Ever since she started on her tour of the Latin-American republics to gather material for magazine articles, Mrs. Keyes (Francis Parkinson Keyes), has wanted to learn more of how our neighbors to the south live than can be learned from residence in hotels, much the same the world over. But with an itinerary which included a trip to the tip of Cape Horn and back again, she had been too much bound by train, boat and airplane schedules to experiment until she reached Chile.

At present, probably, Mrs. Keyes is in Peru. Later she expects to visit Colombia and she is hopeful of reaching Bogota before Senor Enrique Olaya, Minister of Colombia to the United States and recently elected president of the republic, starts back to Washington. Mrs. Keyes is an old friend of Senor and Senora de Olaya. Long ago the minister arranged that the author of the "Letters of a Senator's Wife," which were read with so much interest all over the United States, should be the guest of the Colombian government. So she will have important evidence of Dr. Senor Olaya's friendship and regard even if he is not in Bogota to entertain her personally when she arrives.

As a prelude to her South American tour, Mrs. Keyes went to Spain last summer to attend the exposition at Seville and Barcelona. On this lap of her long journey, she was accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Sherley, who "chaperoned" an exhibit which the Children's Bureau sent over to the Seville exposition. Miss Sherley also went to South America with Mrs. Keyes for a few weeks, but returned several months ago when Mr. John Keyes went out to join his mother.

The Minister of Guatemala and Mme. Recinos entertained last night at dinner in honor of the retiring Minister to Guatemala, Mr. Arthur H. Geissler.

Paulina Takes Limelight on Valentine Day

Longworth Baby Attains Fifth Birthday in Capital.

The country's most famous "Valentine baby," Paulina Longworth, is celebrating today her fifth birthday. There will be no party to mark the day, but presumably there will be a birthday cake with five candles—and one to grow on. This is the season of anniversaries in the home of the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Longworth. Wednesday was Mrs. Longworth's birthday also celebrated with only the usual family ceremonies. And Monday is the twenty-fourth anniversary of the marriage of Representative Longworth and Miss Alice Roosevelt, which was solemnized in the White House with the whole civilized world devouring newspaper accounts of the wedding of President Roosevelt's daughter.

Paulina Longworth seems to have inherited her mother's hold upon the imagination of the American people. As "Princess Alice" is the one of the Roosevelt children who is "news," no matter what she does or leaves undone, so Paulina outshines the other Roosevelt grandchildren, sturdy and handsome as they are, in news value. Photographs of the youngster always go over "in a big way" and the simplest story of her activities is always reprinted from coa to coast.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives and Mrs. Longworth will be the honor guests at a reception Friday evening, February 28, at 5 o'clock, of the Congressional Club, at 2001 New Hampshire avenue.

Hostesses for the Friday afternoon tea at the club today will be Mrs. Edwin Ladd, Mrs. W. P. Lambertson, Representative Katherine Langley, Mrs. Robert Lansing, Mrs. Clarence F. Lea, Mrs. Scott Leavitt, Mrs. R. Q. Lee, Mrs. J. Russell Leech, Mrs. Irvine L. Lenroot, Mrs. F. Dickinson Letts, Mrs. Walter Lineberger and Mrs. J. Charles Linthicum.

WESTERN SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA PLEASES

Musicians of Minneapolis Excel in Rendition of Brahms.

MODERN SCORES PLAYED

Washington extended a hearty greeting to a symphony orchestra from the West yesterday in Constitution Hall when the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra was heard in concert there under the leadership of Henri Verbrugghen.

Conductor Verbrugghen wielded a vigorous baton and the entire program was given with a refreshing, spirited style which added much to the pleasure of the audience.

The symphony of the afternoon, "No 1 in C Minor," by Brahms, received a reading fully adequate to its many beauties. The musicians appeared to have been excellently trained and the ensemble tone was noteworthy. It was apparent from the beginning of the symphony that Henri Verbrugghen was a master of the Brahms school, and in its overwhelming close in the fourth movement he brought out the climaxes magnificently.

The rest of the program included Von Weber's "Overture to Euryanthe," the lovely Debussy "Prelude to L'Apres Midi d'un Faune," and the thrilling Respighi's symphonic poem, "The Pines of Rome," a test in modern composition for any symphony orchestra.

Mrs. Reed is a patient at Emergency Hospital, recovering from concussion of the brain and other injuries suffered in the accident. She was struck by an automobile, police reported, driven by Lawrence J. Doyle, of Baltimore.

"I tried most everything I knew of but nothing did me any good. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me, and in a short time I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss J. L. Washington, R. 4, Box 98, Bartow, Ga., June 18, 1929.

Retirement Bill Hearing Is Listed

Lehlbach Insists That New Measure Is Superior to Old One.

Chairman Lehlbach, of the House civil service committee, announced yesterday that a public hearing would be held on his new retirement bill Tuesday.

At the same time, Representative Lehlbach revealed that his committee had rejected a proposal to report out the old Dale-Lehlbach bill which his new measure supplants.

Chairman Lehlbach has little patience with the critics of his new bill. He contends that they want the old bill because they have been in the habit of asking for things by halves. The new bill, he insists, is by far the better measure for all the 400,000 or more Federal employes concerned.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

There is an important reservation to the car on the right having the right of way in the traffic regulations of the District of Columbia.

That reservation is the one which gives through traffic the right of way at an intersection over traffic which is turning, either to right or left and without any reference to relative position in the intersection.

Example: A motorist is driving south on Seventeenth street northwest. At H, he intends to turn right. As he approaches the intersection, he makes a right turn ahead of another car going straight through the intersection westward on H street. He has violated the law for, although on the right, the regulation specifies that through traffic has the right of way.

"43,040 housewives like you helped to perfect BOND Bread"

—says Mrs. Frances Northcross at the Washington Post Cooking School

BOND BAKERS asked housewives themselves what made bread home-like. And 43,040 housewives sent samples of their best home-baked bread to prove that home-like texture and flavor depended upon the quality and purity of the ingredients used, and upon thorough baking. Year-in and year-out, adherence to the example of these housewives has made Bond Bread the most-asked-for loaf in the world.

TEAR BOMBS HURLED AT PITTSBURGH MOB

Taxicab Strike Causes Clash and Arrest of Six in Street Battle.

MACHINE SET ON FIRE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Disorders in which police resorted to tear gas bombs to disperse large crowds of strikers and sympathizers, today marked Pittsburgh's five-week-old strike of taxicab drivers. The disorders were the most serious since the 1,400 drivers walked out in furtherance of their demands for larger commissions and recognition of their union.

A number of pedestrians were reported to have been knocked down during the trouble, newly employed drivers and guards were struck by bricks and stones and half a dozen persons, described by police as rioters, were clubbed into submission and arrested. One cab was overturned and set on fire after it had been damaged.

The East Liberty section of the city was the scene of the outbreaks. Cabs manned by drivers and guards wearing steel helmets were attacked at two points. In one instance a guard was hurt when hit by a brick.

A driver was injured later and the windows of his cab shattered. An emergency truck appeared to haul away the damaged vehicle and a crowd estimated at 1,000, previously scattered by mounted and foot policemen, set upon the truck. All sorts of missiles were thrown from the crowd and police finally brought the gas bombs into play.

The transportation company whose cabs are involved said 185 persons have been injured since the strike began.

"THE MERCHANT OF VENICE."

Shakespeare's immortal play, "The Merchant of Venice," was presented last night at Poli's Theater before a fair-sized but highly appreciative audience.

"The Merchant of Venice," familiar to all theatergoers, was elaborately staged and handsomely costumed. The story, with its sparkling wisdom and enjoyable comedy was told by a most capable cast, headed by Fritz Leiber, as Shylock, and ably supported by Vera Allen, as Portia; Louis Leon Hall, as Antonio; Hart Jenks, as Bassanio; Virginia Bronson, as Nerissa; Marie Carroll, as Jessica; Robert Allen, as Lorenzo, and others who acted minor parts in highly acceptable fashion.

Mr. Leiber's portrayal of the difficult role of the Jewish money lender with his inborn hatred of Christians, was excellent in the part, while Miss Allen handled the role of Portia splendidly. No less pleasing were Mr. Hall and Mr. Jenks.

The principal comedy role of the play, that of Launcelot Gobbo, a clown and servant to Shylock, was admirably handled by Robert Strauss, whose drollery and continuous prattle while he occupied the stage kept the audience in rare good humor.

This evening the company will offer "Julius Caesar," concluding its Washington engagement with performances tomorrow afternoon and night.

Gambler and Girl Slain in New York

Assassins Kill Dance Hall Hostess and Man While They Run for Lives.

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Mamie Carosia, 24, a dance hall hostess, who formerly was the wife of Robert Carosia, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Carmine Barelli, 30, a gambler, were shot dead early today as they fled in terror along a Bronx street, trying to escape from their unidentified assassins, who pursued them in an automobile.

Mrs. Carosia and Barelli, who, according to the police, had been living for more than a year in a Bronx apartment, had just come out of a garage, where Barelli stored his car, when an automobile drew up to the curb.

Four men stepped out, and as they did so Barelli and Mrs. Carosia separated and ran in opposite directions. Screaming in terror, the woman tripped and fell. As she lay on the pavement, struggling to get up, one of the four men fired four shots into her body. Barelli was cornered in the ramp leading into a nearby garage. With five bullets in his body, he died before an ambulance arrived.

Poison Taken to Test Treatment for Baby

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Act of a young father in taking poison to learn what to do for his 5-month-old daughter, who had been given a dose of the poison by mistake, may save the child's life, physicians said today.

Unable to get a doctor immediately when he learned his wife had given the baby poison for medicine, Clarence C. Jeldy took a dose of the poison, reasoning that his own reaction would tell him what antidote to use. The poison burned, so he began taking soda water, which, he said, seemed to help. He administered the same antidote to the child.

At a hospital, where the baby was reported in a serious condition, physicians said she had been given the proper antidote. Jeldy was not seriously affected.

Flakier Pie-Crust

—and 2 pastry short-cuts

Pie-crust made with Crisco is flakier, more tender. Sweeter-tasting, too, because Crisco tastes so sweet and fresh—yes, actually sweet and pure all by itself!

To save time in pie-baking, you can keep this pastry dough, already mixed, in the ice-box for a week and bake a crust just when you need it. It will stay sweet, because Crisco itself stays sweet. And the thorough chilling will make the crust even flakier than usual.

Or you can keep unbaked pastry-shells in the ice-box always ready for use. Then when you want a pie, just put in your filling, pop the pie into the oven and bake.

2 cups flour
⅔ cup Crisco
½ teaspoon salt
6 to 8 tablespoons cold water
½ teaspoon baking powder

Sift dry ingredients together. Cut Crisco in well with two knives. Add water gradually and only enough to hold mixture together. Roll ¼ inch thick on floured board. For baked shell, take half of recipe and cover inverted pie plate. Leave enough dough to fold back to make a firm edge. Prick well with fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes. For two crust pie, bake at 450° F. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate (350° F.) and bake until filling is done.

Taste Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor

HAVE you ever tasted Crisco? We suggest that you do so.

You taste milk. You test eggs. Now, taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Then you'll understand why Crisco's own sweet, fresh flavor so improves the taste of your cakes, pies, hot breads, cookies and fried foods.

These recipes have been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

CRISCO is used in the Cooking School now being conducted by this paper

Mrs. Frances Northcross, in The Washington Post Cooking School, makes a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she uses Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use; in addition, it helps you secure better, surer results.

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

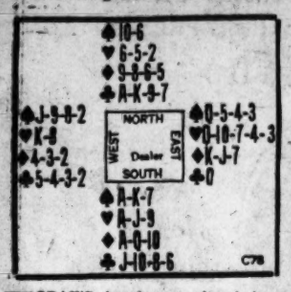
WORK ON BRIDGE

Interesting Hands I Have Met.



TODAY'S hand was played in a game of Contract Bridge.

The Bidding.

South, with a No Trump count of 20 and four suits stopped, bid two No Trumps. One point more in the valuation of his hand would have justified his bidding three No Trumps, and the temptation to make the game-bid with so attractive a hand must have been great. However, it is well to stick to the count; it will be right much oftener than wrong. North, of course, bid three No Trumps, having more than the minimum needed for that purpose.

In Auction South would have been the Declarer with a one No Trump contract.

The Play.

In the play West led the Deuce of Spades and South won East's Queen. South then led the Jack of Clubs hoping to tempt West to play the Queen; when West played a small card, it did not negative his holding the Queen; but South did not finesse; he remembered the rule that a finesse should be postponed until the second round if possible, and, of course, he had a bit of good luck when East's lone Queen fell. After that, the game became one of finesse.

To trick 3 a Diamond was led from North and the double finesse taken by South. To trick 4 South led the Ten of Clubs, overtaking with dummy's King; and a second Diamond was led to trick 5 and won by South's Queen. It now looked as if the adverse Diamonds were split and so South led the Ace and then put dummy in by leading the Eight of Clubs and overtaking with the Nine. Next dummy cashed his Diamond thirteener. South discarding his small Spade; and then came the Heart development. With the lead from dummy and a small Heart played by East, South holding Ace-Jack-9 properly finessed the Nine. It was his best chance to take three Heart tricks. West won and led a Spade; but when South took that trick he was able to put dummy in a fourth time by leading his Six of Clubs and winning in dummy with the Seven. This made possible a second Heart finesse, this time a winning one, and consequently the Declarer rang the gong for twelve tricks.

It was a case in which a small slam was made by the rarest good luck. The adversaries took only one trick with two Kings, three Queens and two Jacks—a most remarkable happening. Of course the North and South hands did not warrant a slam bid.

Art Interprets the Mode

Paris, Feb. 13.

YOU never saw anything like it! You, you never saw anything like it—the nearest thing to it was when we took up the idea about four years ago as a sort of personal whim.

And now of an evening every lovely lady in Paris carries a handkerchief which is, well, without exaggeration, every single speck as large as her bodice.

At that, a decorative 'kerchief in the hand is worth two in the pocket. Who, for instance, could fail to grasp at the ensemble showing the longest black evening dress, the loveliest black velvet wrap with a white collar—and the lovely lady herself carrying a huge flame-colored handkerchief!

Or another—a great white crepe de chine handkerchief carried with a black evening gown—the handkerchief showing a four-inch deep initial in black!

* * * *

And now there isn't any use in asking me what I think about the very large chiffon or crepe de chine handkerchief as a lovely lady accessory—because naturally I would like it since it has been a whim of my own for so very long. Just try the idea out for yourself—go over your handkerchief wardrobe and add six on me—you'll see!

* * * *

At one of those new art expositions—I just can't tell you which one because we've all been attending so many lately—I saw the most thrilling sofa pillows—well, they were made of a paper-woven composition, which almost defies description, yet looks like the most luxurious and beautiful lame (lah-may) you ever saw. Upon not very discreet inquiry about what this particular material might be called, after terrifying experiences had with rayon and such mysterious names, we were duly enlightened to discover that the material is called DAF. If we ever find out why, we'll tell!

* * * *

When in doubt, rely on the Haute Couture for guidance in good taste. Not all Paris-designed clothes are "exaggere," as we have repeatedly told you. The Heim tailored coat of light beige wool that I illustrated for you today is an example of how practical and yet smart a Paris model can be. And just that little added touch of the darker beige caracul!

* * * *

The hardest part of it is thinking up the idea—the rest is easy! And we've planned some of the smartest designs and color touches for your spring jackets and blouses in this week's illustrated leaflet—all you have to do is send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it.

Border designs, triangular appliques, lacings here and there, bolero notes, well, we won't tell you any more about them here. If you want one "badly" enough, you'll send your envelope.

THE COUTURIER.

Lyolene. Today's tongue-twisting pronounciation isn't tongue-twisting at all. You say it so-o-o-o—"lee-o-lane," with no special accent on one syllable or another, rather a musical monotone. Think you'll have to practice it, no?

Are you looking in each Sunday's Washington Post for the Dare weekly fashion letter? We think it's well worth your while, don't you?

Au Revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"You Flatter Us!"

DEAR Miss McDonald—Your column today rather amused me. I'm not going to say much, but all I want to say is this:

If the women find so many faults and complaints about the men, why are they so crazy to get married? They know what men are and the trials and tribulations of marriage, yet they hound every available bachelor who flashes a big roll and drives a good car.

I am a bachelor in my early thirties and after several fast and furious encounters with the "gentle" sex, have come to the conclusion that the only woman who gives a fellow an even break or a square deal is his mother. A son is always perfect, but a husband soon becomes a "bad actor."

Cordially, A. G. J.

You say "women know what men are, and know all the trials and tribulations of marriage." Since when? What girl as she surveys her gorgeousness in the mirror on her wedding day, has the least idea of what she will feel like the day that she first begins to realize "what men are," and what the "trials and tribulations of marriage" are going to be!

We have no way of knowing what men tell other women when attempting to sell them the idea of marriage, but we do know that every man who ever approached us on the subject, enthusiastically pictured how "different" it would be from any marriage that ever was or ever would be. To hear these high-pressure advocates present the proposition one would suppose it would be sweet peas on Monday, orchids on Tuesday, La France buds on Wednesday, and so on all through the week. But what in reality would it be? The laundry man on Monday, the plumber on Tuesday, and a crabby husband on Wednesday.

Listen to some wisdom, dear man! Women know nothing about men. They do not even want to know. They only know about moons, and themesongs, and deep sighs, and they find themselves turning off the oven for the fifth time and surveying a ruined roast while they wonder where the creature is that he could not at least have located a telephone.

Men have all the breaks. They appear upon one's door step immaculate and nearly irresistible. They bear gifts and compliments. Even nature is on their side. And they win. Then they begin to really perform. They will not get up in the morning. They gulp their food. They come late to dinner. They stay out at night. They catch disgusting colds and pass them on. They stop bearing gifts and bear grudges. They tell the truth instead of paying compliments. Show me one unmarried woman who "knows men." Show me one married woman who knows even the one sample that is turning her gray. I tell you, man, it is a conspiracy. It is nature's way of keeping things moving. It is a cruel, practical joke. And the joke is on the woman.

Turning the roast for the sixteenth time, she remembers that he did mumble something into his coffee cup that morning about seeing his publisher but never did he say he would not be home to dinner. And then, it being 10 p. m. the phone rings. And it is the creature. And he is bringing out a couple of friends, and how about something in the chafing dish. The chafing dish forsooth when she has had not a bite of dinner and the pot roast has permeated every corner of the house. But the woman must be the smiling goddess of the home, when the witless group arrive, otherwise she is a nagger and a common scold.

Women get married because they do not know what it is going to be like, and the only reason they stay married is because they are ashamed to admit this fact as true!

Baby Mine

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

RAINY as it was, great numbers turned out to see the Chicago Civic Shakespeare Society's rendition of "Twelfth Night" yesterday matinee at Poli's Theater. In fact, the entire week's business has been and will be good. Mr. T. D. Benneville, manager of the theater, is authority for the statement that the current troupe at Poli's is about as popular as any company that has come along in Shakespearean productions these many years. One of the outstanding members of the company is Vera Allen, who is making quite a hit for herself in this parish.

* * * *

DOWN at the National Theater the management is fearful lest all the history-lovers of filmdom fail to see the incidental picture entitled "Today and Yesterday," an episodic news reel run in connection with "Across the World With Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson." High lights of the world's history during the past 35 years are shown in contrast with some of the modern events—and one scene, especially, shows the townsfolk meandering along Pennsylvania avenue during the inauguration of Grover Cleveland. It was Cleveland's second inaugural, which shows how far back the news reel goes.

* * * *

TWO operettas come to grace the local stages next week—Mitzi in her revival of "Sari," at the National, and Eleanor Painter, at Poli's, in another revival, Victor Herbert's immortal musical work, "The Fortune Teller." Both operas open on Monday night, which gives the first-line dramatic reviewers cause for ponderation. Either opening is worth while, so for once in his career the second-line reviewer gets as good as the best. Where Mitzi has the honor of bringing back the piece that made her famous, Miss Painter comes in a role created by Alice Nielson.

* * * *

ANY look into the future shows a goodly array of musicals as against straight dramatic offerings. Mr. Flo Ziegfeld is on the way to town with "Show Boat," the huge offering he first uncorked in Washington. About the same time, Poli's will have open house for another Victor Herbert revival, "Babes in Toyland." Barry Lupino, the famous English pantomimist, heads the "Toyland" company.

* * * *

AT least one bright young man traveling ahead of theatrical companies has a good word for "the road," so called. He is Mr. Ray Henderson, advance agent for Miss Ethel Barrymore, who is coming here soon—the week after next, in fact—with the Zoe Akins adaptation, "The Love Duel." Mr. Henderson, who has been from one coast to the other with the Barrymore vehicle, says there is a theater in the hinterland, and the crowds turn out to see their stage favorites. It is presumed, of course, that Miss Barrymore was welcomed everywhere.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a. m. to 10:45 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Those things which pertain to family and home will be benefited by the influences for this date. A false move may be made in business and a change should not be entertained at this time. Cupid will be very busy, but it would be best to dodge its arrows, as it is not a "lucky" time to plight your troth.

The child born on this date will have a very modest nature and although gifted with a keen intellect, it will hide its light under a bushel. If a boy, it will have good business sense and will be anxious to be on its own at an early stage.

You have a nature which is an exact opposite to those who were born on February 13. You do not have to acquire a superiority complex—nature endowed you with a superabundance of self-confidence. It may be said that you are quite satisfied with yourself, and in a great many respects you have cause to be grateful for your natural gifts. Your "nerve" is no doubt an asset to you, and it enables you to push to the front. On the other hand, your overconfidence prevents you from recognizing your own limitations, and you sometimes rush forth to an assured defat. Bluff and its attendant, self-assurance, are responsible for many successful careers, but they must be accompanied by common sense.

You try to be hail-fellow-well-met with others, but it produces, inevitably, not the reaction of real comradeship, but of vague resentment. You can not, naturally, place yourself on the level with those whom you consider your subordinates or inferiors. It is hard for you to forget yourself or your own importance and position.

You are highly emotional, and are easily influenced by the people with whom you are thrown in contact. Before you settle down in a home of your own with the chosen man or lady of your heart, you will probably be very fickle minded as far as those of the opposite sex are concerned. You will, however, make a devoted and loyal wife or husband.

Successful people born February 14:

Samuel Osgood, first Postmaster General.

James Appleton, the father of prohibition.

William S. Hancock, brigadier general.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

KEEP OILED FLOORS IN CONDITION

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

Oiled floors should be swept with a soft brush and dusted with an oiled cloth or mop. Occasionally they need a more thorough cleaning with a cloth wrung out of warm, soapy water, followed by polishing with a cloth moistened with kerosene or a good floor oil. Water and soap should be used very sparingly on oiled floors.

Painted floors also should be swept with a soft brush and dusted with a dry or oiled mop. About once a week, or more often if necessary, they need to be wiped or mopped with a wet cloth, and rubbed with an oiled cloth or mop. Scrubbing with strong soap or other alkali will soon ruin a painted floor, and allowing water to remain on it is also injurious.

Cement floors should be swept with a broom and occasionally mopped, scrubbed or flushed with water. They are usually equipped with a drain to carry off the excess. Composition and tiled floors should be swept with a soft brush and dusted with a dry mop. When necessary, they may be washed with a cloth wrung out of warm, soapy water and wiped dry as soon as possible. If water is left standing on a composition floor it may destroy the smooth surface, and in the case of a tiled floor is likely to loosen the cement that holds the tiles in place.

Films About Africa Will Be Shown Tonight

Motion pictures made by Georges-Marie Haardt, who photographed about 90,000 feet of film during a 15,000-mile automobile expedition, which he led through Africa, will be given their first American showing tonight at the Washington Auditorium, under auspices of the National Geographic Society.

The expedition traversed much desert and jungle territory previously almost unknown, and never before entered by automobile. It began in Algeria, crossed the Sahara, through the big-game country, the Belgian Congo, the African Great Lakes area, and Madagascar, bringing back many reels recording strange tribes and customs.

Prize Waltz Planned At Valentine Festival

A Valentine dance and card party, with a prize waltz and a prize for every table of bridge or five-hundred, will be held at the MacFarland Community Center, Iowa avenue and Webster street northwest, beginning at 8 o'clock this evening.

Judges for the prize waltz will be Misses Frances Brightwell, Marjorie Schuster and Grace Ware. Christopher Lehmkuhl, president of the Petworth Citizens Association, will present the prizes. The singing of old-time songs and new love songs, under the direction of Roy Carty, will be a feature.

BLAST NEAR SCHOOL HURTS 50 CHILDREN

Two Are in Serious Condition After Explosion Razes New York Houses.

STILL IS FOUND IN RUINS

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—An explosion, ascribed by police to accumulated gas from a leaky connection, destroyed two one-story brick houses in Brooklyn today, hurled two sleeping Negroes from their beds and ripped out all the windows on one side of a nearby public school building, injuring 50 children. Twelve of the children were taken to hospitals and two were said to be in a serious condition.

The blast occured in an unoccupied brick dwelling house directly across the street from a new wing of Public School No. 83. Police said that they found a still in the ruins of the house, with a rubber hose connecting it to a gas main. The still had not been in operation immediately before the explosion.

Calvin Brooks and his stepson, Levi Graham, 16, Negroes, who were asleep in the other dwelling house, were carried out of the building by the force of the blast and were found in the back yard. Both were seriously injured.

They were placed under arrest at the hospital to which they were taken, but Assistant District Attorney Barclay said he did not believe they were responsible for the accident. He explained that the house in which the blast occurred was rented from Brooks but that the latter apparently had no connection with the operation of the still.

Reports that a bomb had exploded in the school building brought hundreds of frantic parents to the scene, anxiously calling the names of their children. All of the pupils had been taken from the building by this time, but some of the parents broke through the police lines and went inside to see for themselves.

Two thousand children, of whom about 900 were in the new wing, were in the school building when the explosion occurred.

Lutheran Church Talk Planned for Tonight

A review of the development of Christianity "After 1900 Years" will be presented by the Rev. W. C. Schaeffer, pastor of St. John's Church at Allentown, Pa., at the twenty-fourth annual Lutheran Sunday School Institute of the United Lutheran Church of Washington in Keller Memorial Church tonight.

The program, under auspices of the eastern conference of the Maryland Synod, will begin with a devotional service conducted by Austin Cooper at 5 o'clock.

Dignitaries Expected At Shriner Ceremonial

James C. Hoyle, illustrious potentate of Almas Temple, announces that plans have been nearly completed for holding a ceremonial some time the early part of April. Since several dignitaries from other jurisdictions and representatives of the Imperial Council have signified a desire to be present at the first Shrine meeting of Almas Temple in 1930 it is expected that the number of visiting Shriners will be large.

The potentate further states that he has in mind a change in the usual plan of having the degree work presented by the divan officers, and instead will delegate the work to a selected cast. Petitions for inclusion in the class to be instructed at the ceremonial should be in the hands of the recorder not later than March 29.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

DIET AND TOOTH DECAY.

THE great volume of evidence that the teeth can be kept from decaying and the gums can be kept firm and healthy by an anti-scurvy diet attracts attention to the foods which supply considerable quantities of vitamin C. When it was discovered that lime juice and lemon juice would prevent old-fashioned scurvy the authorities soon found it necessary to specify not only the anti-scorbutic foods but also to give the minimum amounts to be used daily.

They found not only that substitutes for lemons were being used, but that there was a tendency to skimp on quantities. Some expected one such a day to keep scurvy away. The regulations for men on sailing vessels called for a minimum of a given amount of lemon juice a day.

In the prevention of tooth decay and diseased gums, these kinsmen of scurvy, we have arrived at the point where dentists and physicians are specifying at least one pint of orange juice a day. This means not one orange, or a pint of oranges, but one pint of undiluted juice of fresh good oranges daily. If a commercially diluted juice is used the purchaser should know the percentage of juice in the mixture, that he may calculate his daily dose of the diluted product. For the moment, oranges are bearing nearly the whole burden.

Among the other foods known to contain considerable quantities of vitamin C are lemon juice, tomato juice, lettuce, sprouted beans, raw cabbage, raw carrots, onions, pineapples, potatoes, turnips, and various other fruits and vegetables. Just how much of each of these foods is required to equal one pint of orange juice as a source of vitamin C remains to be established. The time will doubtless come in which a man may choose between one pint of orange juice and a given quantity of lettuce; or a combination of tomato juice, cabbage, and carrots. Whichever he uses the sum total of anti-scurbutic substance should equal that found in one pint of orange juice.

Some tricks in the art of food preparation will be required to meet this demand. One authority says tomato juice equals orange juice but it is impossible to get a child to drink a pint or more of tomato juice a day. When one listens to discussion of this question he is impressed by the way it leads toward raw as well as fresh foods. The freer use of raw foods will require greater care in the kitchen, in washing and cleaning such foods to free them from dirt, microbes and worms and arsenic and other insect poisons.

GAS AND PERNICIOUS ANEMIA.

T. R. writes: I am convinced that there is something to the theory that burning gas jets in a closed room will cause blood poison. The writer, a man 60 years old, was in the habit of cooking his own breakfast, then shutting the kitchen door and lighting four gas burners, then reading for 30 minutes. He had been doing this for three weeks when he was suddenly taken down with a desperate case of pernicious anemia. The blood count was very bad, the cheeks sunken in and three doctors thought he would not live a week. However, after treatment, he was cured.

There must be something to the theory advanced that the burning gas uses up all the oxygen in the room and that it affects the blood stream in some unkown way.

REPLY.

Leaking carbon monoxide and unburned gas can cause chronic poisoning as well as the acute kind. However, it is not due to deficient oxygen in the air.

If you had pernicious anemia some other cause was in operation.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1930. 15

ELDER, HERE, SAYS RACE TOMORROW WILL BE LAST

Giants Head For South Today

Party of 3 Leaving Gotham to Be Augmented En Route.

7 Important Cogs Still Unsigned; Hogan Takes on Weight.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Baseball's "big parade" to the sunny South will start tomorrow. And it will be led by none other than J. Francis Hogan, well-known catcher of the New York Giants. J. Francis, accompanied by two budding rookies, Francis Healy, a semipro backstop from Holyoke, Mass., and John Hensel, a pitcher from Villanova College, will leave tomorrow at 2:15 p. m., and will arrive at the training camp at San Antonio, Tex., late Sunday night.

On the way to the Lone Star State, Hogan and his party will pick up a flock of pitchers of all sizes and description at St. Louis. Larry Benton, pitching ace of the Giants in 1928, and Bob Farrell, the catcher, are scheduled to check in at St. Louis. It is still doubtful whether they'll be there, as both of them are listed as holdouts. Anyhow, they have not as yet signed on the dotted line.

Hogan Boosts Mark Around Waist Line.

Hogan has picked up a bit of extra flesh around his waist line since the last ball was pitched in the National League in 1929, but he admitted today that he is not yet big or heavyweight enough to do battle with Prime Camera. The catcher came into town tonight, carrying several big grips and a new bat.

Hogan didn't enjoy a good season last year. There were times when McGraw was not satisfied with his work behind the plate, and it was rumored more than once this winter that he would be traded to some other club. Hogan finally came to New York and went into a huddle with McGraw. After it was over, the "Master Mind" announced that the catcher had signed his contract and would not be shipped down the river.

The other players expected to augment the party at St. Louis are Joe Genewich, Bill Walker, Ray Lucas, Le Roy Parmelee, Joe Heving, Hub Pruett, William Powley, Ambrose Putnam, Louis Winer and Jim Tennant, pitchers, and Lou Allen, a young infielder from the Wilkes-Barre club of the New York-Penn League.

Davey Bancroft In Charge.

Davey Bancroft, former shortstop of the Giants, will be in charge of the players until the arrival of McGraw. Bancroft is already at San Antonio, while "Irish" Meusel will go direct from his home in California. "Irish" will be McGraw's second lieutenant this year.

Only seven Giants now remain out of the fold. But they are seven important cogs in McGraw's base ball machine, as they are Benton and O'Farrell, Bill Terry, Fred Lindstrom, Travis Jackson, Eddie Roush and Old John Scott.

Nothing new at the Yankee's headquarters. Still four "holdouts," including the Babe. Col. Ruppert will leave for St. Petersburg, Fla., on March 1. Ed Barrow will also make the trip.

Schmeling Would Face Sharkey-Scott Winner

Berlin, Feb. 13 A.P.).—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, today announced he was willing to meet the winner of the Jack Sharkey-Phil Scott bout at Miami, Fla., probably in a battle at the Yankee Stadium, New York, in July or September. Schmeling's announcement was made after a conference with his American manager, Joe Jacobs.

Schmeling still is under suspension in New York State for his refusal to meet Scott, but it was understood he would be reinstated on his return to the United States.

Catholic U. Names Menke, Capital Youth, Grid Captain

Guard Who Did Not Play in High School Is Elected.

GEORGE MENKE.

GEORGE MENKE, Washington boy and varsity right guard for the last two years, yesterday was elected to captain the 1930 Catholic University Football Team. He is the first Washingtonian so honored in the history of the Brookland institution.

Menke, who lives at 7617 Twelfth street northwest, is 22 years of age, weighs 175 pounds and stands a little over 6 feet. He is a student in the post graduate school and is pursuing a master of arts degree. He completed a regular four-year course last June but did not start playing football until his junior term. Thus, he is eligible for one more year of gridiron competition, three years being allowed under intercollegiate rules.

Election Develops Spirited Contest.

The election developed a spirited contest between Menke and John Ambrose, varsity center, of Worcester, Mass. Neither of them, however, did any campaigning. They were urged to run for the position by friends. Yesterday's vote was the second held, an earlier ballot resulting in a tie when Jack Malevich, outgoing captain, did not vote.

Menke never played football until he enrolled at Catholic University. He attended Gonzaga High School and the Knights of Columbus School prior to going to the Brookland institution. It was not until his third year that he became a candidate for the Catholic University Eleven.

Clinching a varsity guard position in 1928, Menke soon proved himself a proficient player and he now is rated as one of the best guards the Cardinals have boasted in several seasons.

ACE HUDKINS "UNDERDOG" TONIGHT

Steps Out of Class to Meet Rosenbloom at Garden.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Ace Hudkins, clawing Nebraskan, steps out before New York's fistic fandom tomorrow night as a full-fledged light heavyweight in a ten-round tilt with Maxey Rosenbloom, Harlem's slapstick star, in Madison Square Garden.

Beaten off by Mickey Walker in his quest for middleweight honors, the blonde ace will tackle one of the strongest contenders in the 175-pound class for a starter. The odds are 8 to 5 that Rosenbloom slaps Hudkins out of the decision.

Rosenbloom already has been designated by the New York State Athletic Commission as the man to fight Jimmy Slattery within the next two months and test the Buffalo Irishman's right to the light heavyweight title, granted him by the commissioners for his victory over Lou Scozza last Monday night. Although this match is scheduled for Buffalo, where "Slats" won the crown, it may be shifted to the Garden here.

Hudkins Aims to Gain Match.

Although no such provision has been made, Hudkins hopes to show cause why he should fight Slattery in Rosenbloom's place by knocking out Maxey. Because of his added weight and increased punching powers Ace is conceded an outside chance of stiffening Rosenbloom.

Another pair of light-heavies will meet in the ten-round semi-final. Rosy Rosales, a newcomer from Cleveland, is scheduled to box Fred Lenhart, of Spokane, Wash., who was knocked out here recently by the sensational Negro, Larry Johnson.

A. A. A. Sanctions Test Of British Speedster

(Associated Press.)

Official sanction for an attempt by Kaye Don, British racing driver, to shatter the existing automobile speed record of 231.447 miles per hour, now held by Maj. H. D. Segrave, was issued yesterday by the contest board of the American Automobile Association.

The board announced it had been notified that Don planned to sail for the United States within 10 days, arriving at Daytona Beach, Fla., about March 1, and making his try for the records between March 15 and March 30.

FIVE SCHOOLS FORM COURT LEAGUE

Spang, Southeastern, to Head New Local Conference.

THE Washington Collegiate Conference, embracing five Washington evening schools in a basket ball league, was organized last night by representatives of the institutions at a meeting held at Southeastern University.

The schools which are allied with the conference are Benjamin Franklin University, Columbus University, Southeastern University, Strayer's and Bliss Electrical School. They will begin competition in the conference next fall at the start of the 1930-1931 basket ball season.

A. Heinrich Spang, manager of the Southeastern University Team, was elected temporary chairman of the conference pending the election of a slate of permanent officers at the next meting which will be held March 25. By-laws also will be drawn up at this meeting.

The five schools in the conference voted to compete only against teams representing educational institutions and amateur teams in good standing with the A. A. U., preferring not to risk the eligibility of their players in games with independent clubs which may number professional players on their rosters.

Ruth Quits Hunting After Snake's Attack

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth cut his quail hunting trip short yesterday, it was learned today, after he came within several inches of being attacked by a rattlesnake 80 miles north of here.

Accompanied by Benny Bengough, catcher; George Pipgras, pitcher, and Johnny Nee, scout of the New York Americans, the foursome had bagged an even dozen quail when Ruth stepped within striking distance of the coiled rattler.

Babe heard the snake's warning, but before getting out of range, Pipgras' hound dog jumped at the reptile as it struck at Babe, and received the snake's fangs in its leg.

Whirling around as he leaped, Ruth fired, blowing off the snake's head. The dog sank to the ground and Pipgras applied a solution of antisnake bite serum.

Shires, Ban Unlifted. Is Mailed Contract

Chicago, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The process of transforming Charles Arthur "the Great" Shires from a fighter to a baseball player has begun. The White Sox today sent the fighting first baseman a contract for the 1930 season.

No mention of salary was made, but it was indicated the amount was not in the neighborhood of $25,000, which the "great one" said he would demand.

Owner Charles A. Comiskey, of the White Sox, said that so far Shires' suspension for decorating former Manager "Lena" Blackburne with a black eye last season, has not been lifted. That detail and whatever dispute over salary terms that may come up will be settled at the San Antonio, Tex., training camp.

Roy Riegels Is Named On California U. Staff

San Francisco, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—It was just one year one month and thirteen days ago today that those who find their thrills in football gasped, sighed and laughed alternately at the antics of a blonde young giant by the name of Roy Riegels, who just had run 75 yards the wrong way to pull one of the prize "boners" in all gridiron history.

Today, Roy Riegels, with the brand new title of assistant football coach at his alma mater, the University of California, laughed, not last but at last, at the football misfortunes that were his.

Strictly on the merits of his great playing last season, when, as captain and center, he led California to a four-way tie for the Pacific Coast Conference championship, was Riegels chosen to help mold future Bear elevens.

12th Straight Defeat for C. U. Five

Baltimore U. Wins in Extra Period, 32-28, as Elliott Stars.

Walsh's Stellar Play Keeps Cardinals in Running.

THE luckless Catholic University tossers can't be accused of being set in their ways. In losing another game last night they injected variety into their record. They forced the Baltimore University quintet to travel an extra period before dipping their colors for the twelfth successive time this season. The score was 32 to 28.

It was the first time in twelve starts that the Cardinals threatened seriously to win. Until three and one-half minutes of the close of the regulation time, they had had their noses in front most of the way. Then Bob Elliott, of Baltimore caged a foul chance to tie the score at 26-26.

This same player, who seemed to have the knack of getting his points when they counted most, holed a field goal and two fouls in the extra period. A fielder by Jerry Rosenthal, a substitute, five seconds before the final whistle clinched Baltimore's victory.

Joe Walsh Hero of Cardinals.

Led by Joe Walsh, their fiery little captain, who took scoring honors with 17 points, the Cards played their best game of the season. They held an 18-16 lead at intermission and were in the van four other times. Walsh personally sent them ahead on three occasions and twice was responsible for tying the score.

Walsh rang up two fouls for Catholic on the very first play and accumulated 13 points in the first half. Fine, of Baltimore, held him in check in the second half, but he managed to sink a long toss at that. In the extra five minutes he accounted for the only points scored for Catholic in that period by coolly depositing a pair of charity tosses to deadlock matters at 28-28.

The Catholic Freshmen, who don't seem to be on speaking terms with the varsity in the matter of wins and losses, registered their sixth straight victory and their eleventh in twelve games by defeating the Baltimore Freshmen, 35 to 14. Whelan, Sheary and Garney took individual point-making laurels.

Illinois Body Declines To Shift Mandell Bout

Chicago, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The Illinois State Athletic Commission this afternoon refused the Chicago Stadium permission to hold its proposed ten-round bout between Sammy Mandell, world lightweight champion, and Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver, B. C., welterweight, on February 24. The commission decided the stadium must adhere to the original date allotment for the month—February 21 for Jack Dempsey and February 28 for the stadium.

Stadium officials immediately started plans for holding the fight February 28, but had not determined if both Mandell and MacLarnin would be available then.

Leonard Sacks, business manager for Jack Dempsey, had protested to the commission that the two dates were too close together.

The Mandell-MacLarnin bout would be the third, and "rubber" engagement between the pair. Mandell defeated the coast Irishman in Madison Square Garden in defending his lightweight title a year ago last summer, while MacLarnin scored a decision victory in the stadium last fall at 145 pounds.

Old Line Five Bows, 36-21, To W. & L.

Cox Leads Generals to 9th S. Conference Court Victory.

Maryland Trails by 15 to 8 at Half; Evans Stars.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 13.—Washington and Lee's Quintet, playing much of the game with a patched line-up, took its ninth Southern Conference game tonight, downing Maryland in the last game of the Old Liners' Virginia invasion, 36 to 21. Cox, forward of the Generals, accounted for 15 points, while Capt. Evans, with 5, was the most prolific for the losers. The local five played throughout most of the battle without the services of Leigh Williams, regular center, who is suffering with a twisted ankle, but were leading, 20-13, when the State's leading scorer went into the battle midway of the second half.

His floor play and two field goals spurted the Generals during the remainder of the battle, and they stretched their lead from 7 points to 15 before the final whistle. Fulton and Hanna played the tap-off position until Williams went in.

Close Guarding Features.

No scoring spurts were allowed either team, close guarding featuring the battle until the final minutes, when the Generals ran up their last 7 points, while holding Shipley's crew scoreless. Washington and Lee played a steady game throughout, scoring only 15 points to Maryland's 8 in the first half and not taking any chances with their makeshift team. Cox, however, shot on about a par during both periods, scoring 7 points before midway and 8 afterward.

Julie Radice was the keystone of the Terrapins' attack, working the floor to perfection, but his teammates suffered when it developed that he was "off" in his customary shooting from beyond the foul zone.

Both teams were off form in their foul shooting, only 15 shots being caged out of 32 attempts.

Lomski to Outweigh Walker by 7 Pounds

Detroit, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Mickey Walker, who regards his bout with Leo Lomski in Olympia ring tomorrow as a step toward the light-heavyweight title, will weigh in at around 165 pounds, while the Aberdeen, Wash., fighter will have a 7 or 8-pound advantage.

Lomski has had his weight down to 172½ at times during his brief training here and Walker has been almost stationary at 165. Both men had light workouts on today's schedule. The third man in the ring will be Elmer McClelland, who was selected last night and declared by managers of both fighters to be acceptable.

British Women to Play U. S. and France at Golf

London, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—International golf matches with the United States and France were approved today at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Golf Union, which legislates for the 1,130 affiliated clubs representing 100,000 women players of Great Britain. It was voted also to send teams to tour the dominions.

The matches between women golfers of Great Britain and the United States to be held in London in May will be unofficial as there is insufficient time for the union to make plans for this year, but in the future such international matches will be given an official stamp.

Primo Feasts on Ravioli; Fights Sigman Tonight

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, second man of Italy, arrived here late today, was entertained in true Italian style and said he was ready to meet "Big Jim" Sigman, of South Carolina and South America, in an eight-round bout tomorrow night.

More than 350 admirers met their pugilistic idol at the train. He went to a private home, and although he had eaten lunch he devoured enough ravioli to satisfy five ordinary men. He devoured three of them for dinner.

His opponent is the largest man Carnera has fought. Sigman weighs 235 pounds but is 40 pounds lighter than the Italian. The fight is expected to draw 12,000 fans.

Tilden Adds 3 Noes to Plan To Eliminate 1 of 2 Serves

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—In reply to a questionnaire as to whether the rules of tennis should be changed to allow only one ball on service instead of two, Big Bill Tilden declares emphatically "No! No! No!" Henry Austin, ranking player of England, however, votes "Yes."

Tilden answers a simple "No" to the query "Do you favor playing over all net cord shots which occur during rallies."

As to dropping the word "love" out of the scoring system, Big Bill says, "Makes no difference."

Tilden's reactions, sent from France, where he is playing on the Riviera, are published in the current issue of the magazine "Tennis," together with those of such stars as Austin, Jean Borotra, of France, and Betty Nuthall, British rival of Helen Wills.

Borotra agrees with Miss Wills replies were made public several weeks ago, that the rules should not be changed, answering simply "No" to each suggestion.

Frank Shields, young New York star, agrees with Austin on limiting the service to one ball.

Mrs. L. A. Harper, of Oakland, Calif., eighth in the National ranking list, wants "lets" played over, and also favors a revision of the scoring system.

Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., No. 6 in the national ranking, votes no on all three proposals, but makes one of her own, remarking, "I am not in favor, however, of the rest between sets."

Like Miss Wills, Miss Nuthall answered all three questions in the negative.

D. C. Colleges Face Busiest Week-End in Four Sports

THE busiest week-end of the winter for Capital college athletes is at hand, with representatives of all of the local institutions scheduled to compete in one or more of the fourteen events listed in swimming, boxing, basket ball and track.

Only three events will be held before local audiences, and in the feature of these, Catholic University's boxers will engage the ringmen of Washington and Lee tomorrow night at Brookland. The other two are the swimming meet tonight between Catholic and William and Mary at Brookland and the basket ball game tomorrow night between Maryland and Virginia at College Park.

Georgetown, Gallaudet and George Washington athletes will strut their wares tonight on foreign fields. Georgetown's Basket Ball Team will meet Canisius at Buffalo, the Gallaudet Five will oppose Shepherd at Sheperdstown, W. Va., and the George Washington Boxing Team will engage Manhattan at New York.

Tomorrow afternoon the George Washington Quintet, minus Bob Gray, whose foot is injured, will invade Annapolis to tackle Navy on the latter's court. The Colonials will be severely handicapped without Gray and will do well to hold the powerful Midshipmen to a low score.

Maryland-Virginia Fives Clash.

The Maryland-Virginia court game at College Park tomorrow night looms as a close struggle despite the records. Maryland has been far more successful in point of winning than has the Charlottesville Five, but the Cavalier Team recently has improved to a great extent.

Georgetown athletes will be striving for honors in three sports tomorrow night. The Hilltop Basket Ball Team will face the formidable Syracuse Five, rated the best in the East, while the boxing team will trade punches with the undefeated Army mittmen. Coach O'Reilly's 1-mile relay team will attempt to win the classic Sammy Reid Memorial Trophy in a race with Colgate in the Crescent A. C. meet in Brooklyn, and Leo Sexton, star all-round performer, will compete against a classy field in the special high jump of the Boston A. A. games at Boston.

Maryland's trackmen will seek laurels at the University of Virginia track and field carnival at Charlottesville. Coach Gerry Eppley will take Record Holder Will Seek Job Following Hussey Race.

Is Worn by Sprints; Visits Friends at Georgetown.

By JACK ESPEY.

WHEN Jack Elder leaves the mark in a special race with Frank Hussey, former national champion, in the Crescent A. C. meet tomorrow night at Brooklyn, the former Notre Dame star and co-holder of two world's sprinting records, will be running his last race of the current season and probably of all time.

Elder, himself, revealed this yesterday at Georgetown University, where he sojourned for a few hours with Coach Tom Mills and former Notre Dame teammates now associated with the Hilltop athletic department.

Fresh from the Meadowbrook games in Philadelphia, where he ran second to Chet Bowman, of the Newark A. C., in a close 45-yard race Wednesday night, and preparing for the trip to Brooklyn, the diminutive football and track ace stated that he is "rather fed up" on running.

"I am out of school now and must be looking for a job." Elder offered in explanation of his decision to quit the game after tomorrow night's race. "I am not in the best of condition, anyhow, and I think I should take a rest. I don't know whether or not I ever will take up sprinting again, unless, possibly, in 1932, the Olympic year.

To Sojourn in Arizona.

"I have a chance to go to Arizona with some friends," Elder continued, "and I believe I'll do that before trying to find a job. But finding a job is more important than anything else with me right now.

"I hope to go into the bond selling business."

Elder, who was the only American to beat Percy Williams, Canada's Olympic champion, last year, and whose 98-yard dash for the winning touchdown in the last Notre Dame-Army game at New York was one of the season's brightest feats, spoke with the tone of a veteran who has

HORSE RACING IN FLORIDA TO STAY, IS OUTLOOK

State Is Won By "Right People"

Widener's Presence Is Seen Favorable to a Pari-Mutuel Law.

Political Leaders Are Swayed to Support of Turf People.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Horse racing, sponsored by "the right people," has come to stay in Florida, despite the existence of a sharp and State-wide conflict on the subject over a period of years. This is the opinion of those well informed upon the political as well as commercial aspects of the situation. As a direct result, the passage is forecast of State legislation to legalize the pari-mutuel system of betting at the Florida tracks, perhaps in time for the 1931 season, certainly by 1932.

Several factors, in addition to a belief that this will be "better business" for Florida, appear to have brought about some change in sentiment, at least along the East Coast. Chief among them has been the successful operation of the Hialeah Track at Miami under the direction of a group of wealthy New York and Philadelphia sportsmen, headed by Joseph E. Widener.

Political leaders in Duval County, of which Jacksonville is the center, regard Mr. Widener and his associates as "the right people." Further, they are interested in the proposal for the purchase of Keeney Park, located some 20 miles from here and operation of a fifteen-day meeting there, starting March 10, to fill the gap between the close of Hialeah and the opening of the Maryland spring season at Bowie.

Today, Jacksonville business men conferred with representatives of William V. Dwyer, New York sportsman, who heads interests holding an option for the purchase of Keeney Park for a price understood to be around $150,000.

Hialeah has been operating under the so-called "envelope" or "oral" system on wagering, the same as that employed on the New York tracks. This has been done apparently, by common consent, in spite of the antigambling statutes now in existence. The feeling, as a result has grown that Florida may as well reap some of the financial harvest by establishing the pari-mutuels as operated in Maryland and Kentucky.

Opposition Still Very Strong.

This feeling is not considered Statewide by any means. Opposition against any and all legislation to legalize race track gambling has been and still is regarded as very strong. Significance, nevertheless, was attached today to the statement of State Senator Edgar W. Waybright, representing the Duval County district, that he expected to see "proper legislation" introduced to permit local or district referendum on the horse racing issue; in other words, legalizing of pari-mutuels. Senator Waybright was a leader of opposition in the last Legislature to the so-called local option bill, legalizing the machines. It failed by three votes to pass in the Senate, although in effect having a majority of one vote in the House of Representatives, based upon the ballot cast on an amendment.

Senator Waybright made it clear his support of any legislation designed to put the mutuels in operation depended upon racing having the support of "the proper people and business men of the communities desiring to establish the sport."

$2.60 Win, Place, Show Paid by Mexico Winner

Agua Caliente, Mex., Feb. 13.—Another of the vagaries of the pari-mutuel machines was revealed here today when Windjammer, the winner of the fourth race, paid the same price for win, place and show tickets. The price was $2.60, regardless of the denomination of the ticket. Eleven horses faced the barrier and Windjammer ruled the favorite.

Black Lamp, in the first race at New Orleans, would have paid $2,887.40 for each $2 win ticket had he won. He finished last after holding third position at the half.

Crofton Is Winner In Mexico Feature

Agua Caliente, Mexico, Feb. 13.—Crofton, from the stable of A. A. Baroni, won the Sausalito Allowances purse, the feature on today's card. Benny Creech's Andromeda was second and Bartelstein and Unna's Hercula was third. The race was a 6-furlong sprint for 3-year-olds and upward, and the time was 1:11 4-5. The winner was the favorite and paid $4.20.

Under an excellent ride by Jockey A. Greco, Crofton saved ground all of the way and overcame Andromeda after the latter had taken a short lead, winning handily by a length.

FIGHT MARKS DEFEAT OF CELTICS

2 Players Banished as French Halt Foes' Streak, 28-24.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Feb. 13.—The St. Mary's Celtics suffered an unexpected setback and their first defeat in sixteen starts this season, when they bowed to the French A. C., 28 to 24, tonight, in an Independent League game at the Alexandria Armory Hall.

For a time, the game threatened to turn into a free-for-all fight in its early stages, when Dreifus and Gubisch, rival guards, engaged in blows. Both were banned from action by Referee Kall. After leading 15-8 at half time, French saw its lead threatened when the Celtics crept within three points of a tie at the beginning of the fourth quarter, but with the score, 25-22, the French basketers scored 3 more points while holding their opponents to 2 for the duration of the game.

Tech, Western Fives May Play at Penn

Both the Tech and Western Basket Ball Teams have been invited to the 1930 Penn tournament and are now only awaiting official sanction before definitely notifying the tournament authorities of their acceptance.

Principals of both schools are expected to seek the required permission from the School Board within the next few days.

Silver Spring High Trims Frederick, 44-9

The Frederick High School Five, leader in the Frederick County High School Basket Ball League, proved an easy victim of the Silver Spring High School Quintet, which is tied for the top position with Sandy Spring in the Montgomery County League, yesterday on the Silver Spring floor. The Montgomery County lads piled up a 44-to-9 margin over the Frederick Countians. Williams, who scored 19 points, was the chief scoring factor in the winning offense.

PRINCE GEORGES LEAGUE.

A tie for second place in the Prince Georges County League was brought about last night when the Dor-A's, former holders of the runner-up post, lost to the Dixie Pigs, 22 to 8, and Company F scored over Mount Rainier, 24 to 12, to gain the deadlock. Both games were played at the Hyattsville National Guard Armory.

SEVEN GAMES TODAY FOR D. C. SCHOLASTIC FIVES

Tech Tackles G. W. Cubs In Feature

Gonzaga, Devitt and St. John's Have Court Games.

Central, Eastern and Western Are Also Scheduled.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

Tech vs. George Washington University Freshmen, at Tech, 3:30 p. m.
Central vs. Landon, at Central, 3:30 p. m.
Western vs. Georgetown Prep, at Western, 3:30 p. m.
Eastern vs. Maryland Freshmen, at College Park, 3:30 p. m.
St. John's vs. La Salle, at St. John's, 3:30 p. m.
Devitt vs. Benjamin Franklin, at Langley Junior High, at 8 o'clock.
Gonzaga vs. Leonard Hall, at Leonardtown.

ONE of the most attractive court games of the scholastic season will be staged today when the Interhigh championship Tech Team will meet the crack George Washington University Freshman Five in a benefit game sponsored by the Alumni "T" Club at Tech gymn, at 3:30 o'clock. Proceeds of the fray will go to the fund of the club being raised to sod the new athletic field at Washington's newest high school.

The contest will top a card of seven games involving local school teams, all but two of which are to be played on District floors.

In meeting the Colonial Yearlings, the recently-crowned champs will probably be facing their sternest opposition of the year, inasmuch as the downtown frosh have taken the measure of three high school fives already, having had little trouble with any of the trio except Business. Eastern, Central and the Stenogs all bowed to the G. W. Freshmen, with the first two being trounced by overwhelming scores. In the Colonial lineup today will be Paul Brown, himself a member of Tech's title-winning five in 1929, and who will need no introduction to several of his opponents this afternoon.

MacCartee Remains Ineligible.

With the exception of Capt. MacCartee, who is still ineligible, the two-time champs will face their invaders with the same team which won the title last Friday, Russell, Lassiter, Talburtt, and John all being ready to take the floor at the starting whistle.

Other public high teams to see action are Western, who will entertain the Georgetown Prep courtmen, Central who will play host to Landon, and Eastern, who will journey to College Park to do battle with the Old Line Cubs.

However, two prep teams will exhibit their wares in attractive games tonight, while Gonzaga will go to Leonardtown for the first of a two-game series with the Leonard Hall basketers.

Devitt Prep Meets Franklin U.

At 8 o'clock Devitt Prep's new team, which only Wednesday took the measure of Hyattsville High, which had in turn conquered its last two District High opponents, will face another tough foe in the Benjamin Franklin Quintet which has shown class throughout the season. However, the Accountants seem to be in a slump at present, and the Upton Street lads may register another upset.

In the other night game, St. John's brilliantly performing cadet five will engage the LaSalle Team on the Vermont avenue floor. So far, but few opponents have topped the St. John's score, with Central High being the most notable to feel the force of the cadets' strength.

County Duckpin Events Scheduled Tomorrow

Both the Prince Georges and Montgomery County duckpin sweepstakes are scheduled to start tomorrow afternoon and continue tomorrow night. Entries have been so numerous that two squads will be necessary. The Prince Georges County event will be held on the Hyattsville Arcade alleys and the Montgmoery County bowlers will roll at the Bethesda drives. Entries will be received until 6 p. m. tomorrow.

Arrangements Complete For Revenue Pin Stake

Alley assignments and full arrangements for the Internal Revenue Duckpin Sweepstakes, which opens at Lucky Strike next Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, were announced last night. Four entrants have been assigned to each of 30 alleys. Each bowler will alternate on two alleys. Handicaps are figured on comparative averages. Entries will be received until the event starts. Prospective entrants are requested to confer with the scorer of their respective leagues. Alley assignments and individual averages follow:

V. P. I. TEAMS MEET STATE RIVALS

Boxers and Courtmen Play V.M.I.; Matmen Engage W. & L.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Feb. 13.—The ever-changing battle ground for Virginia Polytechnic Institute indoor teams will shift this week to scenes of many thrilling encounters of past campaigns. The boys who wear Polytech's orange and maroon colors will meet old rivals at Lexington and Blacksburg in five major battles on the court, the mat, and in the ring.

Ninety-Four Hall, at V. M. I., the stronghold of Keydet indoor teams, will echo the conflict of two basketball games with friendly foes of the Flying Squadron. Both V. P. I. varsity and freshman teams will mix in the melee in search of another double win over their rivals. The sounds of these battles will be heard in nearby Doremus Gymnasium, on the adjoining campus, at Washington and Lee University. Here V. P. I. varsity and freshman wrestlers will be scrapping on the mat with other traditional adversaries in their second Old Dominion bout.

V. M. I. Boxing Team to Invade Blacksburg.

High among the mountains of Virginia's southwest the V. P. I. boxers will fight to repel the invasion of the V. M. I. battlers in the chief mit attraction of the year for Memorial Hall fans. This meet looms as a possible championship encounter. Although the Gobblers were nosed out, 4 bouts to 3, in a hot tussle at Washington and Lee last week, a win over the Keydets would put them out in front in the State title chase. This battle of the canvas will be staged in a festive setting before hundreds of visitors to the V P. I. campus for the annual midwinter dances of the German and Cotillion Clubs.

Italian-American Pin Tourney Listed Feb. 21

The second annual Italian-American bowling sweepstakes has been scheduled for February 21 at the Northeast Temple alleys by Leo Rinaldi, sponsor of the event and a leading figure in the city's bowling circles. The tournament is open to all Washington bowlers of Italian extraction.

The tournament will be divided into Class A and Class B divisions with a silver loving cup to the winner of each division and cash prizes for first, second and third places. Entries may be posted with Rinaldi at 728 Ninth street northwest, or with Max Rosenberg, manager of the Northeast Temple alleys.

Staunton-Massanutten Awaiting Court Clash

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodstock, Va., Feb. 13.—The basket ball fans of the Shenandoah Valley are looking forward to the clash between Massanutten Military Academy and the Staunton Military Academy at Staunton, February 18.

Neither team has been defeated by a prep school, and undoubtedly the winner will be proclaimed State champs.

Massanutten has averaged 48 points per game in thirteen games, winning twelve out of thirteen. The Purple and Gold Quint recently journeyed to Southern Virginia and defeated Hargrave, Danville, Blackstone and Fork Union on successive days.

Massanutten has six dependable players in Flenniken, McCracken, Capt. Cuomo, Donley, Kennedy and Nagle.

If Massanutten is fortunate to win over the Staunton Cadets they will probably enter the University of Pennsylvania prep school tournament at Philadelphia, as well as the South Atlantic tournament at Washington & Lee University, Lexington, Va.

Star Field Priming For Pensacola Open

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Two score professional and amateur golfers took a swing around the country club course, where tomorow they set out on an 18-hole pro-amateur low ball event preliminary to the 72-hole second annual Greater Pensacola open starting Saturday.

The Nation's high ranking professionals, in their jaunt over the course, sought to solve its peculiarities and better prepare themselves for the two-day chase of 36 holes each for the champion's share of the $3,500 sack of gold.

Included among the noted professionals who formed the early arriving brigade were Bobby Cruickshank, New York; Harry Cooper, unattached. Toney Manero, New York; Roland Hancock, Lynchburg, Va.; Craig Wood, victory in the open; Larry Montes, Philippine Island, open crown holder; Mike Turnesa; Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del.; Wild Bill Mehlhorn, New York, and McIntyre, Indianapolis. Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., money maker, will not defend his title in the Pensacola event.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 13.—The St. Mary's Celtics Basket Ball Team has a tough schedule for the remainder of the season. The remaining games are as follows: February 15, pending; February 16, pending; February 17, National Circles; February 18, Del Ray A. C.; February 20, pending; February 21, Alexandria High School; February 22, Fredericksburg Collegians; February 23, Council Neighborhood House of Richmond; February 24, Woodlawn A. C.; February 26, Skinker Eagles at Silver Spring, Md.; February 27, pending.

The George Mason High School Basket Ball Team will entertain the Washington and Lee High School tossers from Ballston, Va. The game will be played in the local Armory Hall beginning at 8:15 o'clock. Coach Wilson has been drilling his boys at top speed. Last week his team hit its stride and handed the Manassas High School a defeat, to place his team in the running for the Third District honors. The Washington and Lee Team is now holding down second place with only one defeat this season and that being at the hands of the fast local high school quint. Coach Diffey is planning on sending a much stronger team on the floor tomorrow night than took the floor against Alexandria High School.

Last night the Knight Store Five went into undisputed second place in the Alexandria City League when they handed the fast Whitestone Five a 28-to-21 defeat.

The league standing is as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Mary's Celtics	2	0	1.000
Knight's Store	2	1	.750
Whitestone's Store	1	2	.250

NINE RELAYS IN MEET AT VIRGINIA

Tech Meets Eastern; Maryland Faces William-Mary.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Feb. 13. Pairings for the relays in the sixth annual indoor invitation games of the University of Virginia which were made this afternoon made it sure that nine of these special mile events will be the closing feature of the meet here Saturday night.

In the college varsity class, Virginia will oppose Washington and Lee, North Carolina will race Maryland and William and Mary will compete with Wake Forest. The freshman pairings place the Cavaliers and the Generals again in opposition and Maryland in competition with William and Mary. Two preparatory school mile relays will be run between Episcopal High School and Woodberry Forest School and between Staunton Military Academy and Fork Union Military Academy.

Maury Team Faces Hyattsville.

Two Washington high schools, Eastern and Tech, will run in a race that has been a feature of previous meets. Maury High School, of Norfolk, Va., and Hyattsville High, of Maryland, are also paired.

While the total of 276 entries is a few short of the total entered last year, the representation in the college classes is larger than ever before. Eight colleges in Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina will be represented by 130 varsity and freshman athletes.

Tech and Eastern Take Large Squads to Virginia

With more than twenty boys in each party, the Tech and Eastern High track squads will leave tomorrow morning for the fifth indoor track meet of the University of Virginia, to be staged at Charlottesville tomorrow night. Eastern, winner of the meet last year, stands a good chance of repeating its 1929 triumph, while the Maroon and Gray youngsters are hopeful of doing as well as their runner-up position indicated they did last year.

Only the make-up of the Tech 1-mile Relay Team is left to be determined by Coach "Hap" Hardell. At present, Capt. Al Reichman is the only one sure to start in this event. With the exception of the shot-put, in which Haycock is the only entrant, the McKinley mentor will enter at least two contestants in every event.

Eastern will have quite an array of veterans to enter in the meet including sveeral point-winners in the public high meet here last year. Clow and Swope, who placed second and third, respectively, in the quarter-mile of the local meet, will enter that event at Charlottesville, while Farhood, who took second place in the shot-put, will again throw the weight tomorrow.

London, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Evelyn Colyer, British tennis player, and Hamish Munro, a tea planter of Assam, India, were married at Christ Church, Streatham, today.

The couple met in Switzerland only five weeks ago. They will go to India shortly. Miss Colyer represented England in the Wightman Cup matches against the United States in 1926.

UTILITY STOCKS RISE TO PEAKS FOR 1930

Industrials Also Advance to Record Levels for the Year.

CARRIERS SAG SLIGHTLY

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Powerful speculators for the advance met increasing resistance in today's stock market, but managed to lift a wide assortment of utilities and leading industrials to new high levels for 1930.

Bears gained the advantage for a time in the afternoon and gains chalked up earlier in the session were considerably reduced, particularly in the utility group. Shorts were driven to cover in the last half hour, however, and despite several isolated weak spots, the market closed irregularly higher. Total sales aggregated 3,668,720 shares.

The weekly brokerage loan figures, coming to hand after the close of the market, could not be interpreted as favorable, showing a gain of $48,000,000 on top of last week's increase of $57,000,000, but there has been a tendency to disregard brokers' loans of late, on the theory that they have been so thoroughly deflated that a substantial upturn need not be viewed with alarm. Some observers, however, pointed out that increasing loans may be interpreted as indicating an unfavorable change in the character of the buying.

Stone & Webster Dividend.

The industrial news of the day included the announcement of the proposed Stone & Webster-Engineers Public Service merger, together with a $4 annual dividend basis for Stone & Webster, which stimulated pool operations in the electric power issues. Underwood - Elliott - Fisher reported 1929 earnings of $10.08 a share, compared to $6.77 on a smaller capitalization in 1928.

There were further discouraging developments in the petroleum situation. The Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co., jointly owned by Sinclair Oil and Standard of Indiana, met the reductions in crude-oil prices recently instituted by Standard of New Jersey, and President Farish of Humble Oil said he saw no near prospect of an upturn in midcontinent crude prices. Copper statistics for January were a little more favorable than those for December, but showed another moderate gain in stocks on hand.

The tobacco shares were bid up rapidly, American Tobacco "B" rising 7½ points, to 235, equaling its 1929 high. American Can was a strong spot in the industrials, rising about 4 points, reflecting continued splitup and higher dividend gossip. U. S. Steel rose to a new high for 1930, at 186⅜, but closed at 184⅞, up 1⅜, and several of the so-called independent steels made substantial gains. In the utilities, Engineers Public Service sold up 4 and General Public Service about 7 points, but these gains were not maintained. Stone & Webster encountered heavy profit taking and lost about 5 points.

Although rails were inclined to sag, New York Central and New Haven rose moderately to be the best levels in several weeks. Air Reduction, and Hershey Chocolate were strong spots, and the Curtiss Wright shares were continuing their recovery.

Western Union Declines.

Merchandising shares were mostly under pressure. Safeway Stores dropping more than 8 points to a new 1930 low. Western Union lost more than 6 points in response to denial of split-up rumors. Simmons and Gillette were again weak spots, reaching new lows for the year.

There was little change in credit conditions, call money holding at 4 per cent. The weekly Federal reserve condition statement showed a moderate reduction in holdings of bankers' acceptances, despite recent reductions in buying rates.

Commodities were inclined to ease. Wheat futures sagged fractionally, reflecting bearish Oklahoma weather reports, and corn lost about 1 cent a bushel on larger Argentine estimates. Cotton futures closed 35 to 80 cents a bale lower.

Renewed weakness of the Spanish peseta, which declined about ¼ cent to 12.63 cents, featured the foreign exchanges. Sterling Cables were steady at 4.86¼, although the demand rate sagged.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—New high prices for the movement were established by advances from an opening decline in the cotton market today on further trade buying and covering, but the market eased off again later under realizing or liquidation. May contracts sold up from 15.86 to 16.17 and closed at 15.95, with the general market closing barely steady at the opening was barely steady at a decline of 5 to 14 points, with the active months soon showing net losses of 15 to 19 points under liquidation or reselling by recent buyers who appeared to be influenced by declines in New Orleans while the local market was closed yesterday and the relatively easy showing of this morning's cable from Liverpool. March contracts sold off to 15.62, July to 16.05 and October to 16.25 under the early offerings, but at this level the decline was checked by trade buying and covering. The latter became more active as prices worked up and there were spurts of buying, which was supposed to include some price fixing for foreign or continental account.

For a time the market showed considerable strength, selling up to 15.90 for March, 16.36 for July and 16.54 for October, making a recovery of about 89 points from the low level of last week in the case of May deliveries. The demand then tapered off, however, while offerings increased and the market reacted sharply during the last hour. Last prices showed declines of about 20 to 24 points from the best on the more active positions.

Reports that sales of fertilizer tags in the Southern States for the month of January showed an increase of 11.1 per cent over the same month last year and sales for December and January combined showed an increase of 5.8 per cent may have been partly responsible for the easier ruling of the new crop positions. The absence of anything definite in the day's news with reference to the possible formation of a stabilizing corporation for cotton was also commented upon in connection with the decline.

Liverpool cables reported hedging and liquidation, influenced by declines in Egyptian cotton. Port receipts today, 8,302. United States port stocks, 2,289,139. Exports today, 6,425, making 5,199,242 so far this season.

Live Turnover in All Lists, With Rails' Undertone Steady.

FEDERAL SHARES DULL

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The bond market moved briskly today, but prices shifted up and down erratically, failing to develop a definite trend. Much of the confusion was apparently due to switching to new issues, especially in the utility group.

There was considerable activity in foreign bonds, which likewise followed an irregular course. Belgium 8s were marked up more than a point and British 5½s rose ⅝, while the French 7½s recovered some of the ground lost earlier in the week. Italy 7s, Greek 6s, Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s, Paris-Orleans 5½s and Rome City 6½s were well traded and showed marked firmness, as did the Brazilian listings. Colombians were mixed.

American Telephone Climbs.

The feature in the domestic list was the heavy trading in American Telephone convertible 4½s, which touched a new high for the year at 152 on a turnover of nearly $1,700,000, principal amount. The closing price of 150½ represented a net gain of 2¼. Some of the other stock feature obligations were heavy, Colon Oil, 6½s declining 1½, and International Telephone 4½s losing ½. Missouri Pacific 5½s and New Haven 6s were steady.

Prime rails displayed considerable uncertainty, although the undertone was firm and small net advances were numerous. Atchison general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Illinois Central 4s, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern 4s, New York Central debenture 4s, Pennsylvania gold 5s and Union Pacific 4s improved ¼ to ½, but easier tendencies prevailed in Canadian National 4½s of 1927, Baltimore & Ohio gold 4s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas prior lien 4s, Series B; New York Central 5s, New Haven 3s, Virginian 5s, Northern Pacific prior lien 4s, and the Southern Pacific and Southern Railway listings.

Listed Bonds Decline.

Selling of Western Union 5s and Real Estate 4½s on the flotation of the new $35,000,000 issue of 30-year 5s carried the listed bonds down 1¼ to 2 points, respectively. American Telephone 5s of 1965, International Telephone 5s and other new utility loans held firm. Montana Power 5s lost a point.

Industrials were a little heavy, and declines of ½ point or so appeared in Armour Real Estate 4½s, Chile Copper 5s, Goodyear 5s, Liggett & Myers 5s, Republic Iron & Steel 5½s, and a few other favorites. Western Electric 5s lost 1¼. Wickwire Spencer Steel bonds continued Tuesday's advance, the first 7s rising 3⅞ and the convertible 7 per cent certificates mounting 3 points. Schulco issues, which had a broad advance about a fortnight ago, again received attention, and the "A" 6½s rose 2⅞, while the "B" issue of the same coupon improved 3.

The market for United States Governments was dull. The long-term Treasury issues made fair progress in light trading. The First Liberty Loan lost ¼, but the Fourth 4¼s and the 3½s were firm.

UNDERWRITERS TOLD TO GIVE CLIENTS AID

Solution of Their Problems Should Be Primary Aim, Says Roberts.

GROUP HOLDS MEETING

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

In developing insurance and trust business through estate organization, solution of the clients' problems is a primary aim, W. E. Roberts, of the Equitable Trust Co. of New York, informed more than 100 members of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association and representatives of banks and trust companies at a dinner meeting of the association last night at the National Press Club.

Addressing the assembly on "Life Insurance Trusts," Mr. Roberts made it clear that in this development, three major interests are vitally concerned: the client who wants his estate problems solved; the life underwriter who is willing to earn commissions on new business procured and old business retained, and the trust company which is willing to earn standard fees by rendering adequate fiduciary service.

In his motion picture lecture depicting the necessity for thoroughgoing research in the successful organization of estates, he reviewed fundamental economic problems and as a result of his estate analysis, revealed eight needs for life insurance: to guarantee financial independence; retire current and deferred estate liabilities and cover contingent ones; indemnify business against loss of key lives; supply family income requirements; liquidate closely held business interests and indemnify families against loss of clients' personal service incomes.

Best Means of Creating Estate.

Quoting Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of his company, Mr. Roberts said more than 50 years' experience in estate management has taught the organization that for creation of an immediate estate no better method than life insurance has yet been devised for men desirous of discharging financial and moral obligations to family and society.

Life insurance, he concluded, replaces the economic value of the estate operation and modern trust service replaces the managerial ability of his family to the estate creator; in other words, life insurance's primary function is to furnish money and the true function of modern trust service is to supply money management.

President Harold D. Krafft of the Underwriters Association presided and David N. Houston and T. Stanley Holland, trust officer and assistant trust officer, respectively, American Security & Trust Co., and H. Cochran Fisher, vice president of the Underwriters Association, participated in the discussion.

Bank's Shareholders Increase.

In his annual report yesterday President John R. Waller of the International Bank announced the number of shareholders increased during the year and it is expected a wider distribution of shares will result through the reduction of the par value of the capital stock from $100 to $10. The insurance department reported earnings slightly in excess of 1928 despite a generally unsatisfactory year.

Thomas B. Lawler, secretary, reporting for the Realty Investment & Securities Corporation, managing the bank's real estate department, stated that while there has been a reduction in local real estate sales during the year, rentals have been on a very satisfactory basis. The company owns nearly $2,000,000 of improved real estate, including over 300 rental units, of which approximately 4½ per cent are vacant. This record is unusually favorable as the average vacancy exceeds 8 per cent.

Eliot H. Thomson, manager of the publicity department, Washington Loan & Trust Co., will address the annual banquet of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Chapter, American Institute of Banking, tonight, at Norfolk, Va.

Steamboat Company Elects.

Directors of the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co. elected yesterday were Woodbury Blair, Edwin C. Brandenburg, Col. Wrisley Brown, Henry N. Brawner, G. W. Forsberg, William D. Hoover, Clarence F. Norment sr., Clarence F. Norment, jr., George P. Sacks, Odell S. Smith and George L. Starkey. Officers elected were: Clarence F. Norment sr., chairman of the board; Clarence F. Sawyer, superintending engineer; C. H. Ray, general agent, Washington; F. M. Pritchard, general agent, Norfolk; H. N. Larcombe, agent, Alexandria.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Cyanamid and Others.

Mrs. N. W. M.—What are the possibilities for American Cyanamid "B" National Aviation, and U. S. Leather?

Answer—American Cyanamid pays $1.60 a share annually and may be classed as a conservative investment with excellent possibilities. National Aviation and U. S. Leather common pay no dividends and are not likely to for some time. These two stocks, therefore, are of the speculative variety.

U. S. Leather represents a reorganization of the Central Leather Co. Earnings since reorganization improved to some extent, but this improvement has been followed by a set back. The company though is in a rather favorable financial position. At the end of 1928 there was an indicated net working capital of nearly $32,000,000. The increase of 42 per cent in total inventory in 1928 was principally a reflection of higher prices remaining despite the decline in hide and leather prices as compared with those prevailing early in that year. For the first quarter of 1929 there was a loss of $844,000, and while there has been some improvement since then, earnings have not been favorable.

Goodrich Tire & Rubber.

V. C. W.—What is your opinion of Goodrich Tire & Rubber common? What are its earnings?

Answer.—Goodrich Tire & Rubber common pays yearly dividends of $5 a share. Earnings of this company have fluctuated widely, due to price changes in the rubber market. For the first half of 1929 Goodrich earned $4.09 a share on the common after preferred dividends, compared with a loss of $1,575,000 in the first six months of 1928.

The outlook for the early future is uncertain, owing principally to conditions in the automobile industry. Earnings for the full year 1929 are estimated at between $6.50 and $7 a share on the common, while it is believed that profits in the first half of 1930 may be smaller than those reported for the same time last year. The company does a large business in selling to automobile manufacturers and to dealers for replacement. Last year the company acquired the Hood Rubber Co. which turns out a large amount of rubber footwear and mechanical goods, tires and tubes. Goodrich is regarded as a speculative investment with fair prospects.

Standard Brands.

T. R.—I have 100 shares of Standard Brands, which I bought at 30. What is your opinion of the stock? Would you hold or sell?

Answer — Standard Brands is a speculative investment, but has good long-pull possibilities. The company has not been long in existence. All of the constituent companies, however, have been liberal dividend payers in the past. The stock at the present time pays $1.50 annually, and there appears to be no reason to sell it, as the management is of exceptionally fine caliber.

Atlantic Refining and Others.

E. H.—What can you tell me about Atlantic Refining, Texas Corporation, Oliver Farm Equipment preferred and United Gas Improvement? What territory does the U. G. I. cover?

Answer—Atlantic Refining pays $2 a year in dividends, which includes extras. Texas Corporation distributes $3 a year to stockholders. Oliver Farm Equipment preferred also carries a $3 annual dividend. United Gas & Improvement pays at the rate of 30 cents quarterly, or $1.20 yearly. The business of the U. G. I. is located chiefly near the North Atlantic seaboard.

Last October a stockholder of the Oliver Farm Equipment Co. filed a suit seeking to nullify a merger with other companies. The suit alleged that too much money was paid by the Oliver Farm Equipment Co. for the assets of some of the other concerns in the merger. This suit undoubtedly has had something to do with the decline in the value of the stock. The stock is more of a speculative investment than a conservative one. With regard to the other three, they may be regarded as investment securities.

Brazil Bonds; Richman Bros.

H. C. B.—What do you think of U. S. of Brazil 8s due in 1941 and Richman Brothers Co., of Cleveland stock selling around $80 a share and paying 3 per cent?

Answer—The standard rating of the U. S. of Brazil 8s of 1941 is "good." Richman Brothers is a manufacturer and retailer of men's clothing. Curb Review

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Major speculative activity in today's curb market was again on the upside, with the public utilities in the forefront of the advance. There were sufficient soft spots scattered throughout the list to give the market the appearance of irregularity at the close but the large declines were general in ordinarily inactive specialties.

Buying of the utilities was based on persistent but unconfirmed reports that several new alignments are in the making as a result of the renewal of merger discussions which were interrupted by the break last fall. Most of the leading operating companies also are showing a healthy increase in earnings, which has attracted some investment buying in that group. Two of the most important business and financial developments of the day were announced after the close, namely the increase of $48,000,000 in Federal reserve brokers' loans, and the decision of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co. to meet the cut in midcontinent crude recently put into effect by the Humble Co.

Electric Bond & Share returned to the leadership of the utilities by crossing 100 for the first time since last fall, closing 3¾ points higher at 101½ after having sold as high as 102¾. The stock touched 50 in the November break. American Superpower, Cities Service and several others also touched new highs for the year. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and Northern States Power A each jumped about 5 points.

National Investors, with a gain of 3 points, was the feature of the Investment Trust, Trading & Holding Co. group. Pennroad declined slightly, but most of the other active issues showed moderate gains.

Standard Oil of Ohio preferred was marked up 3¼ points, Cumberland Pipe 3, and Gulf Ohio Oil and Pacific Western about a point each, but Vacuum and Indian Territorial were heavy, the last named company announcing the discovery of another well. A 2-point gain in Aviation Corporation of the Americas was the only change of consequence in the airplane group. Aluminum Co. of America added 5 points to its recent gain, and Deere & Co. jumped 14.

New low records for the year were established by Amrad Corporation, Bentley Chain, New York & Hamburg and several others.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

MAYOR SMOOT QUITS DISTRICT HOME POST

Presence of Executive Duties Forces Alexandria Official to Resign Chairmanship.

M'KEEFRY RITES HELD

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mayor William Albert Smoot, at a special meeting of the city council yesterday, tendered his resignation as chairman and member of the board of the District Home, near Manassas, which was established several years ago to take care of the indigent of Alexandria and the counties of Culpeper, Fairfax, Fauquier and Prince William. Pressure of other duties and a desire to have more time to devote to his own business, were given by Mayor Smoot as his reasons for the resignation.

Mayor Smoot was mainly responsible for the establishment of the District Home three years ago, and had served as chairman of the original committee appointed to study the advisability of establishing the home, the first of its kind in the world. After the decision to build the homs was reached, he was named as the representative of the City of Alexandria on the board, and at the organization of the board he was made chairman, and has served as such since.

In his letter to the city council, Mayor Smoot called attention to the fact that this was the first consolidated home of its kind; that there are now three other similar homes in Virginia, and the plan is being studied by other States, with every indication that it will be adopted by several of them.

While there are many economies and advantages in this new system of caring for the poor of the cities and counties, he said, yet the outstanding advantage, in his opinion, is that it has proved, in the short time that these homes have been in existence, that much can be done for the inmates who are invalids or semiinvalids ,and that three of the four homes in Virginia have placed trained hospital managers in charge.

The mayor took occasion to express his appreciation to the other members of the board for their consistent courtesy to him, and particularly praised Arthur W. James, of the Virginia Board of Public Welfare, for his hard work and intelligent efforts for the success of the plan.

St. Mary's Catholic Church was crowded yesterday morning with children and many older persons at the special children's mass for the Rev. Father William A. McKeefry, pastor of the church, who died suddenly Tuesday morning from a heart attack.

The Rev. C. C. Kerr, vice chancellor of the archdiocese of Baltimore, delivered the funeral oration and spoke of Father McKeefry's long and illustrious career, reminding the children of the interest he had always taken in the schools. The celebrant of the mass was the Rev. Anthony Tohill, of Catholic University, Washington; the deacon, the Rev. L. J. Koster, of St. Rita's Church; the subdeacon, the Rev. J. J. Kelley, of St. Joseph's; the master of ceremonies, the Rev. J. O. Schmidhouser, of St. Mary's, and the assistant master of ceremonies, the Rev. T. E. Mitchell, of St. Mary's. Singing was by the regular choir.

At the mass to be held at 10 o'clock this morning, to which all of Father McKeefry's friends have been invited, the Right Rev. Andrew Brennan, bishop of the diocese, will pontificate, and the Rev. Bernard J. McKenna, of Leesburg, will act as master of ceremonies in place of the Rev. Hugh F. McFadden. Shortly after the church services the funeral party will leave in automobiles for Richmond, where interment will take place.

Active pallbearers, selected from societies of the parish, will be Herman Cady, Julian Downey, Thomas E. Dyson, M. R. O'Sullivan, Francis T. Quinn, James Callan, George Manger and Peter Schoeni.

The honorary pallbearers will be Mayor William Albert Smoot, Judge William P. Woolls, Thomas J. Fannon, the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, the Rev. Samuel A. Wallis, D. D.; Dr Martin D. Delaney, Dr. Edward A. Gorman, Malcolm Matheson, Urban S. Lambert, Claude M. Lennon, James T. Preston, sr., Dr. Thomas B. Cochran, John J. Kiger, Julian D. Knight, Nicholas J. Lawler, Eugene Igoe, Martin E. Greene, Patrick J. Conlon, Harry R. Burke, John D. Normoyle, Leo P. Harlow, Michael T. Dwyer, J. H. Crilly, E. A. Sweeley, Robinson Moncure, George F. Downham, R. A. McGahey, J. T. Minoughan, William H. Sweeney, Marshall M. Shuman, E. E. Lawler, jr., John W. Tulloch, Jefferson Aitcheson, J. W. Kraft, James R. Duncan, T. R. Dyson, R. F. Whitestone, Thomas Lannon, Robert F. Downham, J. Rea, Raymond Hellmuth, Frank R. Monroe and William P. Kelly, all of Alexandria; Clarence E. Martin, of Martinsburg, W. Va.; James Murray, John Crilly and M. B. Harlow, of Waashington, and J. O. Martin, of Falls Church.

The Citizens Association of Alexandria is the name adopted by the newly organized association which held its first regular meeting in the community hall in Potomac Wednesdny night, which was presided over by John Barton Phillips. The general purposes of the association, as outlined in its constitution and by-laws, are to work for the general betterment of conditions in the city, especially in the recently annexed territory which, according to President Phillips, can be accomplished through a discussion and study of questions pertaining to the section recently annexed, and advancing the result of such discussions and study through the proper channels for advancement and execution or completion.

The subjects discussed at this meeting were a general program for the organization to have as a goal the tax problem in its various relationships, especially the part of the taxes to be spent in the newly annexed territory during the next five years; zoning for the city in all of its varied phases; telephone rates, national legislation, such as the Cramton bill, and the gas question.

Other subjects added by various members were free textbooks in the public schools, investigation of the water rates, and the location of the liberal arts college for women to be placed in the State of Virginia. The chairman was authorized to appoint a committee of three to study the advisability of recommending free textbooks, and also a committee of three to study the water rates and report back to the association.

The association elected Richard B. Washington second vice president; Thomas McHugh, third vice president, and John Ronaldu, fourth vice president. The president will announce the appointment of three additional members of the executive committee shortly.

Announcement was made that Dr. J. J. Garvey, city sanitary officer, and his department are very anxious to do all they can to improve the sanitary conditions in this territory, stating that trash must be placed in accessible places, but not on the curb.

The association went on record as favoring the immediate abolishing of Hume Spring, which is in the center of Mount Vernon avenue and is a source of great danger to automobilists and pedestrians, several accidents having occurred at this point recently.

Mrs. Naomi P. Craver was appointed to attend the meetings of the City Council and to bring in a brief resume of the month's activities of the council at each meeting of the association. A motion was also carried to request the City Council to give publicity to an itemized account of expenses incurred incident to annexation.

The next meeting of the association will be held the fourth Monday in March, and a special invitation to attend will be extended to City Manager Wallace Lawrence.

Local Boy Scouts will hold a court of honor tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in the American Legion rooms in Gadsby's Tavern, when the awarding of merit badges and advancement in scout work will be the principal business. The court will be under the direction of Harry B. Caton, Everett Hellmuth, Dr. W. L. Schaeffer, Walter Pierpoint, John Strauss, James M. Duncan, jr., and Scout Leader William L. Leitch.

Fruit Producers In Annual Session

200 Growers in Attendance as West Virginia Meeting Begins.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 13.—More than 200 fruit growers from apple-producing counties in the eastern part of the State, with State Department of Agriculture officials and experts from the West Virginia College of Agriculture and extension division were present here today for the opening session of the thirty-seventh annual two-day meeting of the West Virginia Horticultural Society. The meeting continues through Friday, culminating with a banquet Friday night at which John Lee Coulter, chief economist with the U. S. Tariff Commission and former dean of the West Virginia College of Agriculture, will be the chief speaker.

Routine addresses on problems of common interest occupied the first day. President Ed Leatherman, of Rada, reporting on the work of the year, noted increasing competition in foreign markets with apples grown abroad, and warned growers that the new producers' emphasis upon first-class pack would have to be met with corresponding faithfulness of pack in America. Reports showed an increased membership in the West Virginia Society during the past year.

Changes in Church Work Rejected

Methodist Body Refuses Proposed Innovations in Education.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—All structural changes in the proposed general education plans of the Methodist Episcopal Church South were rejected today by a committee which was appointed at the last general conference in Memphis to study educational work of the church.

Favorable action upon the report of the committee by the next general conference, which meets in Dallas in May, would bring about the consolidation of three major boards of the denomination, all of which have headquarters in Nashville. They are the board of education, Sunday school board and the Epworth League board. The single board would have supervision of all educational work of the church in the United States.

The purpose of the educational committee was to devise a plan for unifying the educational work of the church, local and general, in order to prevent duplication and at the same time conserve all the educational values which have been developed by the separate organizations.

ARLINGTON LIBRARY NEEDS POINTED OUT

Larger Quarters to Be Urged at Executive Committee Meeting Monday.

BONNEY RITES PLANNED

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The need for larger quarters for the Arlington District Public Library, located in Clarendon, will be the principal business which will come before a meeting of the executive committee Monday night, according to an announcement made yesterday by Miss N. J. Chase, librarian.

The library opened six years ago in a small room in the Clarendon Citizens Hall, with a total of 200 volumes.

The first day, according to Miss Chase, there were sixteen books distributed. Today there are more than 9,000 volumes, hardly leaving room for the children to come to get books. The number of books distributed on Tuesdays and Fridays, the days the library is open, has reached a total of 150.

The library was compelled to close for one year because of lack of funds.

The library is now supported from funds donated by the several organizations, but according to Miss Chase, unless more rooms are provided there will not be room to place the books now stored in large bags now lying on the floor.

The county board of supervisors will hold a public hearing today at the courthouse on the zoning ordinance which, after several months of effort on the part of the zoning commission, has been approved by the commission, and is now before the supervisors for its final adoption.

It is expected that there will be considerable opposition to sections of the ordinary as now prepared which provide for the erection of apartment houses. Another clause which will be discussed will be that which refers to the housing of livestock.

Allen J. Saville, of Richmond, zoning engineer who assisted in the preparation of the ordinance, will attend the hearing and explain it in detail.

Funeral services for Herman L. Bonney, 36, who died at his home, 600 Poplar avenue, Clarendon, yesterday morning, will be conducted at the Clarendon Baptist Church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, by the pastor, the Rev. Perry L. Mitchell. Burial will be in Columbia Gardens Cemetery, Clarendon.

Besides his widow he is survived by one son, Herman L. Bonney, jr.

Flames leaping high in the air early yesterday morning from an unoccupied house near the property of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps Country Club brought out the county firemen. The damages were estimated at $2,000.

The fire had gained such headway the firemen were powerless to save the property. The house was said to belong to Andrew Graham.

Harry K. Green, past master of Columbia Lodge, No. 285, A. F. and A. M., was elected grand senior warden of the Grand Lodge of Masons in Virginia at the annual session of the grand lodge in Richmond yesterday.

Mr. Green became one of the officers of the grand lodge three years ago.

Fire of unknown origin, breaking out in the shed in the rear of the home of William Veitch near the Robert E. Lee School on the Lee highway last night, was quickly extinguished by neighbors.

A large delegation from Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., attended the meeting of the Falls Church Lodge last night.

The Waverly Hills Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold its fifth silver medal contest and memorial to the late Frances Willard at the Mount Olivet Methodist Protestant Church in Ballston Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

Seven girls will compete in the declamation contest and violin selections will be presented by Herbert Byrd, of Cherrydale.

The memorial address will be delivered by Mrs. Frank L. Ball.

According to an announcement last night by G. Frank Allwine, chief of the Jefferson District Fire Department, his department has accepted the invitation to take part in the parade in Alexandria, Saturday, February 22. The new American LaFrance engine will be entered in the parade.

Cherrydale Council, No. 11, Daughters of America, will hold its monthly meeting tonight in the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon.

The executive committee of the Arlington County Chember of Commerce will hold a special luncheon meeting today at 12 o'clock at the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon. All members are asked to attend.

Representative Edward M. Beers, of Pennsylvania, is announced as the principal speaker at the meeting of the East Potomac Federation of the Baptist Young People's Union in the Cherrydale Baptist Church Tuesday night, February 25, at 8 o'clock.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the James Monroe School announces it will hold a bake sale today at the schoolhouse from 12 to 2:30 o'clock.

The monthly meeting of the county board of supervisors will be held Saturday morning at the courthouse at 10 o'clock. County Engineer C. L. Kinnier will submit a proposal for the installation of a county-wide modern sewage system.

35 MEASURES PASS IN VIRGINIA SENATE

House Votes Favorably on Workmen's Compensation Act, 58 to 32.

VICTORY FOR GOVERNOR

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 13.—The Virginia Legislature went wild today, and while the House was passing, 58 to 32, the workmen's compensation act, the Senate passed 35 bills, including 8 important seafood bills, the pilotage bill and the racial integrity bill, which would define a colored person any person with any ascertainable degree of Negro blood except Virginia Indians, who remain tribal Indians so long as they have no more than one-sixteenth Negro blood and remain on their reservations.

The House recommitted the Lesner State-wide automobile driver's permit bills, when Delegate Ashton Dovell, of Williamsburg, said that in this "attempt to further regulate people of Virginia," a fuller hearing should be accorded. The Hall chain store tax bill that would impose an additional $50 tax was reported favorably by the House finance committee, by a vote of 11 to 6.

The workmen's compensation act, raising the maximum compensation allowable from $12 to $14 and the percentage of average weekly wage from 50 to 55 per cent passed with but little argument, following a bitter fight yesterday, and a week of intense activity during which Gov. Pollard, whose campaign pledge it was, issued two statements urging its passage and denouncing efforts of lobbyists to kill it.

Lesner Bill Dismissed.

In the Senate the racial integrity bill, which provoked a considerable fight, went through unanimously, as did the pilotage bill, which was a compromise measure providing, in the last analysis, little the pilots do not have now save the right to go before the State corporation commission oftener than once every two years.

Senators Noell, Stubbs and Wickham were the only dissenters to the codification of game laws, which provides for full-time salaried game wardens in place of fee officers and many relatively minor changes in the game laws of the State, while Senators Garrett and Kendig only voted against the judicial council measure, which would eliminate the jury service exemption heretofore given persons more than 60 years of age.

The Senate, which yesterday refused to dismiss from the calendar Senator Lesner's real estate commission bill, reconsidered today and struck it from the calendar. Senator Chalkley said that he would introduce a bill eliminating from the present code the provision that makes it unlawful for one person to sell real estate for another. A bill to simplify the indictment form for murder and manslaughter cases was passed.

Constabulary Measure Dropped.

New legislation continued to pour in as the dead line for general bills set for Saturday approached, and among the more important measures, besides two that would provide new means of building a Norfolk-Portsmouth tunnel, was one introduced by Senators Smith, Louisa, and Lesner that would increase the size of the State highway commission from five to ten, one from each congressional district, the chairman to be considered the representative of the third district. Another by Senator Noell would provide that the governing board of the Virginia Military Institute might be selected from the State at large.

The State constabulary measure has been practically dropped by its sponsor, Senator Chalkley, who yesterday became patron of a bill to add 22 inspectors to the department of motor vehicles.

The Dovell bill, providing for the nomination of officers by any political party, if desired, charter prohibitions notwithstanding, will be reached by the House today. It is on second reading and, according to all outward appearances, destined to passage in the House, which has been informed on many sides that the political situation in Norfolk is not so good from a Democratic viewpoint in view of the nonpartisan provision in the charter.

Boy Burned by Firing Of Blank in Revolver

Painful burns about the left hand were suffered by Robert Connor, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Connor, of 220 Alleghany avenue, Takoma Park, yesterday afternoon at Fifth and Quackenbos streets northwest in the accidental discharge of a .32-caliber revolver loaded with blank cartridges.

The youth was walking home from the Junior High School at Seventh and Peabody streets with several companions when the revolver discharged while he was taking it from its owner. He was given first aid at Walter Reed Hospital and later treated at Emergency Hospital.

MOTORIST BATTLES SHERIFF AND DEPUTY

Kirby Says Herndon Man Drank Rubbing Alcohol; Is Held in Jail.

STILL FOUND DURING RAID

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

Thornton Cissel, of Herndon, was arrested by Sheriff E. P. Kirby and Deputy Sheriff Vernon Cockerill in Herndon for allegedly driving while drunk. Sheriff Kirby said he noticed what he deemed peculiar actions of Cissell while driving his car. When Sheriff Kirby approached the car and tried to place him under arrest, he was obliged, he said, to call his deputy. He was taken to the Fairfax Jail, where a doctor was summoned and for some time his condition was so serious that it was not thought he would recover.

On investigation Sheriff Kirby claims he discovered that the man had taken a drink of rubbing alcohol and had been poisoned by it. He is being held in the Fairfax County Jail on a driving while drunk charge.

eputy Sheriff Henry Magarity, of this county, accompanied by Sergt. Edgar Simms and Policeman Baker, of Alexandria, while searching for stolen goods yesterday afternoon, made a raid on the home of Gardner Arnold at New Alexandria. There they said they found a complete 50-gallon still ready for operation in the basement of the house together with other paraphernalia for manufacturing whisky. Twelve half-gallon jars of alleged liquor, several barrels of mash and a large quantity of sugar and meal were reported found on the second floor. Arnold was arrested and charged with possession of a still and ardent spirits. The still and alleged liquor were brought to Fairfax and the rest of the goods and mash destroyed. Arnold was held for action of the grand jury at the March term of court under a $500 bond.

Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby was called to Franconia late Thursday night, and there he arrested Harry Krause for alleged possession of liquor. Krause had just been released from the State road force a few days ago, where he had been serving time for driving while drunk. He was taken before Justice of the Peace John B. Dowden at Baileys Cross Roads and charged with a second offense violation of the State prohibition law. The highway committee of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce at its meeting in the chamber's office in Fairfax voted to join with several of the organizations of the Mount Vernon District in asking that the Legislature grant State aid for construction of a highway from the entrance of Mount Vernon to the Washington-Richmond highway near Accotink. The committee, the county board of supervisors and the county engineer will draft a bill to be submitted to the Legislature.

The committee also plans to ask for improvement of Telegraph road from Penn Daw Hotel, south of Alexandria, to the Little River turnpike, near Lincolnia.
